Beta Iota Installed

• • • Arizona Fifty-seventh Chapter

THE fifty-seventh chapter of Delta Zeta Sorority was installed at the University of Arizona, Tucson, Arizona, on December 13. The group, pledged last fall, was well informed in Delta Zeta lore, due to the untiring efforts on the part of several Delta Zetas, residents of Tucson, who have been working with the group.

The University of Arizona is, of course, a state university, accredited by both sectional crediting agencies and the Carnegie Foundation. Mrs. Frederick D. Smith, Past National Second Vice-President, during her term of office, worked untiringly with and for this group as she has been extremely interested in the growth and progress made by this university.

From the formal petition of the group we gain some interesting data concerning this institution.

The Act of Legislative Assembly authorizing the formation of the University of Arizona was passed in 1885. By 1890 three of the departments for which it provided, the College of Agriculture, the College of Mines and Engineering, and the Agricultural Experiment Station were organized, and in 1891 the university was opened with a faculty of eight professors and instructors. Thirty-one students matriculated in that year, only nine being of college rank. All departments at that time were housed in Old Main.

From these beginnings the university advanced slowly for the first twenty years of its history. The enrollment in the preparatory department exceeded that in the university proper, and the number of university graduates was never more than ten a year.

This long germinal period was followed by a decade of rapid expansion. The Territory had become a State; high schools had multiplied, and the preparatory department was accordingly closed. The attendance in the university increased eightfold in ten years. New departments were formed, the faculty was enlarged, and campus improvements on a larger and more permanent scale were begun with the erection of Arizona Hall and the Agriculture Building for which appropriations were made in 1911 and 1912, respectively. The Swimming Pool, the Mines and Engineering Building, Mechanics Arts Building, the Berger Memorial Fountain, Maricopa Hall, the Steward Observatory, and Cochise Hall were built in quick succession. The College of Letters, Arts, and Sciences was established, and the several colleges segregated under individual deans.

In the year 1916 the University of Arizona was placed on the accredited list of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. A survey of the university was made by the Bureau of Education of the Department of the Interior in the spring of 1922. This report summed up the development of the university as follows: "The people of Arizona must realize that their institution is no longer the high school of early years, or even the simple college of twenty years ago, but that it is a real state university, comparing favorably in scope with the higher educational systems of most of the other states of the Union.

Since this survey, a College of Education, a College of Law, a College of Music, and a School of Military Science and Tactics have been established. The Association of American Universities placed the University of Arizona on its list of approved colleges in November, 1924.

Some Arizona Facts

DURING the year 1929-30 there were 2,164 students registered in the University of Arizona. Of that number 1,324 were men and 840 were women. There were also over 1,000 students registered in correspondence and extension courses.

The great majority of students enrolled were residents of the state of Arizona, but there were representatives from over 25 other states and eight foreign countries. The countries represented were China, Russia, Mexico, France, Egypt, Austria, South Africa, and Philippine Islands.

One hundred and seventy professors, not including several part-time lecturers, compose the teaching staff of the university.

In the class of 1930 thirty-four persons received advanced degrees, 248 received bachelor degrees, and twenty-five men received commissions in the Cavalry Reserves, U. S. Army.

The university campus comprises 72 acres. The campus has its own water supply system for fire protection, irrigation, laboratory, and domestic purposes. This water is drawn from deep wells with a capacity of 1,500 gallons a minute.

The lands, paving, buildings, and contents on the campus are valued at $3,065,450. Property other than on the campus is valued at $345,894.95. The total value of the university property is $3,430,360.

Arizona's new athletic plant is the largest and most serviceable in the West. The valuation of the plant, including stadium, fields, gymnasium, and baseball stands, is over three hundred thousand dollars. The slogan "Bear Down" which appears on the roof of the gymnasium, was bequeathed to the student body by former President John (But-ton) Salmon, deceased.

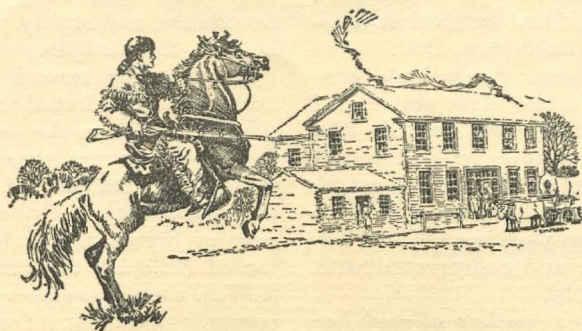

The letter "A" which is on Sentinel Peak, west of the City of Tucson, was built by the student body in 1915, following a football victory over Pomona College. The blocks were added to the letter in the spring of 1922.

The name "Wildcats" was first suggested for Arizona teams by a story in one of the Los Angeles newspapers following a football game with Occidental College. Although Arizona lost this game by a narrow margin, the team was given credit for having "Fought like Wildcats."

History of Iota Lambda Rho *

IN THE fall of 1927 a small group of girls of the University of Arizona campus banded together with the purpose in mind of founding a sorority. This group was to be known as Iota Lambda Rho. Correspondence with Delta Zeta disclosed the presence of one of its alumnae Edna G. Wrench, in Tucson. Mrs. Wrench entered the work with enthusiasm, forming a nucleus for colonization. The girls were Mildred Eddins, Helen Ellicutt, Dorothy Krebs, Clarice Devere, Josephine Rodgers, Frances Kohler, Maybell Kaley, Mary Peters, Cordelia Caldwell, Clara Larson, Elouise Houston, and Mary Ellen Campbell.

In the fall of 1928 a new president, Dr. Shantz, had just taken office and did not feel well enough acquainted with campus conditions to act to the extent of recommending an existent group to a national sorority. He appointed the "Student Activity Committee," consisting of the registrar, dean of men, dean of women, and several heads of departments. The petition was turned over to this committee but was acted upon unfavorably as they had not formulated a definite policy for action on matters of this kind. They formulated policies but since these remained flexible, each time the group made the requirements set by the committee, others were added to the list.

The girls worked steadily in spite of discouragement. Grades were brought up and every girl entered as many activities as possible.

Mrs. Devere, mother of one of the members, rented a house and took in eight of the girls. Each Monday night all town girls took dinner at the "house" and the regular business meeting was held after dinner. This venture proved quite successful.

In the spring the girls of Iota Lambda Rho undertook filling a box to send to the Delta Zeta School at Vest, Kentucky. With characteristic enthusiasm the girls brought together many useful articles with the result that two boxes were sent.

Several national sororities approached the group asking that they drop Delta Zeta and petition them but the girls refused to consider the idea at all.

Throughout the year many social functions were held, including rush parties, teas, dinners, bridge parties, a Christmas party, picnics, and an informal spring dance.

Another petition was submitted but the committee decided to hold it until fall when they promised it would be granted in time for Iota Lambda Rho to participate in rush week as a recognized local sorority. In the meantime, however, the dean of women resigned and her place was filled by Evelyn Willington Jones of Washington, D.C.

Dean Jones found Panhellenic conditions in rather a bad state and would not consider admitting Iota Lambda Rho until rushing rules and general conditions on the campus had been established. She advised the girls to hold together and to keep working. They followed this advice and co-operated with the dean constantly.

Carol Courtney's mother offered her house for meetings as the group believed it inadvisable to again maintain a house before recognition was granted.

Through the long period of organization the following Delta Zetas gave their help: Mrs. E. G. Wrench, University of Colorado, assistant county school superintendent, corresponding secretary of Sigma Phi Gamma, secretary of Business and Professional Women's Club; Miss Kathleen Westmoreland of University of Southern California, a graduate of University of Arizona in 1929, teacher in Tucson; Mrs. Chester D. Smith, University of Iowa, Operator of Pre-school, husband a U. of A. faculty member in College of Law; Miss Josephine Haggard, Washington University, attending U. of A.; Mrs. Frederick Nave, University of California, graduate of U. of A., Sunshine Nursery Club, Junior Women's Club. The Iota Lambda Rho girls feel that through the high ideals of leadership and womanhood instilled in them by these Delta Zetas, they were able to establish the firm foundation and strong position they now hold on the campus.

During this second semester nearly every girl was elected to one or more important offices on the campus. Some of these offices were president of Varsity Villagers, president of Alpha Epsilon, vice-president of Alpha Epsilon, president of Sigma Alpha Iota, feature editor of Wildcat, treasurer of Art Club, A.W.S. council member for Varsity Villagers, president freshman council, swimming captain, hiking leader, recording secretary of W.A.A., secretary of Math Club; Louise Milligan, 1930 graduate, was elected faculty member and Betty Struthers was given a chemistry assistantship. Besides these activities and many others Iota Lambda Rho had the highest group average on the campus last semester although not eligible for the scholarship cup.

The petition presented at the beginning of the fall semester and tabled by the dean of women was acted upon favorably and our president was notified by the secretary of the student activity committee that official recognition was granted May 15, 1930. The Delta Zeta alumnae of Tucson gave a banquet for the Iota Lambda Rho girls in honor of their campus recognition. Pledging to Delta Zeta followed in September.

Beta Iota Installation

By Lisette Reinle

BY THE use of numerology one can divine in the numerals of 1930 the lurking menace of thirteen. To many it has brought its ill-omen but beginning with the Thirteenth Biennial Lucky Convention of Delta Zeta in Madison in July the jinx was cast aside and joy, achievement, and thrills were to come to Delta Zeta throughout the rest of the year.

On September 13 the local sorority, Iota Lambda Rho was pledged to Delta Zeta and on December 13 the pledges were formally installed as Beta Iota Chapter of Delta Zeta, bringing the total number of active chapters to fifty-seven. We were told that the events of the three days of installation also numbered thirteen. We didn't count, so will let it go at that.

Mrs. Carl Malott, national president of Delta Zeta, arrived on Thursday from San Antonio, Texas, to act as chief installing officer. Mrs. Merrill Wrench, Alpha Lambda, and Mrs. Chester Smith, Iota, who were sponsoring the new chapter in its preparation, met Mrs. Malott and the business of the next few days began in earnest.

On Friday morning the mothers' club had a breakfast for Mrs. Malott at the home of Mrs. Kohler, mother of Frances Kohler, who was prominent in leading and developing the local group for recognition on the campus. Our appreciation of the help of Mrs. Kohler and Frances was expressed by the presentation of Delta Zeta mother's pin to Mrs. Kohler by Mrs. Malott. The mothers gave Mrs. Malott a souvenir rose vase of Arizona copper. The new girls are fortunate in having about fifteen mothers in their club.

The wife of the president of the university, Mrs. Homer Shantz, and Dean Evelyn Jones entertained at luncheon in honor of Mrs. Malott and Miss Sarah Sturtevant of Columbia University.

And now, quoting from a letter of Mrs. Malott's to members of the national council, "Then at six o'clock that night I went to the chapter house for dinner to meet the girls. They were lovely. The house is a small aeroplane bungalow in a beautiful yard of palms and pepper trees. The housemother, Mrs. Powell, is charming. At eight-thirty all Delta Zetas went to Lois Smith's to practice. Meantime we received a wire from Vesta McAllister and Mary Louise Hood, the two Alpha Chi girls who inspected the chapter last year, that they were driving through and would arrive in the morning to help. We practiced until eleven and then I went to bed. Lisette arrived at 1:30 A.M."

Next morning when the Delta Zetas assembled at the lovely new home of Lois Smith for initiation service we numbered thirteen, representing Alpha Chi, Alpha Iota, Alpha Epsilon, Alpha Lambda, Delta, Kappa, Iota, Phi, Mu, and Zeta Chapters.

When the banquet hour arrived there were seventeen proud new "bearers of the Lamp." The banquet was held at the Santa Rita Hotel. Lucille Collins, the president of the new chapter, was toastmistress, introducing the speakers, who developed the theme "A Dream Come True."

The Legend of the Loving Cup was told by Lisette Reinle, national second vice-president, and the cup was presented to Beta Iota from Zeta Province by Edna Wrench, secretary-treasurer of the province.

A beautiful experience to all present was the reading of the messages of love and friendship sent from Delta Zetas from all parts of the United States.

Sunday was filled to the brim, installation of new officers of Beta Iota, first business meeting of the chapter with Lucille Collins presiding and Mrs. Malott and Miss Reinle as guests, the presentation tea from two to five o'clock at the house, initiation of alumnae members into the alumnae association, and a Sunday night supper at the home of Lois Smith.

Monday the national officers had conferences with university professors, went sight-seeing with Edna Wrench and had personal conferences with the girls and were delightfully entertained at the house by the pledges, six darlings, who served a typically Mexican dinner in true native style, frijoles, tortillas, enchiladas, tamales, Mexican rice, and pineapple. A gay senorita and a dashing toreador served at the tables.

At seven, Lisette, who hated to leave this scene of happiness and love, had to go on her way again to California.

Mrs. Malott stayed on until Wednesday, visiting with the girls and giving invaluable assistance from her great wealth of Delta Zeta knowledge and experience to start them on their way toward becoming the ideal sorority chapter.

And so, the Dream Came True, and as the story goes, "They lived happily ever after."

My Impression

of Installation

WAS it a dream? Or am I still dreaming? I was so happy—and am so happy—for it really was a Dream Come True.

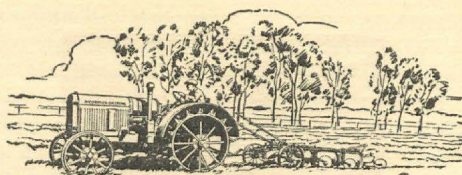

Excited and nervous I walked slowly into the room, supported by firm arms. All was so peaceful and quiet, and then—soft sweet music that made something choke up within me. Now voices, voices I had heard before but not nearly so sweet as now. My first impression was Heaven! Finally looking about I was almost sure. I looked directly into the beautiful face of Myrtle Graeter Malott, then into the sweet face of Lisette Reinle, who had just given me the vow.

Turning and looking into all the dear familiar faces around me brought tears. It was so wonderful, I cannot describe the feeling within me, but why should I try, for haven't we all experienced it together?

Roses so fragrant . . . congratulations . . . all leaving sweet memories that I shall never forget.

JOSEPHINE V. RODGERS

From a Would-be Agriculturist

By Muriel (Cowslip) Fletcher, Beta Alpha

THERE are Delta Zeta probation officers, mayors, missionaries, draftswomen, etc. etc., but I haven't yet heard of any Delta Zeta agriculturalists (the high-hat name for farmer!) cropping out among us. I have hopes of becoming such when I receive a B.S. in Agriculture next June, having struggled through four years in a class which started out with eleven boys and one girl and ends with four of the weaker sex and still one girl, showing how much more perseverance women possess.

When I started taking the course I had fully decided to become a fruit grower, and have in turn been seized with an urge to become a dairywoman, olericulturist, floriculturist, horticulturist, and veterinarian (these names are put in the catalog to make the course sound difficult), and once an English teacher, when I had to go out on a cold, rainy day and prune apple trees. However, for any girl who really enjoys being out of doors, likes animals, isn't afraid of a little manual labor, can climb a tree, get along well with the opposite sex, and has a desire to enter some line of work other than the usual teaching, secretarial work, research work, and the usual run of A.B. and B.S. graduate positions, agriculture offers an excellent opportunity.

Of course, in addition to actual farm ownership and management there are many opportunities for other lines of work—dairy council work in schools, government work in Washington or in different states, extension work in demonstrating, and countless other lines. It is a field which is not overcrowded, and the girl taking agriculture will find college a good deal more interesting, broadening, and different from her home economics sisters. I wouldn't exchange it for all the home economics courses in existence, and I hope that in the years to come Delta Zeta will be well represented in one of the most fascinating professions in the world.

The Measure of a Fraternity

MEMBER

Written for N.P.C. Publicity Committee

By Bertha C. Gardner

Grand President Zeta Tau Alpha

THE relative importance in qualities desirable in the social and spiritual makeup of a fraternity member has long been a subject of spirited thought and debate, and yet the selection of such essential qualities for the purpose of discussion is more difficult than it seems.

In the eyes of all of us there stands upon the horizon the ideal fraternity girl . . . who will become the strong fraternity woman of tomorrow, and we who are jealous of the destinies of the fraternity seek her as we seek the choicer blossoms of the June garden for the bouquet. And just as we make possible the finer blossoms through selection, we must use the same means to make of the fraternity bouquet our most heartfelt ideal. The ideal girl has certain definite attributes which we are agreed upon; still there are further fine delineations necessary to clarify the exact meaning of the qualities we have chosen. If a questionnaire were to be sent to all members over America asking them to list the elements of character which, in their opinion, they thought paramount to meet fraternity standards, and to rank them in the order of their importance, there would be a varied and most interesting compilation of answers, and one would then have created indeed the portrait of the ideal fraternity girl. Even though her colors would be rich and she would stand out sharply from the canvas, still one could find this very charming lass in the fraternity houses of our universities. From the pages of the questionnaire, would come an unanimity of choice of certain characteristics.

Let us for a moment discuss, as though the answers were before us, the essentials necessary for a girl to qualify as a real fraternity woman. To me, these group themselves in four essentials. They are family background, the girl's scholarship, her ideals, and her honesty. To create the great fraternity body which we seek, the girl must certainly come from families of true worth. Naturally a construction may be placed upon the word, yet the hearthstone of the family of standing is well defined, and family blood speaks a clear language. Here will arise leadership, which we need, and here will be prestige. So let us add this valuable blossom to our fraternity bouquet:

We demand good scholarship records of our candidates. To me that is another prime necessity. By no means do we seek prodigies in the academic classroom, but rather ambitious, persistent students, and probably above everything else, the young woman with a clear objective, that most sparkling stone of the cluster.

The objective is closely akin to the ideal. Choose for your candidate the young woman with ideals. She will be the Jane Addams of tomorrow, the Florence Nightingale of the useful years to come. Ideals, of course, are the things which govern our lives. They are the things which mould personalities, and to cause others to form opinions of us. The ideals we hold for our fraternities will fashion and shape them for the future just as they have in the past. Honesty, in the broad sense, is an outstanding necessity—inherent honesty. As I might interpret it, it causes us to be generous, to be democratic, to be social, to be tolerant—and we find in that word an important thought to be considered in choosing the fraternity girl—and to be co-operative. This term may appear to be overplayed, for it runs through the entire social thread today, but we may apply it with grace and profit.

Should we find an ideal member, combined with these essentials, she would possess leadership, personality, optimism, tact, health, and I hardly need add, an appreciation of spiritual development. And she is here with us, this girl of the idealist's canvas, this perfect flower in our bouquet. She is here in such numbers, critics to the contrary notwithstanding, as never before. You will find her if you just look around the corner. You see her! . . . and isn't she sweet in her gown of culture with its jabot of scholarship, a broad, flaming sash of ideals, and a train of inherent honesty? I see her in real life, walking up over the horizon and melting into the mystic figure of the girl who was our ideal but whom perhaps some of us thought was but a dream.

Thoughts . . . of a Province Officer at Budget Time

. . . By Annette Steel Ladd

BBUDGET! Budget! who has a budget? Fifteen to be gathered from the far corners of the province. When shall I begin? How many have I? One, two . . . ten. Which are missing? There! all those are recorded as "in." Now what use is there in just this "income sheet"? It would be nice to have no expenses! Well, that one will have to be returned—

Now what is the meaning of this? Dues three dollars! Does that include the per-capita tax? Dances five hundred dollars! How they do have to pay the piper! No allowance for supplies or convention—Guess this chapter will not have a vote at next convention if they are not going to send anyone. Well, for corrections.

This budget will be easy to check! No board nor house departments. They do not seem to have much social instinct—only three dollars for social functions.

I wonder how many times I have explained to this chapter about this per-capita tax. I think I will ask each chapter to include in their pledge exam a little per-capita formula.

Now look at this board department. This chapter only cats—it does not use fuel or have laundry done. I wonder if they have forgotten the water rent? It was on their last year's budget. It is a good thing they have a large surplus on their income sheet, for when their expenses are corrected the surplus will be needed.

Now let's see where we stand. Ten budgets in all which must go back for corrections or explanations; that means ten letters. Five letters must be written to find out why no budgets have been sent and how soon the missing sister will awaken to the fact that budget-time is here. Well that will get the budget ball rolling—but when will it arrive at its resting place, the central office?

*I think I've had enough of challenging
Now I've met you
And despite past escapades I Plan to be true;*

*I'm sure I've done my last adventuring,
Without a doubt,
And certainly I'm through with moonlit paths.
Well—just about.*

Looking for Trouble

By Hill Ferguson

PANDORA, you will recall, was the young miss of ancient days, who opened a box entrusted to her care by somebody who should have known better, thereby turning loose on the world all the troubles that have plagued mankind since that time.

History doesn't tell much about this girl, but I daresay had she lived in the present day, she would be an attractive sophomore or junior in one of our big universities—more sophisticated than a freshman, but not so wise as a senior. There are plenty of modern co-eds that could double for Pandora with great credit.

Pandora probably shed a few scalding tears, when shortly thereafter her boy friend broke a date and somebody spilled a cup of colored nectar on her new party robe, and she realized fully just what was in store for her, and her family, and friends.

I doubt, however, if she ever analyzed the nature of the pests she had unloosed—that one-half of them were real unavoidable troubles, and the other half were perfectly harmless if we let them alone, but as mean as hornets when they are sought out and stirred into action.

In these fifty or sixty centuries since Pandora, we've been making wonderful progress in getting rid of that first class of troubles, such as ignorance, famine, unemployment, and now the experts have abolished yellow fever and are promising to do away forever with leprosy. Even war itself is threatened.

But the other troubles—the bumblebee kind that mind their own business until we look for them and stir them into action—I wonder if we are making any real progress in letting these pests alone?

For instance the sixty-mile-per-hour youth has Old Man Trouble himself riding along on the hood of his car!

And the convivial soul out to beat old Bacchus at his own game, has a whole flock of Pandora's pests following him twenty-four hours a day.

Then in every college there are a dozen or more young men whose very names are synonymous with trouble. They are dangerous playfellows. There are probably an equal number of girls in the same college whom this description fits equally as well. The answer is easy.

Why try to enumerate all those other troubles we acquire through lazy minds, lazy bones, and lazy morals?

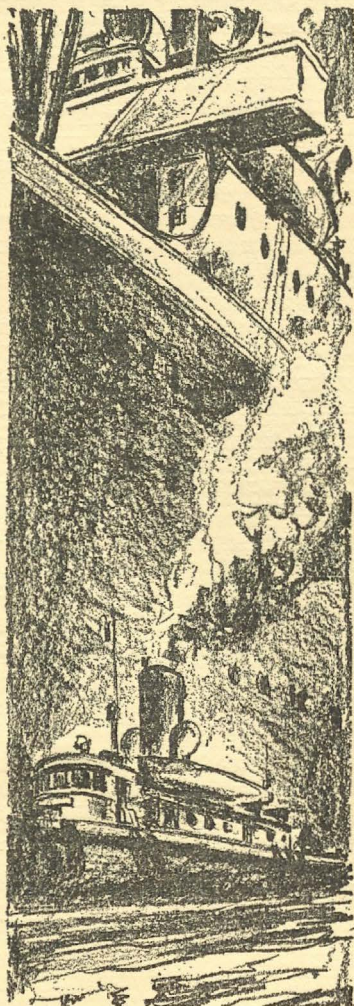

But you say, it's worth the price. The thrill of a football game justifies every knock and bruise the player gets. A dance until three o'clock is full pay for all the dull hours of the morning after!!

Those are just the thorns that go with the roses. The kind of troubles we are talking about are those that follow inferiority complexes and plain general cussedness—acts that have no compensation to balance the resulting grief.

Think it over. Exactly one-half of your troubles are useless, easily avoidable and not worth the candle. Don't look for them.—The Delta of Sigma Nu England by private automobile . . . Devon and Cornwall; the beautiful Wye Valley; the Shakespeare country and Oxford. Holland . . . the historic Rhine . . . the Black Forest by motor . . . the Alps by motor . . . Italy . . . the Northern resorts . . . the Hill towns by motor . . . Rome . . . the Rivas . . . Carcassonne (the 'Jewel of Southern France') . . . and eight happy days in Paris."

The cost of the trip including all transportation, rooms and meals in hotels, transfers to stations, handling one piece of baggage, tips at hotels, sight-seeing and side trips as outlined in itinerary including guides and admissions, is $865. We tell you we're just simply Covered with shame.

(*The rest of you birds profit by our mistake. It's "a" as in "ah." The "g" is silent as in celery or dry toast.)

We have a grudge this month, too. We mustn't forget that. It's this "personal history" business the national guard is after. Here we've just begun to shake the dust of college days off our feet, and feel all nicely stowed away into oblivion, and here comes a card from the corresponding secretary, asking for "personal history."

Well now listen, national, it's personal and that's all there is to it. What business has the national to go prying around among our skeletons, anyway? "How often do you bathe daily? Are you married? If so, do you have other dates? And how about the husband, is he self-supporting or have you put him on a pension, or do you hang him on a trellis? Is he a hardy perennial or do you stow him away in the cellar over winter? How many pairs of shoes have you? What magazines do you take, or have you quit shop-lifting? How many times did you run for president when you were in school? Ever get him? And so on." NATIONAL, we say hands off! Our personal history is our per —, or well, we might as well come out with it.

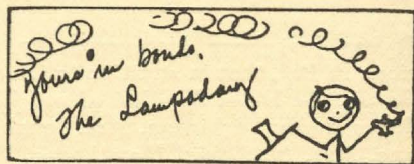

The Lampadary's personal history is as follows: 1. We were born. (That is, we believe we were, although we do not remember it distinctly.) 2. We grew up. We became a Delta Zeta, graduated from Such and Such University in 19-so-and-so. 3. We were very fond of Betty Brown and Martha Krogman, both Delta Zetas. 4. We went to work. 5. Eventually we married Tiko, our husband and they lived happily after. 6. We have never been in jail. We do not drink, dance, smoke, play poker, or dress, in church. Now, get out!

Upon my soul, this library business again! It's time to settle this book business for good and all. Here's Marian Humble (Humble? and a Tri Delt? We don't believe it!) talking about books in the January number and we remember that G M L once wrote something about a sorority library. What does a college sorority want with a library anyway? The girls are too busy rustling funds for a memorial campaign, or for their own personal interior decorating, or conferring with the dean of women, to use a library. Beside, now, honestly, I don't believe there's a single girl in Delta Zeta who hasn't read a book before she came to college. If there is, she has no business there.

The only books a sorority needs are these: the telephone book, well marked; the date-book; Sears, Roebuck's catalog; (a Christmas present from the chapter in some trade school) a cook book, well thumbed and spotted (this to impress the boy friends), and last, a new and harder and more inclusive freshman study book.

Now that's settled and we don't want to hear any more about sorority libraries.

We swole up with pride when we saw all those good-looking houses, among them being one we just narrowly missed living in. . . . We thought Pease's Porridge was worth an extra bowlfull. . . . In fact, we were all settled down to enjoy reading the whole LAMP, hook, line, and sinker, until we found that poem by Frances Lusk's on page 99. Ah, me, Frances, and thou, too, Brutus! How I can sympathize—"I saw you, Pan, I heard you call." We remembered with a horrible stab of guilt that we had left a whole tableful of pans out in the kitchen, and suddenly we heard them all calling . . . calling . . . calling . . . (un poco riten . . .) . . . calling (diminuendo) . . . and so we got up from the typewriter and went out to interview the pans, and hence this all the Smoke for this time. Amen. Will the ushers please come forward?

Even in Bugs!

By Alice Tew, Beta Alpha

BUGS are an extremely interesting hobby, and I have learned in my college classes what a debt of gratitude I owe to them. In psychology, for instance, I learned that my moths and butterflies were victims of my "hunting age." I have a mental picture of a small girl in a gingham dress and Mary Janes tracking ferocious hairy caterpillars to their lairs. In child care I realized the wisdom of my mother in allowing me to collect what I desired. To have it thwarted would probably have brought me to dire ends!

Even economics was linked with bugs, for it taught me the real satisfaction which they brought me. Just recently in an educational course have I realized the chance which teachers took in making me write compositions about cats and horses instead of allowing me to write about my pet subject, so in order to express my "suppressed desire," I am taking this opportunity to write one.

Having stated my purpose, allow me to take you on a field trip. In this region (Rhode Island), there are many varieties of moths and butterflies, but the cocoons for which the amateur should look are the dangling cradles of the Promethea. On a wild cherry tree we find three or four of the little winter homes. Notice especially how well the leaf has been attached to the twig so as to keep it secure when autumn comes. Then notice how strong the fibers are and how well the caterpillar has tucked himself in. Most wonderful of all, however, is the thought that inside this snug little bundle a marvelous change is going on. An ugly, scaly, caterpillar is becoming a gorgeous black moth—the Black Prince—whose smooth dusky coat is lined with red, and whose black wings have tiny red finger marks where the Painter hung the first one up to dry. The female moth has a tan gown of intricate design—yet always one wing is the exact duplicate of the other.

I was allowed to learn the inside story of a Romeo and Juliet affair among the moths. One summer morning as I awoke, I noticed my last moth had emerged. On examination, I found it to be a female. When next I returned to my room, I noticed that the moth had flown to the window, so I named her Juliet. Like her namesake, she was not long alone for she sent out her message so that her mate would know where to find her. Unperceivable to the human, the scent was duly recorded on several pairs of antennae and in time the suitors arrived. Like their human brothers, they call in the fashionable hours of the afternoon, for their flying hours are between three and five. The first afternoon, five aspirants for her hand arrived, but because they didn't knock properly at the door, but fluttered foolishly at the window, they were not admitted. The next day enough moths arrived to cover the screen at the window. They fairly clambered over each other. One, bolder than the rest, entered unannounced, and like Romeo and Juliet, they met only to part forever. That night, I heard Juliet flopping around, but thought nothing of it. On arising the next morning, I found a literal trail of the loveliest salmon pink eggs. Following this trail, I soon found Juliet, wan and drooping, resting under the bureau. I put her, appropriately I think, in my home ec box, screening her in. I disengaged all the eggs I could find, but to my great surprise about two weeks later, I found that Juliet, who had died, having fulfilled her destiny, had been much more clever than I, for—little black caterpillars could be seen emerging from behind pictures, book cases, and mirrors.

Unfortunately the caterpillars died in spite of my efforts, and although I have tried to raise other families, Juliet remains my only success.

There are other common moths and butterflies for the amateur to find, and watch. There is a thrill in holding a cocoon in your hand and feeling life stir within it. The next time you see a caterpillar, remember its is an ugly duckling. Get "buggy" and take it home and watch its perfect preparation for its marvelous change, and find the thrill that lures the bugologist, however amateur or professional he may be.

The Problem of the Unsocial Student

By Dr. Shepherd I. Franz,

Head of Psychology Department, U.C.L.A.

I HAVE a difficult student problem to solve at the present time, and the solution is far from apparent. She is a sophomore, who has done none too well in her academic studies. She has taken courses in the social sciences, languages, biology, and has selected history as a major subject without much consideration other than the advice of her family. Her father retired from a successful business career a few years ago and is now occupying his time dabbling in real estate operations. An only sister is a university graduate, who has entered upon a business career. Our student says that she has no more than a passing interest in her major subject, and no more in any other topic. She admits that her work is a bore, imposed upon her by her parents because of their social-financial position, and she reports that she does not associate with any student on the campus although some of her fellow high school students are registered in her classes. She attends the university at times when her classes are scheduled, she leaves as soon as she can. She talks with no one about her studies, which are reported to be conscientiously worked over, but ineffectually. She has no "boy friends" within or without the university. She reads novels, especially love stories; she attends the movies only occasionally; she never goes to a dance. When asked if she could drive an automobile, she admitted that she liked to "put her foot on the gas." She told how she drove over 60 miles per hour until her family objected too strenuously, and how she was arrested once for driving at the rate of 42 miles in a 15-miles zone. She then sighed that her father turned in the car the next day on a purchase which the dealer insisted was not to be driven over 20 miles per hour. She would like to go on a trip of the Floating University, but she knew her family would not permit it. She was, however, resigned to her fate, both with her unromantic humdrum family and the uninteresting university topics and instructors.

The girl is unadjusted because she is unsocial, but there is no evidence of mental disease. Her parents now realize that she is a misfit, and they are willing to do whatever is advised. This is a psychological problem in which there are so many unknown quantities that it can be solved only with a thorough knowledge of the methods of solving mental equations of the n th order. This knowledge I do not now have. I am groping, and trying out various measures in a trial and error fashion. The greatest difficulty arises because the girl does not volunteer information; each item must be dug out of a highly resisting mental rock.

The case is interesting from a number of angles. It is cited because it illustrates an extreme of social maladjustment. There are elements in the case which are found in lesser degree in many others: all childhood desires inhibited by an unimaginative family, no outlet for romantic fantasy except the reading of novels, personally judged values uncorrected by conversational contacts with extra-family individualities. Her interests have been suppressed. They have not been developed, and altered, by larger social contacts. The lack of proper social control is the cause of the intellectual difficulty.

It is worth while looking for a few moments at another type of maladjustment, which did not interfere with intellectual attainment but which has resulted in disabilities of an equally important kind. A young man applied for vocational advice. He was neatly but poorly dressed, and he explained that he could not afford to pay much for whatever was done for him. The main facts of the story are; he had graduated with a bachelor's degree from a well-known university; he had subsequently attended a law school of an equally well-known university; he had passed his examinations and had been admitted to practice law; he rented an office and awaited clients but he began to have qualms about his ability to meet legal situations; he first removed his telephone because he thought he might not be able to answer questions immediately if they were asked and he felt it would be best to have personal interviews in which he could exhibit his knowledge of cases by referring to his library; he even feared to meet clients in his office, and gave it up to take a job as law clerk; he retained his new position for only a short time because he (not the firm) was dissatisfied with his work; he then traveled by intermittent stages to this city, taking different positions which required less and less of his intellect until he attained the lowest and most mechanical form of work. The work in which he had finally settled was that of nailing together box shucks, all the parts were ready and even the positions of the nails were marked. He did not have to think and the work was intellectually of lower grade than that of the ditch digger who has to consider, even though only slightly, the amount of earth he may take on his shovel if he is to throw it a certain distance. This young man is a failure regardless of what academic grades or honors he may have received. He is incapable of using his intellectual capabilities in a job.

Both of these individuals have been failures because they did not learn to adapt themselves to social situations. In neither case was the university solely to blame, but in both cases it was partly at fault. Perhaps the elementary school, plus the family, is mostly responsible, but there can be no question that along the educational line there was an obvious disregard for the adjustment of the individual to his environment. Education has been defined as adjustment, or a presentation for life. In both cases there had been no apparent care educationally for anything beyond the intellectual.

Assuming that the girl was intellectually advanced to university grade, as I assume we must because of the safeguards on admission, she represents one type of student dismissed by the university as unfit. The second is graduated as fit, but is found by the community to be unfit. Students may fail intellectually because they have not developed interests, or because they do not see how their work may fit into daily life. Others may be able to study or to reproduce texts or lectures vocally or in writing, but they may not have learned to meet their fellows. They may intellectually be like adding machines, on which instructors punch buttons or turn a handle, with a definitely predictable intellectual result. They differ from the operator who understands social activities—of the bank or the shop—and transfers these activities to the machine.

In differing degrees these conditions of maladjustment are found in many students. The acquisitive and mirroring student does not exhibit his deficiency in his grades, and he may, therefore, go through his college work without attracting the attention of a dean or other administrative officer. It is, however, this type of student that warrants the public asking of the university many impertinent questions. The individual's heredity and his family environment may be primarily at fault, but the public sees only a university product. It is true that the university has failed to adjust the student, largely because it is academically believed that the business of education is that of getting its students filled with knowledge and able to think.

Because of educational traditions, our school system, especially the university, tends to magnify the inabilities of the unsocial. It is organized for the already socialized. It demands of the socialized a supplement of knowledge of Socrates or Shakespeare, of astronomy or art. It does not demand of the unsocialized the corresponding supplement of fraternity, debating union or football team. It requires that the socialized become somewhat intellectuallized, it does not require the reverse. But, if the university has a partial responsibility for the adjustment of its wards, something of this character should be done. I would like to see the professor of English literature who would advise one of his major students as follows: "This semester you are to take three units on the baseball squad, where you will learn to be part of a group; you are also to take two units in attending meetings of the board of alderman to see how the city is run and what the taxpayers are complaining about; don't read too much poetry and have that pleasure interfere with your important academic work." Absurd as this may seem, in view of present academic requirements, an educational prescription of this character is often needed. One of our students, a young man, was unable to teach because of his unsocialized condition. He was the victim of the protective influence of two mid-Victorian aunts. After a period of play with boys of his own play age, even though he was much older chronologically and intellectually, he began to get the social point of view, and his adjustment progressed to the point of success.

Social prescriptions, of which I shall cite only one more, have averted many university intellectual tragedies. A twenty-one-year-old student was referred because after three semesters of B average work she was falling below a D average. Her university work had become burdensome, and she was willing to drop it and go into some commercial activity. There were some psychological disturbances which were partly, or wholly, dependent upon her mental activity. At the age of ten a stupid teacher caused her to be ridiculed by her classmates, and the reason became known throughout the school. The boys did not remember as well as the girls, and our student became a tom-boy. The incident, however, had an effect in unsociability to girls which later extended to boys. She associated with only one girl in the university, and she knew no boys except as objects in her classes. Her father was successful in business; he thought his family should sit around the living room table and study every evening, amusements were unnecessary, and the girl was too young to learn to drive an automobile. The whole family was repressed and resentful. The father was persuaded to let the girl live in a home with other girls. A week later she asked me to approve of her purchase of a third or fourth-hand flivver for which she had hopefully saved money. The intimate association with other girls and the necessity of having boy-friends who could help to keep her derelict auto going, combined to make her happy and she was able to do her semester's work with credit. Taking off the lid of repression produced a reaction in the following semester so that she again came near the danger line in her studies, but this time because she was going to too many dances and movies, and to the beach too frequently with her boy and girl friends. I knew the problem was solved, for she soon made the necessary adjustment. Subsequently she married, apparently happily. The university has been able to graduate into the larger community a woman who is of social value as well as a definite intellectual asset.

It should be more widely appreciated that education is a socializing process. Arithmetic, reading, and writing are important only because they are social activities. If $2 + 2 = 4$, c-a-t, truth, Napoleon, and thousands of other educational symbols are of value, it is only because they have conventional meanings approximately the same for large groups of people. Other symbolic stimuli, to use a psychological phrase, may not be represented in print as definitely as those mentioned, but they are equally important in education. The proper length of a skirt so that it may attract attention if that is desired, or that it may be unnoticed in a crowd, is an item of education which curricula do not deal with. Thousands of other items, such as when to speak, to whom and where, are also disregarded. It is, however, these commonplace social activities to which the public, not the uneducated but the socialized public, pays attention. The university graduate is assumed to know about "the relation of Mohammed's triumph to his knowledge of the aorist," or "the effects of the perihelion on the spermatogenesis of the eocene," or any other equally absurd thing, and except in professional circles he can "get away" with it. Knowledge is of value only in so far as it can be used for the community in which one lives. One may, like a hermit, be relatively isolated and do his social "bit" by publication or by keeping in touch with things by reading, but he must recognize a relation and responsibility to his world. If he hermits because he cannot listen and converse with his fellow-man, he is not only un-social, but he is anti-social. It is this that the university should prevent.

NEWS FROM VEST, KENTUCKY

Mrs. Frederick O. Toof, Director

1325 Fargo, Chicago, Illinois

(Send all articles parcel post to the Center and notify director.)

IT HAS been several months since we have had real news from Vest, but several copies of the Vest Pocket News have come this way to keep us informed. Christmas was celebrated in grand style, with a real party, a tree, yes, and Santa Claus found his way down the creek to the Center. Incidentally, the Center wishes to thank all of you who helped give them their Christmas. It was doubly welcome this year.

Some of you who live in large cities or in regions not disturbed by the drought, the worst in history, cannot realize just what this has meant to the people of the stricken areas. The pride of the people of Kentucky has to a great degree, kept them from admitting their truly desperate condition this year. Famine describes the state of parts of Kentucky better than the word drought. In several counties the people who have anything themselves are denying themselves a meal a day in order to share with those more unfortunate. At our own center, it has been share and share alike, for as they say, "If we starve, we starve together." You know then, you who gave so liberally at Christmas time, just how much your gifts were appreciated. It was another "useful gifts" Christmas. With rains in the spring, conditions should right themselves to a certain extent, although it would be foolish to suppose that conditions could get back to normal in one short season. But the spirit of these Kentuckians is indomitable. They make us feel proud and ashamed. . . .

School will be out early in April so the children can help with the planting. The fourth annual high school commencement will be held with four seniors earning diplomas. The best-boy and best-girl contests are drawing to a close and enthusiasm is at high pitch. The winners of last year's contest are pictured in the pictorial section of this issue.

The Vest Pocket News has taken a real place in the school and community at Vest. Read the article which appeared in a recent issue of the School press, and which is reprinted in entirety in this issue.

The following bits were taken from the Vest Pocket News. Some of our chapter editors could get a few pointers and take a few notes from this little paper.

EDITORIAL: Enthusiasm

Were you ever all "pepped up" about a basketball game, a good book, or a literary society? You wanted to tell somebody about it right off! When you did you received an answer something like this; "Yeah, that's so," or "Whatever you say" or "Just anyway at all, it'll do." Immediately half your joy is gone and you wonder why you bothered to express yourself.

Enthusiasm is contagious. Try to become so interested in what you are doing that you will make others interested too. Then learn to be interested in what your friends are doing. Show that enthusiasm or interest by expressing an opinion or making some worthwhile remark.

The secret of success in friendship is genuine interest in others and the manifestation of a sincere enthusiasm. Let's be more enthusiastic!

Improvements on our school building.

The high school boys are showing their school spirit by painting the school rooms. They have already worked three Saturdays painting the walls and oiling the floors. The boys who have worked are Oscar Patrick, Rebel Hays, Jake Ritchie, Woodrow Fugate, Coett Messer, Adam Ritchie, Leslie Griegsby, and James Owsley. Desks have been mended in the high school rooms.

These improvements have made things more convenient for the students and they appreciate them very much.

Last week-end, Miss Buck put up a large flag in the assembly room.

And from the Christmas issue:

MRS. SANTA CLAUS

By Ollie Mae Combs

(There are nine stanzas, only three of which are given here)

Of all the busy people

This busy Christmastide
None work like Mrs. Santa,
By day and night beside.

Their home is bright and cheery,
They call it Reindeer Hall,
Icicles hang from the roof
And all around the wall.

Then Santa Claus said smiling,
"I never in my life,
Could do so much for girls and boys
Without so good a wife."

THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

By Gertrude Sutton

Around the fire we all are sitting
Telling tales of days long gone,
Tales that are of long remembrance
Of a Christ child who was born.

Of a Christ child who was born
In a manger long ago
We do celebrate his birthday
As they did in days of old.

We should think of ones around us,
Think of ones who have no home,
Try to help them as our Christ did,
Blessings will be ours to come.

Does Your Paper Fit Your Vest Pocket?*

Here's the Story of a Paper That Fits Both Your Pocket and the Needs of a Community

By Yvonne Wilson Toof

THE home of the Vest Pocket News, in the foothills of the Cumberland Mountains, is not really a town but one of the many community centers which have been established in the Southern Appalachian Mountains. The Delta Zeta Community Center at Vest, Kentucky, is helping the mountaineer and his children travel along with the rest of the world, through the school and community center medium.

Until recently, it was just like any other "holler" pocketed in the hills, with its one room school for a dozen "as you please" children. Now the Delta Zeta Sorority has adopted Vest as a social service project and has enlivened the center with a five-teacher school, including all grades, an accredited four-year high school, a community library, classes in home economics and handicraft, and a residence hall for girls from the adjoining districts so that they may share in the opportunities.

These girls who live in the dormitory practically work their way through school by doing co-operative housekeeping under the direction of the home economics teacher. They thus apply their lessons. Many of them live ten miles from the center and walk home every Friday evening. They are not too tired upon their arrival home to plead for improvements.

The Vest that one can see from the schoolhouse steps includes this girls' residence hall, two stores, a post office, and a half dozen houses, but we are a center to about twenty-five other families who live up the several branches of the main creek in our valley.

It is the children from these families who attend the school which the Delta Zeta Sorority supports in conjunction with the county school board. The school is naturally the most important activity in Vest. From the time "corn hoein" is over in July when the school opens until it closes at "grubbin" time in April, we can accomplish much.

We have three graduation classes from high school thus far and all those who have finished their high school course have begun to work their way through college.

Perhaps because we are so small, the happy family spirit can do more than "overhead" methods in the mountains. This, with good leadership, interpreted in the language of Vest, we will teach our boys and girls to run their own school better in the future.

We have tried to initiate activities into the school as we found a need for them. The need of play came first, so that we made a basketball court out of the hillside. A mule, a scraper, and boys eager to for play accomplished it. At the first basketball game, about a week after the new court was opened, everyone who was able to be about witnessed this new sport. Soon the men who were not in school had their own teams of players and spent their week-ends here instead of riding aimlessly up and down the creek.

We have no indoor gymnasium so when rainy weather comes other activities must satisfy us. Our literary society, with its opportunities for debating and stump speeches, then has its turn. We also spend time reviving the old mountain ballads by singing them each day in chapel. We have an orchestra which is a success as most of our children have a sense of music that is natural.

The Vest Pocket News is our newest venture. We are not using it so much to report news as to make news. It is very useful as a propagandist for arousing the latent enthusiasm in our boys and girls as well as our neighbors on the creeks. When our community people live five miles from us, they cannot easily attend meetings when we need advice and assistance in community affairs. Even with a friendly mule one would need weeks to ride over the rough roads and through the creek beds to keep in close touch with all of our people.

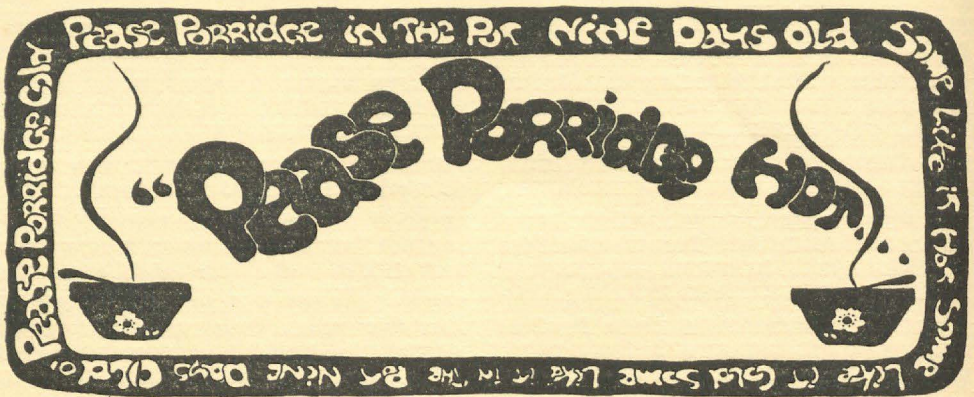

It is much more effective to meet them all on a news sheet. This little sheet, edited entirely by the high school pupils themselves, expresses their own ideas on community subjects. A Corona and a hectograph comprise our printing press. We print about forty copies every two weeks. We circulate our sheet free of charge as here in our center a few cents for a paper is not always possible. This is the sixth year since the center was organized and we can feel the influence of education on the community. Idle pastimes are less and ambitions are higher. We believe that our Vest Pocket News will help to raise standards in the future.

Perhaps one reason you have never heard of us and our mule-back roads is because we are twenty miles from the nearest railroad and it is a hard journey on mule-back to reach us. In rainy weather you cannot reach us at all for days.

Mrs. Toof, who is director at the school, has Miss Marie Haas* as resident director of the Vest schools. Miss Haas collaborated with Mr. Toof in this article.

AH, HA, the villain laughed in villainish glee, "after crying aloud about the budget in our last pot, the sistren rise up, a mighty band, and do their bit toward slaying that foul monster." (Business of baring the teeth in editorial glee, and much smacking of lips.) "Not really," says the editor, casting down her eyes (they didn't break, fortunately), "Really I am very sorry to have to report that twenty-six, 26, college chapter letters are missing, nine alumnæ chapter letters are ditto, which, figured at five dollars per miss about clears up the war debt." After all, something to write about.

You have often heard "chicken one day, feathers the next." Consider THE LAMP, fat one time, and making up for it this issue. 'Twas ever thus.

Speaking of THE LAMP, the following was hurled at me, for Pease Porridge, food for thought, I take it.

HEARER-OF-COMPLAINTS:

In the beginning they received no LAMP Life Memberships when initiated into the secret and sacred Order of the Flame.

Their LAMPs expired and they would not hear the voice of the Great One calling them to replenish the oil. (DEEF? Ed.)

Another chance was offered them; they scorned it and left it unheeded.

O, Stirrer of the Porridge-that-is-Hot, I plead in behalf of my tribe! They whine because the light of that Ever-becoming-more-Popular LAMP no longer falls upon them.

O, Disgusted One, (A medal of honor and five stars! She didn't say "regusted." Ed.) look down on them, and pity them in their unexalted state of existence! They are destitute!

See! They hunger and they have no Pease Porridge; they thirst and they have no news to satisfy that thirst; they are groping and yet THE LAMP sheds not light in their darkness!

Verily, I say unto you, they do all these things and are yet so stupid that they know it not!

They are lost and have no Lamp Post to guide them, for the Lamp Post is at the back of THE LAMP. (Oh no—they're posted on the corner. Heh, Heh, Heh.)

O, be merciful, Kind One, for without these our strength is weakened. They have fallen by the wayside; show them the way to go home!

Let us offer THE LAMP for sacrifice

As in the days of yore

Better to get them cheaply

Than have them as before

Let the leaders of the chapters

Get their profit playing grafters;

When they sell subscriptions cheap

Delta Zetas we shall keep.

Pray tell me what there'd be to lose

If the chance they don't refuse:

They've not received THE LAMP since college

Soon they'll be quite out of knowledge.

When they cease to tend their flocks

And all iron-grey are their locks (getting rusty. Ed.)

They will thank YOU for YOUR kindness

And YOUR noble open-mindedness—

Thank YOU that 'though they weren't worth it

YOU persuaded and YOU sent it . . .

Thank the Great One for insisting,

Until there was no bast resisting

Thank YOU, little Hot Pease Porridge.

(This cooled me off. Thanks. M. H. P.)

FRANCES B. GOURLEY

I have an apology to make. Last issue I spoke of an article "Looking for Trouble" by Hill Ferguson from the Delta of Sigma Nu, being reprinted in that issue. It wasn't. It is in this one however. This is another very interesting contribution which Mr. Ferguson makes from time to time in the Delta, and which have been reprinted in THE LAMP. The editor is an ardent admirer of Mr. Ferguson, but, shh, he doesn't know it. And that goes for the whole Delta, from cover to cover, hook, line, and sinker. Try to read it from time to time, it is worth while.

Speaking of worth-while reading, I have seldom come across a more entertaining history than Sixty Years in Kappa Alpha Theta by Estelle Riddle Dodge edited by L. Pearle Green, editor of the Kappa Alpha Theta, and published by the George Banta Publishing Company. This history will be reviewed in a later issue.

And what do you think of the council baby? Did you miss that announcement? Cynthia Ann Lundy, whose birthday was February 9, and whose very charming mother is none other than our own Gracie Mason Lundy? Wholly Smoke, her proud Auntie, up and takes the bow. Oh well, let her, says

BERKELEY ALUMNÆ CHAPTER

Susan Potbury and Helen Fullerton were hostesses at the last meeting of the Berkeley Chapter, held January 2. Lisette Reinle told us of her trip to Arizona where she assisted in installing the new Beta Iota Chapter. Mu Chapter is especially interested in this group as Valerie Menhennet Nave brought about its first organization. At the installation banquet there were four Mu Chapter girls present: Margaret Dickenson, Berdie Fowler, Mary Fairchild Taylor, and Lisette.

A missive from Geraldine Warford Mullen (Mrs. Robert L.) who lives in Honolulu informs us that "The islands are a wonderful place in which to live if you don't mind heat and rain. People are very friendly and go in for formal calls and many parties." "Gerry" expects to be home on the mainland for a vacation this spring.

H. Vilote Hess (the girl who was initiated at the San Francisco Convention of Delta Zeta) has adopted a baby who is now a year old. Her name is Cecile Jeanne.

Winona Jones tells us occasionally of the very nice life she is leading this year. She is teaching physical education at a private school in the Islands. Her hours are nine-thirty to two o'clock or some such satisfactory time, and we wish we could join the staff of that particular institution. We were relieved to learn that Winnie has gained twelve pounds.

Helene Hughes, who was president of Mu Chapter last year, resigned her position with the Bank of Italy in San Francisco in December. She is trying to improve her health by taking an extended rest.

BIRMINGHAM ALUMNÆ CHAPTER

The Birmingham Alumnæ Chapter met on January 10, 1931, for the election of officers. Nell Hodges Howard gave the report of the nominating committee. The report was accepted in full and the following nominees elected as officers: president, Annabel Hendon; vice-president, Sara N. Yauger; secretary, Edith F. McElroy; treasurer, Augusta Piatt; LAMP editor, Frances B. Gourley; reporter, Margaret Hassler.

After the election Ora D. Bohannon suggested that we discuss the good and the bad points noticeable in the organization during the past year.

We regretted that some of us had failed to pay our dues; we were sorry that many of us gave little response to a call for a box for Vest; we were ashamed to admit that some had broken the golden rule of entertaining, we had promised to come and failed to let our hostesses know that we weren't coming after they had prepared for us. We rejoiced that a friendly feeling had been upheld; we were proud that the plan of having group captains had been so successful; we said that we had enjoyed many interesting meetings; we praised ourselves for our co-operation and excellent yearbook; we patted each other on the back because every one had entertained at her time.

Miss Sabina T. Murray was made Vest chairman to solve the problem of making pants and Vest meet. If anyone can do it, this charming lady can.

A motion was carried to have the same type of meetings which we had last year; that is, bridge parties with short business sessions. Wishes to have more of the successful night parties, which we allowed husbands and other gentlemen to attend, were heartily expressed. The August party was proposed as a picnic. There was a short discussion on the non-payment of dues, but no action was taken.

Jean Lang Kitchell and Augusta Piatt were asked to assemble and have the yearbook printed. They report that they will soon have this ready as they have been gathering and correcting material all this week.

The hostesses were Nell Hodges Howard, Elna Almgren Smith, Sammie H. Bancroft, and Annabel Hendon.

The night party in December, which was so successful, was given by seven hostesses and attended by fifty-two men, women, and children. Everyone played progressive auction bridge except at one table where four men played a noisy and exciting game of "Thump" which bade fair to break up the bidding at the tables around them. They played on a Carrom board and made up their own rules. All this is mentioned merely to solve some chapter's problem of what to do with those who don't play bridge.

The hostesses were Addilee Mattison, Louise Bellsnyder, Ora D. Bohannon, Billie Ellis Parsons, Frances B. Gourley, Sabina

T. Murray, and Anna Stuart Dupuy, an active Alpha Pi at whose home the party was held.

Louisa Wheeler McEachern is visiting in Birmingham. She now makes her home in Macon, Georgia.

Gladys Harlee Nunn, who has been in South Carolina, is in Birmingham and expects to stay for a while. Needless to say we are happy to have her.

CHICAGO ALUMNÆ CHAPTER

In December the officers of the Chicago Alumnæ Chapter gave a tea at the home of Yvonne Wilson Toof, president. Guests were received from two until nine o'clock. Articles on sale for benefit of Vest were on display. Together with Alpha Alpha Chapter we sent $46 as our birthday offering to Vest.

In January forty-seven alumnæ attended the luncheon at the new Merchandise Mart building and visited the National Broadcasting Station. At the luncheon in March, those with European travel experience will talk on special topics of interest. In April the annual Panhellenic luncheon will be held. Alternate months, the regular divisional bridge parties, north, south and west side, continue to interest the players as the grand prize is offered in June. ETHEL HOMER, Editor

CINCINNATI ALUMNÆ CHAPTER

This year the Delta Zeta alumnæ meetings have been very stimulating and an unusually large attendance has been the result. We have met for luncheon at various clubs and tea rooms and renewed social contacts while enjoying the atmosphere of the meeting place. Following the luncheon there has been a business meeting carried on efficiently and quickly. The president has made it a point of not only covering activities in Delta Zeta, but giving a brief résumé of the current activities of other organizations in the city. At each meeting the girls have in some way been of service, either folding bandages for the hospital, or taking home pieces of material to be sewed for some other worthy cause. Last meeting we made baby clothes for the charities.

At our Christmas meeting Margaret Pease told of some of the interesting contacts she had made while visiting Delta Zeta chapters in the South and East. At the same meeting we had as our honor guests, the actives and pledges of Xi Chapter. The pledges prattled of school work and dances, of activities and campus politics, and displayed such eagerness and interest in all things pertaining to Delta Zeta that we feel very happy to think that soon they will be Delta Zetas, too.

DALLAS ALUMNÆ CLUB

Christmas was a big success! For our own alumnæ club Christmas meeting we had a buffet supper in Alpha Psi's chapter room, and during the business meeting that followed hemmed tea towels for Vest. On December 15 we joined the actives and pledges of Alpha Psi around their Christmas tree. Everybody had a grand time, even the pledges, who kept the rest of us entertained with a program of really original original songs. The alumnæ club gift to the active chapter, a cedar chest, was presented, along with a surprise "kitchen shower" for their room. Another important event which we shared with the active chapter in December was the initiation banquet, December 19, at the Baker Hotel.

The new year, for us, was ushered in most auspiciously with a real pleasure, a visit from Mrs. Malott. She was with us for our January meeting. A buffet supper and bridge at the home of Ruby Brannon. Her talk about her travels for Delta Zeta, and her dreams and plans inspired in us all the desire to do bigger things for our sorority and to make our dreams realities.

By the way, have we told you that Mary Lamar, instructor in English at S.M.U., and one of our members, was collaborator with Dr. J. O. Beaty and Dr. E. E. Leisy in the recent publication Facts and Ideas? This has been adopted as an English textbook by a number of colleges and universities already. Oh, but we're proud of Mary!

It's rush week at S.M.U. again; so after our business meeting at the supper hour February 5 we're going on to one of Alpha Psi's rush parties.

FORT WAYNE ALUMNÆ CHAPTER

I think that most of my news this time has gone into feature articles. However, there are some choice bits left for the letter.

For instance, Christmas left us with a new diamond blazing in our midst. Virginia Kiracoffe, Delta, '23, was the recipient. Virginia has not told us that we can tell this, but we are all so happy for her we cannot help but share our secret with you.

On December 17 we were all royally entertained with a waffle supper at the home of Mrs. Wayne Morrill, Olga Welch, Psi. Mrs. Morrill was assisted by Mrs. Ted Gugler, Wilma Capek, Zeta, '28, and Mrs. Sommers, Catherine Jones, Alpha Eta, '24. Waffles, sausages, salad, and coffee were served. There were centerpieces of crêpe paper poinsettias. Just the kind of a party Olga, Wilma, and Catherine would give. After supper we played bridge and anagrams.

On January 23 we were again beautifully entertained at a pot-luck supper at the home of Ruth and Elva McDaniels, Psi. Ruth and Elva are teaching in Fort Wayne, and have bought their own little home on Seminole Circle. We always have a good time there.

INDIANAPOLIS ALUMNÆ CHAPTER

All has been fairly quiet on the D. Z. front in Indianapolis since the last letter but there are a few items concerning the chapter that will look well in THE LAMP.

Our December party was held at the home of Mrs. Roy Peterson (Alma Davis) and was well attended. Alma met us at the door as a very jovial Santa Claus and the evening proceeded in a most Christmasy fashion with carols and all such things that make one have the real spirit. The business meeting was short, only long enough to do our part in making things a little brighter for others less fortunate. Instead of making up our own Christmas basket for some family the girls all donated generously and we sent a nice cash contribution to the Indianapolis Christmas Sister whom we felt could place it to better advantage than the chapter could itself. And last but not least we voted to send $100 to Vest which averaged better than a dollar a girl in active membership in the Indianapolis chapter.

The January meeting was held at the home of Mrs. George Davis (Helen Howard) and we spent a very enjoyable evening at bridge. Final arrangements were made for our annual guest meeting to be held in February, with our own Adele Renard as the speaker for the evening. The event cannot help but be interesting with Adele telling of her experiences in her numerous travels over the world.

Plans for state luncheon are gathering momentum now. The fourteenth state luncheon will be held in April and our estimable president is full of wonderful ideas. Miss Westcott please bow to the audience.

And so in the words of Floyd Gibbons, "so long until the next time."

KANSAS CITY ALUMNÆ CHAPTER

Within the last month the Kansas City Alumnæ Chapter has been hostess twice. The first was the mother and daughter tea held at the Park Lane Hotel, December 28. Not as many were present as we had hoped for, no doubt on account of many holiday activities, but those who were there seemed to enjoy the program and opportunity to be together once more at a mother-daughter affair. On January 17 we enjoyed a visit from Mrs. H. I. Miller, province president, from Dallas, Texas. Mrs. Miller had just come from inspection of Alpha Epsilon, Eta, and Alpha Phi, so had much to tell us. There were twenty-one present at the luncheon given at the Kansas City Athletic Club and we feel, as did Mrs. Miller, that such visits should be more frequent. It brought a bit of college life that most of us do not often see any more, and filled us with many new inspirations.

This Chapter has ambitions for "inclusive-ness." We're proud to say we have girls here in this chapter as far south as Alpha Psi, Southern Methodist University to Xi, University of Cincinnati, from Alpha Alpha, Northwestern University, Alpha Beta University of Illinois, Delta at DePauw University, Lambda, Kansas State Agricultural College, Alpha Phi, University of Kansas, and Eta at Baker University. Where are our far eastern and our far western sisters? If any of you are lurking in Kansas City unbeknown to us—well—you're just missing out on something and we want to meet you and have you join the chapter!

Panhellenic gives its dance February 21, and we are looking forward to it—and paying dues so that we can go! You know the old adage, "It's an ill wind—"

LINCOLN ALUMNÆ CHAPTER

Word came that Mrs. H. E. Miller, province president, was due to reach Lincoln January 18. Of course, we wondered what she looked like, had we ever met her at convention, etc. Imagine our unbounded joy when she arrived in our midst and we discovered that she was our own Lucile Day, who had left us in 1914. Many of us knew her and those who didn't were not long in becoming acquainted. Her visit filled us with joy and enthusiasm and made us love Delta Zeta just a little more, if that is possible.

We meet regularly once a month with an average attendance of twenty-five. We transact our business, then play bridge or have some form of entertainment. Our interest is now centered on our bridge tournament. All of us hope to reach the finals in spite of those terrible hands and scores.

We celebrate our twenty-first birthday February 12. Our committee is planning a birthday dinner at the chapter house with her little sisters. Mother Deford bakes the best angel food cakes and plans the most delicious menus for us.

New York alumnæ take notice: Ruth Odell has taken a year's leave of absence from the university and is working on her Ph.D. at Columbia; hunt her up—she's worth knowing.

Chicago alumnæ: our loss is your gain. Lola Eberly has gone from our midst to the Gregg school at Chicago. Her aim—to become a court reporter—but she "loves" to play bridge. She'll be in your midst until September.

LOS ANGELES ALUMNÆ CHAPTER

Rummaging proved profitable to the Los Angeles alumnæ in December. On the twelfth and thirteenth of that month a sale was held in Belvedere Gardens, at which nearly sixty dollars was cleared. Part of the profit was used for the Christmas gift to Vest. A luncheon the Wednesday before Christmas at the Bull Pen Inn in Los Angeles provided a chance for the out-of-town girls to meet with the others.

In November Marion Stites was hostess at a bridge party, which included the business meeting for the month of November.

Her home in Burbank proved a pleasant place to visit.

Nominations were made by the nominating committee at the January meeting, although the elections will not take place for some time.

The suggestion from the national office as to the profits which might be made from magazine subscriptions was received with enthusiasm, and a committee appointed to discuss further details in that connection. Rose Charter is to be chairman of the committee. FLORENCE O. RUMBAUGH, Editor

NEW YORK ALUMNÆ CHAPTER

With Christmas almost here and the weather clear and cold, it is hard to settle down to writing letters to THE LAMP, but with visions of fines looming ahead we firmly take our pen in hand to inform you of all our latest doings. Most of these have been social, beginning with a meeting on November 15 in Brooklyn, at the home of Florence Cuneo Bendin, Alpha Zeta. Sixteen members congregated there and spent several pleasant hours discussing the weather, our Christmas gift to Vest, the Army-Navy football game, our meeting at the Panhellenic House, how to keep a husband happy, and other mundane topics; after which we adjourned to tea and cakes.

In December we departed from our usual custom of holding a meeting on the third Saturday afternoon of the month, as the New York Panhellenic Club was kind enough to offer us rooms at the Panhellenic House for a meeting on the evening of December 9. Due to an epidemic of colds among the members and to the inclement weather, only a small number of girls were able to attend; but the select few who did assure as that they had a lovely time. After a delicious dinner in the Pompeian Room a meeting was held in the Panhellenic Clubroom, which was beautifully decorated with holly berries and a real Christmas tree. Among the members who were able to be present we were glad to welcome two "out-of-towners." Mrs. Schieman and Mrs. Worster, both of Iota Chapter.

Added to these main events on our program there have been others, including the Alpha Zeta formal dance at the Garden City Hotel on November 29, and the supper meetings which Alpha Zeta have been holding once a month at the Hempstead Y.W.C.A. At the last one, held on December 8, Santa Claus arrived and presented each guest with a (slightly premature) Christmas gift.

Then, too, we had the pleasure of a short visit from Mrs. Pease late in November. We were sorry that we did not know the exact date of her arrival beforehand so that a regular alumnæ "get-together" could be planned. However, Madeline Betz Quinn and Dorothy King enjoyed with her a very pleasant dinner and movie party, while the rest of us hope to meet her on her next visit.

With all these things you can picture us also as doing our Christmas shopping, going to football games, cooking cereal and spinach for the babies, trying to start the auto with the thermometer at six degrees above zero,

ROCKFORD ALUMNÆ CLUB

Here it is time for another letter. Our December meeting was held with Inez Trautman in her beautiful new home just north of Rockford. We were delighted to have Mrs. Toof with us for this meeting, which was also guest day. Mrs. Toof's talk about Vest, its problems and plans, was most interesting, and we all enjoyed the moving pictures.

TAMPA ALUMNÆ CLUB

With the Christmas holidays just a few weeks behind us, we are starting the new year with many wonderful plans for Delta Zeta. We are working very hard for there are many big things we want to achieve. We have a very capable leader so—watch us!

The biggest thing we are planning and working for is a new house for Alpha Sigma Chapter at Tallahassee, which we have agreed to sponsor. This is a large undertaking but, with the help of all the Delta Zetas in the state, there is no reason why it can't be done—and real soon too. We have already succeeded in organizing active associate groups in Bradenton, Ocala, and St. Petersburg, and believe me these groups have real enthusiasm. They are wasting no time in doing things to increase their membership and raise money for the new house fund. Several of our members motored to Bradenton one evening in November and held a meeting with the girls down there and the St. Petersburg girls came over here to one of our meetings. We discussed with these groups our future plans concerning the new house and they agreed to support us in all our undertakings. Since those meetings we have taken an option on a lot in Tallahassee, which our architect thinks will be suitable for the house we plan, and the lot has been put before the school authorities for approval. So you see we have begun to do things in a real way. Naturally, now our main thoughts are on raising money for the new home. The Bradenton group is planning to give a play during February and the other groups are planning many benefit parties, rummage sales, and the like, by which we expect to raise quite a bit of money.

Now I must tell you about the dances and parties sponsored by Delta Zetas before and and writing letters to THE LAMP. Our plans for the future are many and varied; the event looming largest on our immediate horizon being a tea for Alpha Zeta on Saint Valentine's Day. And now New York Alumnæ Chapter sends to all of you greetings and hopes for a splendid year ahead.

BERNICE HUTCHISON GALE, Editor

The problem confronting us now is how we can make some money for our share in supporting Vest. If we find any way "to get rich quick," we'll let you know next time.

We should be glad to have any Delta Zeta join us.

JANE VAN NATTA SHERRILL, Editor

during the holidays. Friday night after the Florida State College for Women closed for the holidays, Caroline Carmichael, an associate member of the Tampa Club, sponsored a dance in Monticello. Nearly the whole Alpha Sigma Chapter attended and from the reports we have received it must have been a huge success as far as money and fun are concerned. Caroline very generously donated the proceeds to our new house fund. The day after the dance the Tampa pledges arrived home and we entertained with a luncheon for them at the Forest Hills Downtown Club. The following Monday the Bradenton girls sponsored a dance at the Palmetto Country Club. Several of the Tampa Delta Zetas went down to the dance and I know everyone had a big time. The day after Christmas the Bradenton and St. Petersburg groups joined us in entertaining at a huge bridge party for the pledges and rushees at the Forest Hills Country Club. This was the largest party of the year and everything was done to make it a memorable one. The St. Petersburg and Bradenton girls brought their rushees from their own towns with them—there were sixty present at our party. The St. Petersburg girls donated some beautiful hand-painted Delta Zeta tallies and for favors we gave some darling compacts. The Delta Zeta colors were carried out beautifully throughout the party.

The next day, which was Saturday, we sponsored a dance at the Bayshore Colonial Hotel and it was great. Everyone had so much fun and the music furnished by the Broadway Collegians was heavenly. This dance helped to enlarge our house fund too. The following Saturday we gave a luncheon at the Forest Hills Downtown Club for our pledges and Delta Zeta mothers. That was the last of our holiday parties but you can see that our social calendar was full.

The Ocala group gave a benefit bridge party just after the holidays to help our house fund. All the groups are doing something and we are surely glad to have these groups associated with our club and do hope they continue their good work.

We are more than pleased to announce that Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Covode have consented to be patron and patroness of Alpha Sigma Chapter. They are real Delta Zeta boosters and we are mighty proud of them both. I wish all the Delta Zetas, in the state especially, could meet Mr. and Mrs. Covode for I'm sure they could put that good old spirit into everyone they come in contact with—they surely have put it into us and we love it!

TUCSON ALUMNÆ CHAPTER

The Delta Zeta alumnæ of Tucson have recently organized and have formed the Delta Zeta Alumnæ Club of Tucson. Mrs. Mayme Dworak Fasting of Zeta will lead the newly organized group, and Eloise Houston of Beta Iota is secretary-treasurer. At present the club numbers 15. The club meets twice each month. The aim at the present time is to aid the newly installed Beta Iota Chapter.

The following are members of the Tucson Alumnæ Club: Mrs. Mayme Dworak Fasting, Zeta; Eloise Houston, Evelyn Crop, Jeanette Guist, Frances Kohler, Clara Larson, Louise Milligan, and Josephine Rodgers, Beta Iota; Mrs. Valerie Menbennett Nave, Mu; Mrs. Lois Zimmerman Smith, Iota; Mrs. Mary Fairchild Taylor, Mu; Mrs. Edna Guilbert Wrench, Alpha Lambda; Mrs. Margaret Taylor Dickinson, Mu; Kathleen Westmoreland, Alpha Iota; Josephine Haggard, Kappa.

Our club has been very active in Panhellenic work too. In the latter part of November the Tampa Panhellenic Club, of which one of our Delta Zetas, Mrs. J. M. Coarsey is president, gave a bridge party at the Women's Club. Delta Zeta had twelve tables. During the holidays the Bradenton Panhellenic Club, in which two of our Delta Zetas, Mary Lamb and Ruby Cress, are officers, sponsored a bridge party at the Bradenton Country Club. There were five Delta Zeta tables at this party, forty tables in all. Seven of our club members from Tampa were there.

The club is just starting a big year, our ambitions are high, but we are going to realize them.

of the Tucson Alumnæ Club and an interested worker in the active Beta Iota. Mayme helped organize Sigma Chapter and arrived in time to help install Beta Iota. Mayme is now the wife of Dr. George Fasting, who is doing research work in the Tucson Clinic.

Mrs. Lois Zimmerman Smith, Iota, came to Tucson last year from Iowa City and has been a most ardent worker with the local and now active group. She helped install the local Beta Iota. Lois has four darling children, and is engaged in pre-school work. She is also affiliated with the Tucson Alumnæ Club. Lois is the wife of Dr. Chester H. Smith, who is on the law faculty at the University of Arizona.

For the last two years Kathleen has been teaching in the Tucson public schools.

TWIN CITIES ALUMNÆ CHAPTER

The Twin City Alumnæ Chapter has been very busy the past two months planning for two big events, one to take place in January, and the other to be held the latter part of February. The first is our Vest party. This is planned as a benefit for Vest, we are charging fifty cents admission, and are having bridge tables; or if they do not care for cards, there will be wonderful entertainment. One of our active girls, Ruth Olson has consented to sing, and she is a very good blues singer. The "Step-Out" chorus is going to put on their dance, and that in itself is worth every bit of the fifty cents. (I speak from first-hand information because I have seen it.) Last but not least we are showing moving pictures of the settlement and school at Vest. It will certainly be interesting to anyone and everyone to see just what Delta Zeta is accomplishing for these mountain people. Gertrude Johnson is in charge of this party and we couldn't have chosen a more capable girl!

Our second big event is a carnival. We are going to hold it at the Delta Zeta house, clearing out all the furniture in the three big rooms. We are having all kinds of booths, gaily decorated, displaying the wares of the vendors (our own girls). These booths will have on display kewpie dolls, candy, nigger babies to hit, chance games to play, balloons, and everything that goes with a carnival. As the guest (should we call him a guest or a customer?) enters the door he purchases so many tickets at a cent a piece which entitle him to see as many booths as he is able, so long as his tickets hold out. Of course, he can always go back for more! There will be one group of girls in charge of each booth, so that we may have every conceivable type of booth (perhaps ten in all) besides selling popcorn balls, taffy, balloons, and candy. We hope to make it a great success and are asking the co-operation of the actives and pledges. Leona Train is the clever girl who thought of this party and so she is in charge of it. If you know Leona you know it is a success already!

We have had another Delta Zeta join us this year, and how glad we are to welcome her! She is Mary Allen Steers from Alpha Theta Chapter who is teaching home economics at Minnesota and working for her master's degree. We hope she will be with us for some time and come to all of our meetings.

One of our own girls, Gertrude Welander, is taking a trip through the South this month, to California, Texas, and Mexico. She will undoubtedly look up the Delta Zeta Chapters on her tour, and we know they will all enjoy meeting her.

Next time I will be able to tell you more definitely about our two parties, but until then this short description will have to suffice.

WASHINGTON ALUMNÆ CHAPTER

Christmas is now a thing of the past and we have settled down to the comparative calm of January. Since our last letter several events of varying importance have occurred. On November 15 Edith Finney was married to Dr. Charles Pennington Ryland, at a charming wedding in her home. The ceremony was attended by a number of the Washington alumnae, and was followed by a reception. The Sunday after Christmas we were entertained at tea by Mrs. Annette Ladd, secretary-treasurer of Alpha Province and who has come to be a sort of honorary and permanent big sister to the Delta Zetas in Washington. Three days after Christmas came our Christmas dance, given by Alpha Delta Chapter and Washington Alumnae Chapter together. It was held at the clubhouse of the American Association of University women, and was a very gay and festive affair.

Our meetings are usually held in the Alpha Delta chapter rooms, but due to a fire there (which turned out to be mostly smoke and water) and the cutting off of the gas while the insurance companies argued back and forth, we were forced to take refuge in the G.W.U. Women's Building for our January meeting. It turned out to be less beautiful than our rooms but much warmer.

The Delta Zetas in Washington have abandoned all scruples concerning diet during the past few weeks, for no less than four engagements have been announced, which as you know means twenty pounds of candy. We are never surprised when such things happen in the springtime, but in January it is very unusual.

HONORS: Mabel Lewis, '31: Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Kappa Phi, and Pi Lambda Theta; Arlene VanDerhoef, '32, vice-president of the Central New York Division of the Amateur Fencers' League of America; Christine Schildwaster, '32, associate member of Cornell Dramatic Club; Esther Nordin, pledge, Women's Cosmopolitan Club, big sister group of Y.W.C.A., 4-H Club; Margaret Pederson, pledge, Women's Cosmopolitan Club, big sister group of Y.W.C.A., 4-H Club.

Just before Thanksgiving, we had the best pledge dance we have had in years. Credit for its success is due to our housemother, Miss Jones; Kathryn Grissinger, Alice Karl, and Christine Schildwaster, who worked hard and gave a lot of thought to planning new ideas to make the dance enjoyable for everyone. They certainly succeeded, for all the girls reported having a good time. And the university proctor sent a letter to the dean of women calling her attention to the nice dance the Delta Zetas had.

Mrs. Pease was with us December 6-8. We all enjoyed every minute of her stay, and we hope she was as glad to be with us as we were to have her. She gave us some good hints about rushing and activities, which we are beginning to put in practice.

The crowning event before leaving for the Christmas holidays was a Christmas party at which we exchanged silly ten-cent presents. But there were nicer presents, too. Miss Jones was almost speechless when she saw our gift to her, a large make-up box filled with Yardleys. And we were equally delighted with her gifts to us, a little broom for our fireplace set, and a toasting fork. The latter means that we shall no longer have to go to the woods to cut sticks every time we have a marshmallow roast. Agnes Conlon, our alumnae adviser, gave us a beautiful, large, green vase. Some of the girls gave a console set, two pairs of silver candlesticks, a sugar and creamer, and some guest towels.

At present, we are all in the midst of our midyear examinations. But the dismal occasion is brightened considerably by the little teas Miss Jones gives in her study every afternoon at four, where the plaintive wails of "O, Helen, that man didn't ask one single thing I studied for. I know I busted it flat!" soon change to "Um-m, I love these little cookies with peanuts on the top."

Since our cook no longer lives at the house, we have an extra room downstairs, which some of the girls are busy converting into a nice, pink guest room so that the town girls can stay at the house over-night now and then.

We are also busy collecting things for our rummage sale, which we are going to hold between terms.

And although it is only two above zero today, spring must be close at hand if one may judge from the number of fraternity pins appearing on the sisters' dresses.

INITIATES: Dorothy Liebig, Charlotte Miller, Harriet Rees, Amelia Smith, Katherine Tharpe of Minneapolis; Margaret McGregor, Cloquet; Ruth Nielander, Spring Valley; Ethel Pearson, Sandstone.

With the opening of school after the Christmas holidays, we began a week of formal rushing. A Mardi Gras tea, a Snow Ball dinner, and the traditional Rose dinner were outstanding parties during the week. The Friday night of pledging we gave our annual Step-Out. The Delta Zeta chorus and other specialty numbers by the girls of the chapter constituted the entertainment. Marie Gunner was chairman of general arrangements. It was financially a success, about four hundred couples attending.

On January 27 a Vest party was held at the house. At this benefit bridge, pictures of Vest were shown.

Sylvia Pakonen was elected treasurer of W.S.G.A. last week. Activities are now centering about the selling of the 1931 year-book, the Gopher.

DELTA

Delta Chapter, like all the rest, is working hard. We hardly see how we could get along without that scholarship cup. Here's hoping we can keep it again this year.

Our fall dance turned out to be a Trench Hop, and, needless to say, it was a huge success. The decorations consisted of all sorts of army paraphernalia, such as guns, gas masks, tin hats, canteens, etc. On the walls were maps and clever signs giving instructions for finding food. A trench was constructed in one room and in there a girl dressed in army clothes served doughnuts and ginger ale. Several alumnæ were back and everyone seemed to enjoy "the army" heaps.

Mary Sargent, sophomore, had a good part in the Monon Revue this year. And just recently when the music school presented a part of each of three operas, one of our juniors, Marjorie Lazure, had the part of Donna Elvira in Don Giovanni. We are proud of such performers.

The week before Christmas holidays was a jolly one at Delta house. At ten o'clock, every night, we all went downstairs and sang carols in front of the fireplace, and on the night before we left for home we had our annual formal dinner and Christmas party.

EPSILON

PLEDGES: Ann Alice Crisman, '34, Gary, Indiana; Alta Adele McNelley, '34, Fort Wayne; Mary Katherine Murray, '34, Indianapolis; Mary Elizabeth Macy, '34, Bremen; Dorothy L. Baird, '33, Clinton; Margaret D. Ewing, '33, Clinton; and Mildred L. Hester, '34, Sandborn.

INITIATES: Bonita Neese, '31, Alexandria,

Indiana; Irene Johnson, '31, Orleans; Thelma Carpenter, '32, Newcastle; and Dorothy Thomas, '32, Shelbyville. On November 15 we held our initiation services with a beautiful dawn ceremony (they told us it was dawn; we didn't see any light at four o'clock that morning!). Soon after the initiation, the actives told us to slip into our formals and meet them downstairs at eight o'clock for a formal breakfast. Everything was so pretty with one long table clear across the dining room, rose candles with green bows on the table, and a corsage at each initiate's place. We initiated with our mother's pins, and there along with the presents on the table was a tiny little envelope for each of us with our own pins in them. How we love those little sparkling "head lights!" That night we had our fall informal dance at the house, just a fitting climax to a grand day.

Epsilon has one affiliation to report—Dorothy Dixie Whitlach, '32, Louisville, Kentucky, who was initiated into Beta Gamma Chapter at the University of Louisville.

The girls of Epsilon were very happy to be visited recently by Mrs. Howard Hornung, president of Delta Province.

Edna Foutch, '32, Sullivan, Indiana, has been elected to Alpha Mu Chi, honorary music sorority.

This chapter feels quite thrilled over the fact that our house was awarded the silver cup for the best decorated sorority house on the campus this year at Homecoming, November 8, between I. U. and Northwestern. Each year two cups are presented for the best decorated houses on the campus, one for the best sorority house and one to the best fraternity house. This year Kappa Sigma received the award for the men and Delta Zeta for the women. Our alarm clocks were set for six o'clock that morning and everyone was "routed" out at that time and decorations were begun. Our second floor porch was arrayed with letters of beaver board, the full height of the porch, on which were arranged crimson balloons to form an "I" and purple balloons to form an immense "N." The yard below was lined with various colored crêpe-paper streamers onto which were fastened balloons of just as many colors. There was a gentle wind that Saturday and lots of sunshine, and you can imagine how pretty those colors looked reflecting everywhere.

Epsilon boasts one faculty member among the household, Anna F. Stuprich, '31, has been instructing a class of freshman German this semester and the department has re-appointed her for the coming semester. Ann was also elected president of Der Deutsche Verein at the opening of the school year. Membership in the club is based upon scholarship, character, and general interest in German. Moreover, she was leading lady in a German comedy, Müller als Sünderbock, which the Indiana University Deutsche Verein presented at DePauw University for their German club. Incidentally, the girl appointed by the DePauw Club to act as hostess for the visiting club was a Delta Zeta!

ZETA

Unique contests are always thrilling, but imagine the excitement caused by this lurid sign posted conspicuously about the campus, "On to Kansas." It was an announcement of a football contest sponsored by one of the leading department stores, who would give the three winning fraternities and sororities a free trip to the football game at Lawrence, Kansas. With what vim we entered! and our enthusiasm was not in vain. We were one of the three lucky sororities. Our whole chapter received free transportation to the game, and in addition had the opportunity of meeting our sisters of Alpha Phi Chapter. We certainly enjoyed our brief visit with the lovely girls whom we met.

The following week we were made happy by the announcement that Irma Shelburn, one of our juniors, had been elected sponsor of the R.O.T.C. headquarter's company, and would serve as an attendant to the honorary colonel at the military ball.

Quite novel was our miniature golf house party in October. Numerous hazards furnished a very "golffy" atmosphere, and the word "fore" served as the password for the event. Soon after the pledges entertained us at a toyland party. The guests, who were dressed as small boys and girls, were surprised by the appearance of old Santa, who distributed favors to all the "good girls and boys." As a favor to Santa, three of our smaller pledges entertained with a special dance.

"Co-eds Dispute Men's Monopoly on Engineering" was the headline in the student's paper announcing the five girl students of engineer's college. Of these five invaders three girls, Blanche Bartos, Louise Westover, and Meredith Thoms, are Delta Zetas. Blanche is a freshman in architecture, Louise, a senior in chemical engineering, and Meredith, a graduate in civil engineering.

Last week we were delighted with a visit from Mrs. H. I. Miller, province president. On Tuesday we gave a formal tea in her honor. All the girls are now looking forward to our formal dance on February 6. It will be our first social function of the new semester. And then our thoughts will turn to initiation, which certainly will be the big event of the year.

ETA

This year, so far, has been very full. Just before Christmas we gave a party for our patronesses. They took this occasion to present us with some lovely linen.

Mrs. Howard Miller visited with us and although we were "scared to death" at first we were not so very long. Mrs. Miller did a great deal in improving our Delta Zeta spirit. We are all anxious to start next fall with our rushing. Of course we will not wait until then to have all of our parties.

Waneta Sowers was elected president of the classical club.

Our social enterprises have been varied. The pledges gave a "Hobo Soshul" for the actives and later when we were doing some rushing, the actives had a "Pillow Slip" feed for the pledges. Just now we are looking forward to an informal which we will have in April.

LAMBDA

PLEDGES: Vivian Brick, Haddam, Kansas, a freshman in home economics; Helen Hoffman, also of Haddam, a sophomore in home economics, active in the physical education department, chosen to be our representative in the beauty section of the Royal Purple; Lorraine Chrisman, Hutchinson, Kansas, a sophomore in general science; and Laura Stepanek, Cuba, Kansas, a junior in rural commerce.

Our pledges are certainly go-getters. One of them, Pauline Patchin, is making a name for herself on the varsity debate team. Pauline is one of these little girls physically and big girls mentally. She is four feet eleven inches tall.

The Lambda actives entertained their pledges with a house party January 17. Verna Latzke, who is teaching in Hope, Kansas, was with us that week-end.

We lost three of our patronesses the first of this year and had to get others. We secured three very desirable ones, Mrs. Colonel Petti, Mrs. Wilson Brown, and Mrs. S. Grover, a Delta Zeta aunt. Before we went home for Christmas vacation, our patronesses and alumnae surprised us with a shower. We received such lovely silver, linen, lamps, etc., that we truly believe there is a Santa Claus.

Mrs. H. L. Miller, president of Epsilon Province, visited with us this month. We were glad to have her and hope that we may profit from her helpful suggestions.

MU

PLEDGES: Donna Erbes, Margaret Perkins, and Ernestine Genesy.

In the last letter I told you we were planning a Halloween party. We had a perfect party; an orchestra, we bobbed for apples in the patio, and in the den, we had a fortune teller. Everyone came in costumes and masks, the house was artistically decorated with jack-o-lanterns hidden among dried corn stalks. The way the men made our cider and doughnuts disappear was alarming. We closed last semester with a most successful Christmas party. The mothers' club gave us an antique milk pan with two matching candlesticks to decorate our mantel in the living room. They once belonged to a Russian family and many years ago, made a most interesting trip around the Horn. You can be sure that we appreciate this gift, and lost no opportunity to tell their history to the rushees.

Speaking of rushees, we certainly have our share of quality. There are only three new pledges, but they make Mu feel as though she would like to offer herself congratulations. To honor these girls, we are going to have a tea dance on Sunday. The Sunday following we are planning a tea for the mothers and fathers. We want them to see our new drapes, and several other new features that we have in the house.

Last week at a bridge party given by Carol Meaney, the engagements of two of our seniors were announced. Marion Geddes and Emily McKelligon will be married in the near future.

For a little added excitement Mary Garoutte and Benny Hill eloped to Reno, Nevada, to be married.

Speaking of the real Delta Zeta spirit, a number of our pledges are not only striving hard to make their grades but also to be leaders in the campus activities. Ruth Liebenroad has started a French club of about sixty members. This is quite a unique undertaking as it is looking toward a national honorary sorority started by a Delta Zeta at the University of Arizona. The faculty is very much interested in it and we are very proud to have a future Delta Zeta at the head of it. We are looking to Ruth for great things in the future.

We actives are getting ready for initiation to be held February 21 and for the annual spring formal dance to take place on March 27. In the meantime we are all working hard to bring our scholastic standard to a higher place than ever before.

The mothers' club activities have been most unusual this year. In December they gave a lovely dinner party for the actives and pledges. On February 28 they are giving a bridge luncheon in honor of the mothers of the pledges. It is to be held at one of the largest and most beautiful hotels in the country, the Starrett Netherland Plaza.

Just before the Christmas holidays the alumnæ gave a bridge-dinner and both the pledge and active chapter were invited. After a most delicious dinner the Editor of THE LAMP, Mrs. Pease, gave a very interesting talk in which she told us all about the different Delta Zeta chapters she had just visited. Before leaving each person contributed her Christmas gift for our community center at Vest, Kentucky. I'm sure that every one will agree that it was a most enjoyable evening.

TAU

INITIATES: Mary Ester Brooks, '33, Elizabeth Findley, '33, Barbara Flueck, '31, Nora Galky, '31, Louise Harrison, '33, Hazel Kraft, '33, Mary Thompson, '33, Mary Soseman, '33.

On the week-end of November 22 Wisconsin played Minnesota in football. It was the last game of the season and excitement was high. Seven of the Minnesota chapter were our guests with their charming house-mother, Mrs. Bennet. Their presence made our week-end even more enjoyable and, even though their team was defeated, we hope they had a very good time.

The following week was Thanksgiving and as we had only the one day very few of us were able to go home but the dinner we received was so much "like mother makes" that not one of us was homesick.

At the intramural sports banquet on December 2, the Delta Zeta speedball team was the proud recipient of a very pretty little loving-cup as a reward for first place. Mary Esther Brooks, '33, is our intramural manager and is treasurer for university intramurals.

We had our annual Christmas party the Thursday following our Christmas formal on December 5, for the cook, the maids, and the waiters. We hope they enjoyed it as much as we did.

The University Players held an intramural play contest this year and of course we entered it. Although the prizes were awarded elsewhere, the nine girls who took part felt it was a big success. Anne Jones, '31, was our director and the play was A Dress Rehearsal for Hamlet.

Marilla Eggler, '33, had a part in the University Players' production, The Insect Comedy, or The World We Live in.

Every year the chapter holds a rummage sale and this year it was held on December 12, bringing in considerable profit.

The Dolphin Club held their pageant on December 12 and 13. It was said to have been the best one in years, with fine displays of diving and acrobatics in the water. Marilla Egglar and Mary Esther Brooks took part.

The music festival was held on the same two nights. Betty Findley, '33, Mary Soseman, '33, and Margaret Grether, '33, taking part in the dancing and singing.

Christmas vacation began on the nineteenth and after a wonderful two weeks we all returned to prepare for examinations.

But all our time was not spent studying, and we have found time for several lively snowball fights with the fraternities near by. As a reward for one of our victories, the Theta Chis had the girls who had participated over for dinner and although we were rather lame and sore we decided that for such royal entertainment as we received we would gladly go through a far worse battle.

Now we are right in the midst of examinations, allaying somewhat our present misery with thoughts of joy to come at junior prom.

Gretchen Mueller, '33, and Marjorie Ritzenhouse, '33, are on the sophomore shuffle committee. Clara Kroner, '32, and Gretchen Mueller are on University Union Board committees.

PSI

PLEDGES: Irene Aiken, Edna DeBuan, Myrl Guthrie, Frances Beaman, Franklin; Dorothy Stroud, Mitchell; Olga Marie Bachmann, Cambridge City; Bonnie Henderson, Bedford; and Annis Reinhart, La Porte.

INITIATES: Kathryn Doub, Detroit, Michigan; Blanche Sizelove, Morocco, Indiana; and Jeannette Caudle, La Porte, Indiana.

One of Psi's pledges is a member of the women's debate team. Irene Aiken is also ranked as one of the outstanding students scholastically in the freshman class.

Myrtle Rueff's name has been added to the Panhellenic Scholarship Cup for the year 1930.

A number of honors have come to Psi Chapter and we are happy to tell our sisters about them.

Our president, Thelma McPheeters, has been initiated by Gold Quill, honorary women's organization at Franklin College. Marie Miller is a newly initiated member of Kappa Delta Pi, and Myrtle Rueff has been elected to Alpha. Myrtle is also president of Eta Sigma Phi. Blanche Sizelove is a new member of this same group.

Psi's pledges are prominent on the campus, in Wigs and Cues, the rifle club, and dramatic productions. Two of the freshman class officers are pledges of Delta Zeta: Dorothy Stroud, Mitchell, Indiana, vice-president; and Frances Beaman, Franklin, Indiana, secretary.

Jeannette Caudle and Dorothy Stroud have rôles in the play production of Theta Alpha Phi.

AUDREY WILLIAMS, Editor

ALPHA ALPHA

PLEDGES: Margaret Dutcher, Kenilworth, Donna-Mae Hancock, Chicago; Louise Koch, Des Moines, Iowa; Louise McKenzie, Winnetka; Elaine VanScoy, Chicago; Virginia Witkowski, Chicago.

INITIATES: Eleanor Fretter, Ruth Long, Dorothy Pergande, Lorraine Sargent, Ruth Strate, Ethel Wilson.

First of all, we are very happy to announce that since our last letter we have pledged six and initiated six girls into Alpha Alpha Chapter. Initiation, which took place the afternoon of November 16, 1930, was followed by a formal supper at the chapter house. We were very happy to have with us Mrs. Hayes who welcomed the new initiates.

But now we want to mention two events which occurred before initiation. On October 24 we celebrated Founders' Day with a banquet at the chapter house and were delighted to have with us representatives of ten chapters. Mrs. Hayes acted as toast-mistress and we all enjoyed the theme of The Roman Temple.

On October 25, after the Centre game we held our annual open house, and everyone declared it a very successful affair.

We must now tell you of a homecoming week-end which we'll never forget. The all-university celebration began Friday morning, November 14, with a hobo parade followed by luncheon at the gymnasium in true hobo style. Friday night witnessed the annual parade of sorority and fraternity floats and the display of house decorations. Saturday, following that never-to-be forgotten game, we had an alumnæ dinner at the chapter house and we were most happy to welcome home many of our alumnæ and to have with us several Wisconsin guests.

But the celebration had just begun! Monday we celebrated our having tied Michigan in the Big Ten championship by declaring a holiday and spending the entire day just having a glorious time. Activities began with a long parade of decorated cars to the Chicago loop; then dancing at the Aragon all afternoon; then on Monday night a mammoth bonfire; and this followed by a show at the Norshore Theater; and dancing at the Edgewater Beach and Drake Hotels, until you simply couldn't dance any longer. We surely declare unanimously that Northwestern has spirit.

And now for honors! Five of our girls received scholarship awards this year at Honors Convocation. Mildred Marsh, Doris Hopkins, and Evelyn Watt received sophomore honors, and Doris Fageron and Maurita Gaggin received freshman honors.

Mildred Marsh, Doris Hopkins, and Maurita Gaggin have recently been initiated into Ro Ku Va, an honorary society for sophomore, junior, and senior women, membership into which is based upon high scholarship and interest and participation in campus activities.

Jane Hayes has been initiated into Shi Ai, national honorary intersorority group composed of junior and senior women.

Elaine VanScoy has been appointed a member of the freshman commission and also a member of the freshman social committee.

Roberta Rogers danced in the chorus of Scrap Book, an all-university production which was pronounced a decided success.

At the W.A.A. spread, November 20, Mary Jane Bigger received her numeral for soccer.

Louise Koch won first prize for selling the most homecoming badges the week-end of November 14-15.

On December 6 we held our formal dinner dance at the Vista del Lago Club (and we feel quite safe in calling it the best we've ever had).

Now with thoughts in mind of impending examinations and February rushing, we will leave you, taking advantage of our first letter in 1931 to wish you a very happy and prosperous new year.

ALPHA GAMMA

Another semester is over, and the new one was ushered in by the lovely midterm dances featuring Jimmy Green and his orchestra. After a few well-earned holidays, we are getting back into the idea that knowledge is the primary reason for all colleges anyway. Classes and back to studying! A new semester and new chances to do something for Delta Zeta, and we expect to take advantage of every opportunity.

One would think that our house has been transformed into a hospital. Several of our girls had the flu, and it came at a most inopportune time—during semester examinations! When make-up exams are given, quiet will again reign, and most of our girls will be found studying.

We are all quite thrilled over the purchase of a new Victor combination radio and victrola. We've all enjoyed it lots already.

We are looking forward a great deal to a visit from Mrs. Bohannon, who is coming next week-end, and we hope to gain suggestions that will aid us in our work as individuals and as a chapter.

One of the loveliest teas that we have had this year was a formal one given in honor of the faculty and our freshmen. It was most decidedly a success.

MARY ANN HESTER, Editor

ALPHA DELTA

PLEDGES: Helen Clarke, Mary Doyle, Mary Williams, Mary Kelley, Lucille Magee, and Mary Kelly.

Local Panhellenic set November 2-12 for rushing. The outstanding event, of course, was the closed date the last night. It was a dinner-dance at the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps Country Club. We had a tea for the mothers of the rushees, a bridge supper, a studio party, a dance, and a progressive dinner. A Rose luncheon at the home of Mrs. Annette Ladd was one of the features of rush week.

The traditional pledge breakfast was held in the rooms on November 17, the first day after non-communication. The new girls were pledged the same day.

We had the honor of entertaining Mrs. Pease November 14-15. A tea was given on November 15 in compliment to her. As usual, when a visiting delegate comes to Washington, it rained, both days.

Fire, not Santa Claus, came on Christmas Eve. Our room was not burned, but was damaged by smoke and water. At last the university paints our walls! While there are fires, there is hope, you know.

Christmas breakfast was given in the chapter rooms on the morning of December 20. Amusing gifts were exchanged among us.

Our Christmas formal in honor of the pledges was most successful. The surprise came at intermission when Mr. John W. Ladd announced the engagement of Helen Robb, our Big Sister, to Mr. William Dove Thompson, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, of Washington. The dance was held at the University Women's Club, on December 29.

Althea Lawton, Mary Kelly, Mary Williams, Lucille Magee, and Frances Owen are out for basketball this season. Althea is star varsity forward, and Lucille is a great forward, too.

Jean Kelly has been chosen secretary of Troubadors for next year.

ALPHA ZETA

Too who! Too what! Too whit! The wise owl is speaking. With a wink of an eye and a scratch of an ear he reminisces about Alpha Zeta Chapter. "Way back on November 28 after gourmandizing on Thanksgiving Day, I traveled on the wing to the Grand Ballroom of the Garden City Hotel. Twirling, swirling, past me, everyone seemed in a jovial holiday mood. I sure gave my eyes plenty of nimble exercise that night surveying such beatific visions. Just before flying home, I gathered from my loquacious sisters that not only was it a merry affair but wonder of wonders a pecuniary success;"

"Eating! Gadding! Eating! sounds like Christmas vacation," declared the owl, "Um-um-m started early, for the 17th of December there was a dinner party at the Hempstead "Y" Bridge and an unusually fine menu enticed many alumnae.

"At the sophomore tea on the twenty-seventh Julia Golmans, president of the class, was the guest of honor. At the prom, at the Roosevelt, three of our members illuminated the committee.

"Eleanor Guile, '30," the owl continues, "is a remarkable girl. As editor-in-chief of the Junior Oracle she has been working arduously. During the vacation for a rest cure I accompanied her to the Georgia convention as the junior delegate. (Pray, how could an owl be a delegate?)

"After a few days, journeyed to a "Y" convention at Detroit. Marian Stellwagen, president of the Y.W.C.A. insisted she needed me as an escort."

"Rather weary, when I returned to Adelphi, but in the words of my colored friend, the crow 'ah sure craves a reposefol vacation.'"

"Too-oo! Too-oo!" The owl's talkie spell is over till the next LAMP of day shines forth.

ALPHA KAPPA

PLEDGE: Eloise White, Minoa.

INITIATES: Ruth Ellis, Syracuse, and Eleanore-Sumner, Geneva, New York.

On October 30 the Romance Language Major and Minor Club gave a tea at the chapter house. Edith Lawson is a member of the executive committee for the organization. The pledges of Alpha Kappa entertained at tea November 4. November 7 Marion Wescott was installed as vice-president to fill the vacancy left by Margaret Greene who was forced to leave school for the remainder of the year due to ill health. We hope to see her back with us next year.

The annual encounter between Syracuse and Colgate took place on November 15 and drew many of our alumnae back to Syracuse. Among these were Mary Simons, Florence Reynolds, Vera Powers, Marion Knowles, Fayma Lewis, Ruth Clark, Ruth Flick, Irene Follette Gulbran, Mildred Wood, Ethel Slater, Mabel Perkins Grunert, Maxine Morgan, Marie Branch, and Mildred Curtiss.

The fall meeting of the Alpha Kappa Corporation and the alumnae association also took place at that time.

November 24, the annual Panhellenic banquet was conducted at the Syracuse Hotel ballroom. Delta Zeta was one of four sororities to compete for the skit prize. After presenting "The Good Ship Panhellenic," Alpha Kappa rode home in high spirits with a prize of beautiful bronze bookends.

On December 16 we were entertained with a gang date at the Sigma Beta fraternity house. We experimented with a roulette wheel but finally decided that gambling wasn't in our line. We had a fine time and quite decidedly like gang dates.

Alpha Kappa entertained at the annual Christmas formal at the chapter house on December 18. The chimes rang a "good-night" to the tune of Merry Christmas and another formal was a thing of the past.

ACTIVITIES: Laura Way and Clarellen Way sang in the chorus of Electra which was presented by the college of fine arts. Elayn Headings was a priestess and Henri Etta Morey was one of the ushers for the same performance.

Edith Lawson, Gladys DiSeth, Josephine Roberts, Marion Wescott, Laura Way, Clarellen Way, Betty Kingsley, Henri Etta Morey were in the presentation of Samson and Delilah produced by the university chorus. Barbara Pierce, Alma Bourlier, Mabel Milligan, Beverly Chisholm, Mildred Campbell were ushers for the same recital.

Beverly Chisholm was pledged to Sigma Xi Beta, Honorary bacteriology society, on November 12.

Lucile Gifford, Mabel Milligan, and Jane Greenland have been retained as assistant associate editors on the Onondogan, Syracuse junior class year book.

MILDRED V. CAMPBELL, President

ALPHA LAMBDA

PLEDGES: Elizabeth Johnson, Brimfield, Illinois; Jane Herring, Scottsbluff, Nebraska.

INITIATES: Hazel Maurine Downs, Boulder, Colorado; Margaret Freel, Arriba, Colorado.

Here it is winter quarter already and we find ourselves in the campus whirl of the junior prom, engineers' ball, operetta, and a host of other equally exciting things. If everything would only stop coming all at once perhaps we could find time, wonderful little word, to do all the student work we should do.

It is our custom to have a Christmas party every year. The mothers' club decorate the tree for us and have their party in the afternoon. In the evening we have a regular Christmas dinner with all the fixings. After dinner the active girls put their pledge daughters to bed to await the coming of Santa, usually one of the alumna dressed in an appropriate costume. This year after putting our children to bed we heard sweet refrains of Christmas carols coming through the window. There, outside stood the pledges clad in pajamas in the snow heartily singing. Thus the fire-escape had been used for once!

We have given several enjoyable rush parties this year. One such party was a Sunday night waffle supper. After we had eaten all the waffles we wished, we sat around the fire, toasted marshmallows, sang songs, and played bridge.

One of our great night dinners appealed especially to the more sentimental members. A Hawaiian boy asked if he might come down and sing for us. We turned the lights low after dinner and his strange, weird, yet lovely songs accompanied by the guitar ended all too soon. The efforts of getting back to studying that evening were not very successful.

But to return from reminiscing and tell of the latest happening. Every year an operetta is given on the campus. It is written and directed by one of the professors of English literature. The operetta this year is A Lien on Love, and two of our girls have leads in it! Virginia Dannenbaum, a senior who has been in the chorus of each operetta for three years, has the comedy lead. Jean Bruner, one of our pledges, plays the part of an Indian girl. These girls were chosen from some fifty who tried out for the coveted positions. Ability for such leads is based on both singing and acting.

Costumes and stage settings for the operetta are under the direction of Miss Sibell, our alumnae adviser. Miss Sibell is head of the department of interior decorating in the university. She has at the present time art exhibits in Phoenix, Arizona, and in Boulder. Is it any wonder every one in the chapter has been talking operetta for the past three weeks!

Christmas parties before the holidays afforded a merry time for Alpha Xi Chapter. The promisees "set the pace" with a delightful bridge tea. The house was decorated with evergreens and a "cedary" Christmas tree, and red candles gave forth a lovely glow. High score prize was a box of hand-made handkerchiefs; consolation prize, a Santa Claus with a pack of candy on his back. Refreshments consisted of sandwiches, tea, angel food cake, and mints. The favors were miniature toys.

The annual chapter party was given Sunday night before the holidays. Truly, "the stockings were hung by the chimney with care," for each promisee was given a stocking filled with candy and toys. A Christmas tree held characteristic presents for each member of the chapter. (We had an entire orchestra, not excluding the bass drum; almost all of us can make a noise on some kind of instrument.) At this time were presented the gifts for the house from each member. Games and music along with readings of favorite poems furnished the evening entertainment. Favors were candlesticks made of gum drops with life-savers for handles and tiny red candles burning brightly.

Alpha Xi ranked sixth among the sororities on campus (there are sixteen sororities at Randolph-Macon) in the average for the first term, the average being 88.26. All of our ten promisees made the grades entitling them to be pledged. We are indeed proud of them.

Catherine Pluckett, one of Alpha Xi's promisees, is a member of the freshman Y.W.C.A. cabinet.

Lettie Morgan and Cara Sneed were recently made members of the Am Sam society, a secret organization the membership of which is based on character and extra-curricular activities.

Cara Sneed was sent as one of the two representatives from Randolph-Macon Woman's College to the national faculty Student Y.M.-Y.W.C.A. Conference held in Detroit, December 27-31. She reported a worth-while conference and a wonderful time.

Miss Marjorie S. Harris, faculty adviser, attended the meeting of the Eastern Division of the American Philosophical Association held at Charlottesville, Virginia, during the Christmas holidays.

ALPHA PI

PLEDGES: Zou Steele Bass, '32, Majel Mangun, '34, Odell Turner, '33, Marjorie Mauney, '34, Dorothy Craddock, '32, Octavia Martin, '34, Dorothy Cason, '34, and Mary Claire Randle, '33, all of Birmingham.

INITIATES: Elizabeth Stockard, '34, Mary Nunne, '34, Katherine Davis, '34, and Marjorie Self, '34, all of Birmingham.

Our most important event during rushing was a dinner and dance given at the Hollywood Country Club. The ball room was arranged to represent a yacht, and the placecards were in the form of little ships with the names of the girls and their dates on each sail. The no-break cards were in the shape of life-savers. Just before intermission each rushee was presented with an adorable tea set.

Alpha Gamma and Alpha Pi celebrated Founders' Day together. We had a banquet and dance at the Highland Park Country Club.

We are proud of the chapter this year. Our girls are outstanding in every organization on the campus. Allied Arts Club: Majel Mangun, Marjorie Self, Marjorie Mauney, Octavia Martin, Dorothy Craddock, Mary Claire Randle, Zou Steele Bass, Mary Katherine Waters and Wilma Buck. Susie Gullledge is president of this club, Margaret Fitzpatrick, secretary and Mary Bain, treasurer.

Sigma Sigma Kappa: Mary Katherine Waters, Elizabeth de Launey, Frances Mosley, and Mary Frank Chapple.

Margaret Fitzpatrick was elected president of Beta Pi Theta, French fraternity. Marjorie Mauney was initiated this year.

We have a new organization on the campus, Pi Kappa Theta, journalistic fraternity. Mary Bain was elected vice-president and Frances Mosley was invited to become a member.

The football season at Howard was great this year. The usual rivalry existed between Howard and Southern. The two schools had a cleverly planned parade. Frances Ferrell was Howard's beauty queen on one of the beautifully decorated floats. Leona Feltus was sponsor for the band while Josephine Bellsnyder and Sarah Hoover Davis were sponsors for the football team.

Margaret Fitzpatrick has the distinction of being the only girl in the history of the school who has run for the presidency of the student body. She lost by a majority of fifteen votes.

Mary Bain and Janet Morgan are Panhellenic representatives. Frances Mosley and Janet Morgan are members of the student council.

Dorothy Cason is freshman chairman of W.A.A., Margaret Fitzpatrick is junior chairman, and Zou Steele Bass, general chairman.

The girls who made the honor roll are Susie Gullledge, Mary Nunnely, and Lily-claire Meadows. Susie made six A's. In a recent Who's Who she was voted the most intellectual person on the campus.

Majel Mangun, Leona Feltus, and Susie Gullledge have parts in The New Co-Ed. Susie has the lead.

Marjorie Mauley, Zou Steele Bass, Margaret Fitzpatrick, Lilyclaire Meadows, Odell

Turner, Marjorie Self, and Majel Mangun are members of the girls' glee club. They have broadcast over the radio several times.

The active members of the chapter entertained the alumnæ during the Christmas holidays at a tea in the lovely home of Frances Ferrell.

We are very sorry indeed that Marjorie Self is leaving Birmingham for Amarillo, Texas, where she will attend a junior college.

ALPHA RHO

PLEDGE: Elizabeth Gross, Ashtabula, Ohio.

HONORS: Kappa Delta Pi, Vivian Janney; varsity debate, Vivian Janney, Elizabeth Ackerman; Wesleyan Players, Ella Richey Wells; Associate Players, Berneida Smith; Freshman Players, Ann Augustus, Katherine Schmid; Singers club; Mary Giebel, Marie Newby, Beatrice Hirsch; Junior Orchestis, Berneida Smith; French club, Florence Paryzek; Spanish club, Ellen-Ackerman, Elizabeth Ackerman; Boosters of '34, Elizabeth Duddleson, Josephine Sherman; swimmers club, Dorothy Domhoff; freshman Panhellenic, Doris Benjamin; freshman basketball manager, Evalyn Sauvey; freshman debate, Elizabeth Gross.

The first half of this school year has been a full and happy one for Alpha Rho. Our twenty pledges are proving themselves fine jolly girls. Since the last letter, we are glad to have added Betty Gross to their number. Our new rooms are homey and useful as we planned they should be; actives and pledges find them a splendid place to eat, play, and work together. During homecoming we had a breakfast for our alumnæ there; they were pleased with them too.

The Panhellenic lodge plan has not been abandoned but has been put aside for a while until all groups are financially able to carry out the program. Now to our building fund go all of the spare pennies, nickels, and the less frequent dollars. But every penny means that that charming little row of sorority lodges will be here sooner.

On December 5, 6, and 7, a Greek conclave was held on Ohio Wesleyan campus. Of course there were national representatives of every group; but Delta Zeta's guest interests you LAMP readers most. We were proud to have Miss Lois E. Higgins as our representative from national. You who have met her know what a charming lady she is. We hope she enjoyed her visit as much as we did. The conclave not only brought together on our campus, nationally known fraternity men and women, but it also brought their maturer concepts and experiences to help us. Our own Louise Redfern, President of Panhellenic, was women's chairman of the conclave, and had great responsibility.

We are proud of the way she did her part.

On December 15 we held an informal guest dance. Helen Laser and Marie Riddell with the aid of Elizabeth Christy, '30, planned one of the most original dances we have had. It was an Eskimo Hop with icicles, igloos, and even a big snowstorm. The pledges were regular Jack Frosts when it came to making icicles. Everything was "just right" and it was a "grand party."

But now dances and teas, football, and track give way to the big intellectual meet just ahead. Alpha Rho is in training for a high score.

ALPHA SIGMA

Alpha Sigma has had a big year this year so far. Last year the president of the freshman class was one of our freshmen. This year I am proud to say that we were fortunate enough to have one of our freshman elected as president of the freshman class again. This is very unusual and we are very proud of it. In Alpha Sigma we also have the chairman of the usher committee here on campus which is a very important position, and the secretary of the student body. We are all working hard for Delta Zeta. We are looking forward to bigger and better things next year and hope to have a house of our own by that time.

ALPHA PHI

PLEDGES: Millie Siefel, Kansas City, Kansas; Eleanor Montgomery, Skidmore, Missouri.

After a wonderful siege of sunshiny days which we Kansans are so unused to in the midst of the winter and a real siege of finals, we begin to realize that Alpha Phi Chapter has really accomplished a great deal this semester.

Honors for the most part seemed to run to journalism. Marrion Graves was associate editor of the University Daily Kansan for a time. Katherine Morris was pledged to Theta Sigma Phi, honorary journalistic sorority, was night editor for a month and is now campus editor of the above-named publication. Cece Goddard won a costume prize at the all-university Halloween party, Alice Gallup is chairman of the sophomore commission, Bobbie Bates was in the fashion show, and Aline Burge was chosen as one of the twenty-four beauties from whom the final six will be selected.

We certainly have not been lax in our social activities, either. For homecoming, we entertained the entire Nebraska chapter and "a grand time was had by all," even if we did lose the game. First, I should have mentioned our lovely Founders' Day dinner at which our patronesses were present. Then, on December 6, our annual snowball party took place. Speaking of mad scrambles, there certainly was one to get the confetti snowball that contained the prize. Of course, we have given numerous teas and rush dinners. Lastly, I would like to mention the formal dinner given in honor of our visiting delegate, Mrs. Miller from sunny Texas. She inspected us all right but she seemed to like us, ahem, ahem—of course, we wouldn't think of bragging about ourselves.

Before closing, I believe a peek into the plans for second semester rushing would be interesting. On the first day we are having a pajama bridge-breakfast. Doesn't that sound a bit different? On the second day, the afternoon will be occupied with a "silhouette" tea, everything being carried out in black and white. That night, as usual, we will entertain with the formal Rose dinner. We have ever so many rushees and we hope that means ever so many new pledges.

ALPHA PSI

PLEDGES: Kathleen Dollard, Houston; Marjorie Black, Dallas.

INITIATES: Martha Stewart, Farmersville; Hattie Keith Davis, Stigler, Oklahoma; Vivian Price, Dallas.

Our best news is the announcement from the dean's office that the university is considering allowing sororities on the campus to build what will be known as a sorority lodge, to house apartments for the fifteen girls' organizations on the campus. This action was decided upon in view of the fact that houses are not allowed here and the lodge will provide meeting places and also serve as a social center.

One of the highest points of the year's activities was the visit of Mrs. Malott during the last of January. We are very grateful indeed for her short stay with us and are still thinking of some things that we would like to have asked her and talked about.

Basketball practice among the sororities has begun and Delta Zetas are nursing black eyes, sprained fingers, and twisted ankles, along with an unquenchable belief in their athletic prowess. We spend all our spare time tossing balls at that impervious basket and learning "why we aren't allowed to step over those silly white lines" and "why I can't push her, she pushed me." Anyway athletic minded students are due for a real treat beginning some time about the last of March when Delta Zeta matches her powers with those of other sororities.

Honors have been flying fast and furious among the Alpha Psis this year. Betty Knox has been elected to Mu Phi Epsilon, national honorary musical sorority; Katharine Hoffman has been elected to Junior Arden, dramatic society. Betty Fiser, member of Theta Sigma Phi, national Journalism sorority, has been selected sports editor of the school paper, the Semi-Weekly Campus. Octavia Edwards is president of Eta Sigma Phi, national classical sorority, and also a member of Decima, senior girls' organization. Martha Stewart and Hattie Keith Davis were selected to play on the W.A.A. basketball team this year. Catherine Allison has been chosen editor of the Theta Sigma Phi edition of the Campus, to appear in March.

ALPHA OMEGA

INITIATES: Trella Mae Burnham, LeLacey McMurry.

PLEDGE: Douglas Banks.

First of all we want you to know about our Christmas dance. Alpha Omega and Beta Beta had a big "celebration" in the ball room on the Roof Garden of the new Robert E. Lee Hotel here in Jackson on December 27. Decorations and favors in Christmas colors made the room colorful, but prettiest of all were the dance programs in Delta Zeta colors and the shower of balloons with "Delta Zeta" printed on them. This evening of fun together gave the girls of both chapters an opportunity to know and love more of their Delta Zeta sisters. We were especially honored to have as our special guests of the evening Miss Sabina I. Murray and Miss Margaret Buchanan, both of whom are known and loved by Delta Zetas everywhere.

During the Christmas holidays our Alpha Omega alumna and National Secretary, Margaret Buchanan officially inspected the chapter. It was with real pleasure that our girls received Margaret, and we hated to see her leave.

At present we are busy with plans for a "Lucky 13" Valentine party, following the example set us by our convention this summer.

All Beta Province girls are looking forward to our convention this spring.

BETA ALPHA

Christmas vacation was a welcome interruption in the steady round of studies, but we are never too tired to have a party. Santa Claus came and brought us a bagful of lovely ten-cent gifts each with an appropriate verse referring to some well-known characteristic of the receiver. A stately pine tree, dressed in tinsel and Christmas balls, gave the lodge a very Christmasy air. Each girl read her verse aloud, amid pleased chuckles and side remarks. A party wouldn't be a party without refreshments, and they were forthcoming. We sang many Christmas carols and then after some D.Z. songs the jolly party was over.

Our pledges surprised us upon our return to college at New Year's by the announcement of a "backwards" party to which all upperclassmen were invited. We entered the back door of the lodge obediently wearing our clothes backwards. A jolly evening was spent doing everything backwards, but the upperclassmen did back down on reciting the chapter roll backwards! We are all satisfied that our freshmen are not at all backward in knowing how to give parties.

Recently the senior class vote was published, and Sarah Barker, one of our seniors, took first place as the most beautiful, most popular, best dancer and most collegiate. We are very proud of her and also of Muriel Fletcher and Virginia Lovejoy, who tied for being the most likely to succeed. Madeleine Pressoir deserves credit for being voted the most original, and we are of course proud that Delta Zeta stands up so well under popular vote.

Each week we have a special get-together party in the lodge after dinner. Each class has charge a different week and we have just loads of fun. Last week the senior class had charge and acted out a short comic skit for our entertainment.

This year the W.A.A. has been reorganized, and our Delta Zeta president, Muriel Fletcher, was elected president. Not long ago the basketball trophy was awarded to the senior class who are the interclass champions, and it was given to Grace Brightman, one of our seniors, and captain of the team for last year. She is very generously sharing it with the rest of us by placing it on the mantel in the lodge.

Exams are almost upon us and we are spurring our freshmen on to make their averages. As for the rest of us, we are not forgetting that it is our turn to have the scholarship cup next year!

BETA GAMMA

PLEDGE: Edna Lang.

INITIATE: Glenna Smith.

Life has been quite interesting for Beta Gamma since our last LAMP letter. The first interesting event took place on November 14 when our pledges gave a "Shack Dance" for the actives. Although it rained and many dresses were ruined everyone had a marvelous time. The following Sunday Edna Lang was pledged.

On December 10 a special initiation service was held for Glenna Smith. This service was a very opportune time for Glenna because she received a Pi Kappa Alpha sister pin for Christmas.

Next came the gala Christmas season and what a jolly time we had! On Tuesday, December 23, we had a formal dance at the University Club. Aided by attractive decorations, including a new illuminated Delta Zeta sign made by several of the pledges, and several of our specials, it was a huge success. We had a bridge at the chapter house for the alumnae, December 27. At this time a silver pitcher was presented to Eleanor Holmes, an alumna whose marriage took place December 28. At this time Mrs. Gregory, wife of the superintendent of Louisville public schools, gave us a beautiful candelabrum. Mrs. Gregory is a Delta Zeta from Nebraska. We are very anxious for midterm rushing to begin so that we may use our gift to its best advantages.

Mrs. Crawford, our past province president, paid us a short visit while she was here with her husband. We are expecting our visiting delegate soon.

Our examinations were over January 24 and rushing begins January 28 lasting until February 25.

BETA ZETA

INITIATES: June Montgomery, Maxine Pulham, Margaret Jensen, Margaret Skelton, Diantholin Lollin, Billie Bird, Viola Hall, La Vera MacArthur, Edith Jamison.

PLEDGE: Ruth Christensen.

Since the last letter to THE LAMP Beta Zeta has been working hard and, we think, accomplishing much. Besides our nine new actives and one pledge we have also acquired some attractive new furniture. Our living room now boasts several lamps, tan overstuffed suite, a new carpet, and several tables to keep the piano and radio company. The creaking antiques that were formerly used have now been replaced by new beds, thus making it possible for one girl to turn over without waking all of the rest.

We have had several successful parties, including two dances and two formal banquets, but we believe that we all enjoyed ourselves the most during the three days that Mrs. Friedline visited us. Of course we were rather nervous about being "inspected" and this probably concealed a lot of our real charm and natural ability but every Beta Zeta girl and everyone else who met her was certainly charmed by her. We all were sorry to see her go and hope that she will be able to come and see us again.

A few weeks ago, the afternoon before the junior prom, we went Bohemian and entertained the campus at a gypsy camp open house. It was very realistic with a black caldron boiling over an open fire, a fortune-telling tent and gypsy money for favors. The only discrepancy was our clean blouses and necks.

We are now trying to profit by Mrs. Friedline's suggestions and everytime we hear a girl sing, play the piano, or watch her monopolize the fraternity boys, we put a sleuth on her trail. No one is safe and we hope to have a big spring pledging.

ALICE CRANDALL, Editor
RUTH WILSON, President

BETA ETA

INITIATE: Helen Townsend.

PLEDGES: Jane Jack, Elizabeth Shafer.

Beta Eta is still inexperienced but we are "gathering materials to build our bridge to the moon." Our social calendar for the last few months records the fall pledge dance at Wynnefield Country Club, a Christmas party, a party which the pledges gave for the upperclassmen, and a tea at which our pledges entertained the pledges of the other fraternities on the campus. So you see we have started our bridge and we are making grand plans for spring.

Our initiation service will be held on February 7 and it will be followed by a banquet at Strath Haven, an attractive Inn in Swarthmore. Then "the outstanding and brilliant event of the season" according to our social editor will be our formal spring dance in March.

We have a few interesting jottings about individual members, too. Helen Flanagan is a member of the varsity swimming team and Katharine Patterson won her letter for playing on the senior class hockey team. Margaret Zabriskie, Mary Betts, Helen Grumpelt, and Helen Townsend are all members of the college debating squad; Mary Betts is also manager of the team.

At present we are enduring mid-year examinations. The only members who are at all jubilant are the seniors, for this is their last experience with them. In the spring there are senior comprehensives to replace them, however, so the cloud is not all silver lining.

BETA THETA

PLEDGES: Ruth Rippel, '34, McKeesport; Shirley Rettman, '34, Harrisburg; Elsie Shields, '34, Hazelton; Helen Becker, '34, Scranton; Jane Murray, '34, Narberth; Pauline Wenner, '32, Allentown; Katie Morrison, '32, Pottsville.

INITIATES: Ethel A. Booth, '31, Montrose; Margaret McClain, '33, Picture Rocks; Helen Walters, '32, Lewistown.

Our first social activity as Delta Zetas was on Founders' Day, October 24. At this function we entertained representatives from other sororities on the campus, our patronesses, and wives of the faculty. On November 25 our first formal dance was held in the living room of Larison Hall. Representatives were present from all sororities and fraternities.

The W.A.A. conducted an intersorority drive for membership, offering as a reward for the first 100 per cent group membership a silver loving cup. The first leg of the cup was won by our chapter. To remain permanently in our possession we must win it three years in succession.

On December 18 a Christmas party was held in the chapter room for actives and pledges. Games, exchange of gifts, dancing, and a light lunch featured the program.

A commission to simplify and revise the rules and regulations regarding the conduct of Bucknell co-eds has been formed as a result of a report made by a representative who was at the last conference of the National Student Federation of America. The commission is to be made up of students and faculty members. Janet Murphy, '31, our president, has been selected as a member of the commission.

The Wickersham commission on law observance and enforcement has been conducting a special investigation on the cost of administration of criminal justice in Williamsport, Pennsylvania, aided by two Bucknell students under the direction of the department of political science. One of these students is Marie Groff, '33. The aim of the study will be to divide the costs of courts and police between civil cases and criminal cases. The work will not be completed before March 1, and no reports will be given out at Bucknell, but will be sent direct to Sidney P. Simpson of New York, special director in charge of investigation on the costs of enforcement.

The chapter was delighted by the visit of Mr. J. W. Pease on November 13.

We regret that Margaret McClain, '33, will be unable to be present with us next semester because of illness. We are looking forward to the return to school of Helen Oister, '31, who is coming back to finish her course.

BETA IOTA

We are so happy to be in Delta Zeta! Lucky thirteen! We were pledged September 13, 1930, and installed December 13, 1930.

Mrs. Myrtle Graeter Malott and Miss Lisette Reinle were chief installing officers. Other members of the inspiration team were: Mrs. Edna Guilbert Wrench, Alpha Lambda, secretary-treasurer of Zeta Province; Mrs. Lois Zimmerman Smith, Iota; Mrs. Valerie Menhennett Nave, and Mrs. Mary Fairchild Taylor, Mu; Mrs. Mayme Dworak Fasting, Zeta; Mrs. Margaret Taylor Dickinson, Mu; Mrs. Rowena Beach Rogers, Phi; Mrs. Letha Brattin Adams, Alpha Epsilon; Kathleen Westmoreland, Alpha Iota; Josephine Haggard, Kappa; Birdie Rosaline Fowler, Mu; Vesta McCalister, Alpha Chi; Mary Louise Hood, Alpha Chi.

Birdie Fowler came down from Phoenix, Arizona, to be present for installation, Rowena Beach Rogers arrived from Coolidge, Arizona, and Letha Brattin Adams motored down from Dragoon, Arizona.

Vesta McCalister and Mary Louise Hood drove down from Los Angeles. It is interesting to know that Vesta and Mary Louise drove down last spring to inspect the chapter. Vesta being official preliminary inspector.

Mrs. Myrtle Graeter Malott arrived Thursday night from San Antonio. Early Friday morning Mrs. Malott was entertained with a breakfast by the mothers' club at the home of Mrs. Agnes Kohler. The rest of the morning was spent in interviewing several of the university officials. At the noon hour Mrs. Homer Leroy Shantz, wife of the university president, and Dean Evelyn Wellington Jones, dean of women, entertained Mrs. Malott with a most delightful and beautifully appointed luncheon. Visiting and local Delta Zetas and prominent Tucson women were invited to meet Mrs. Malott. The afternoon was mostly spent completing arrangements for installation. The chapter had an informal dinner at the chapter house for Mrs. Malott on Friday evening.

Lisette Reinle arrived from Oakland early Saturday morning and then the festivities began. Preceding the installation the local chapter pledged Cordelia Caldwell. The ceremony started at 10:00 A.M. and continued through out the day until 5:00 P.M. The initiation and installation services were held at the new home of Lois Zimmerman Smith.

A formal banquet followed at the Santa Rita Hotel and the installation services were brought to a close with the loving cup ceremony. The loving cup was presented to Beta Iota by Zeta Province.

Breakfast was served early Sunday morning to the new initiates. A three-hour chapter meeting followed when the charter was signed.

Sunday afternoon the new chapter was hostess at a reception tea. At this time the visiting Delta Zetas and new initiates were introduced to the campus and prominent townspeople.

Lois Smith entertained Sunday night in her new home with a "fireside" gathering. A delicious supper was served and an evening of entertainment followed. The pledges provided music, skits, and the like.

Monday found everyone back in their regular routine. A special pledge dinner was held at the chapter house Monday evening honoring the pledges. Mrs. Malott and Lisette Reinle were also guests. A Spanish dinner was served and two of the girls dressed in Spanish costumes served the dinner.

We won the Hattie Ferrin Solomon award for the semester 1929-30. This award is a silver cup which is given each semester to the group of women students having the highest scholarship for the semester. This cup is to be permanently held by the group winning it three successive times.

We are justly proud of our mothers' club. Mrs. Jennie R. Guilbert is president and Mrs. Agnes Kohler, secretary-treasurer. The club is composed of thirteen members. During Mrs. Malott's visit the mothers entertained her at a dainty appointed breakfast at the home of Mrs. Kohler. At this time Mrs. Malott told them of Delta Zeta and presented Mrs. Kohler with a mothers' pin. The club also presented Mrs. Malott with a lovely copper vase as a parting gift. We are proud to say too that this is the first mothers' club to present a visiting national president with a gift—so Mrs. Malott says.

The formal installation dance was given the following week end at the Santa Rita Hotel. The ballroom was decorated in rose and green with baskets of Killarney Roses placed here and there. It was a very beautiful dance. Special guests for the evening were President and Mrs. H. L. Shantz, Dean Evelyn Wellington Jones, Dean and Mrs. A. H. Otis, and representatives from each of the fraternities and sororities.
