On September 11, 2001, our lives and our country were irrevocably changed. The weeks following the terrorist attacks have been a time of shock, disbelief and profound sadness. Our thoughts and prayers are with the victims, their families and friends, and to our Delta Zeta sisters who have been affected by these catastrophic events. We must look to the beliefs of our spirituality, the founding values of our great nation and the basic tenets of our sisterhood to provide comfort and support at this difficult time. We are reminded of the words of our Creed: "To crusade for justice, to seek the truth and defend it always".

We are reminded, too, that were it not for the founding fathers of our great nation, Delta Zeta's Founders would not have had the freedom to organize and create the Sorority known today as Delta Zeta. As America faces the darkest time in her history, our leaders will look to the Constitution of the United States for guidance. Americans have shown just how much our precious freedom means to us, and how fervently we intend to fight for it. The American spirit, which has been so passionately demonstrated over the past weeks, is an inspiration to freedom-loving people all over the world.

In light of the recent tragedies, we have seen, too, the spirit of giving—the generosity of helping others that is so integral to Delta Zeta Sorority. We know that our sisters will meet the call for help valiantly and generously, as we have done throughout our history when our country has faced a crisis.

Delta Zeta Sorority encourages our alumnae chapters and our collegiate chapters to consider donating to any charity or organization of their choosing on a national or local level to recognize the efforts of those who give so much to help others. We applaud our members' generosity of spirit and faith in our democracy, which will fortify us for the challenges ahead.

God Bless America,

Foundation Focus

Welcome the New President of the Delta Zeta Foundation, Ruth W. Patterson

Ruth Weider Patterson was elected as President of the Delta Zeta Foundation for 2001-2002 at the Foundation Board meeting held in August. Mrs. Patterson has served Delta Zeta in many capacities, and brings a wealth of experience to her newest role. Initiated into the Beta Chi Chapter, Mrs. Patterson is also a member of the Columbia Alumnae Chapter and resides in Columbia, South Carolina. As a Past National Officer, she most recently served at Delta Zeta Sorority's National Treasurer, and has also been a College Chapter Director, Province Collegiate Director, and National Finance Committee Chairman.

Dear Delta Zeta Family and Friends,

As our Sorority enters its 100th year, the Delta Zeta Loyalty Fund is just turning five years old, and like the Sorority, the Loyalty Fund just keeps getting better, thanks to the generosity of our members and friends.

During the Centennial Year, the Foundation will be asking our collegians and alumnae to make a very special once-in-a-lifetime 100th birthday gift in honor of our Founders and our members, past, present and to come.

(The Foundation has as its mission "to advance the Sorority's educational and philanthropic purposes through the development of financial and human resources in support of the Sorority's leadership, scholarship, philanthropic and educational programs.")

Through your gifts, the Foundation provides:

- Scholarships and emergency grants to undergraduate and graduate members.
- Leadership and educational programs—such as the Norma Minch Andrisek Leadership Conferences and the CCD Conferences.
- Preservation of our National Historical Museum and archives.
- Education about and support of our national philanthropy for speech and hearing.

Your donation is important, needed and very much appreciated. With your gift, you can help us continue to build a Sorority for today with the leaders we will look to tomorrow.

Hearing Help Grants Give Hope

The Delta Zeta Foundation recently announced the recipients of the 2001 Hearing Help Grants. The grants are awarded each year to alumnae chapters who work with speech and hearing facilities in their local communities. Hearing Help Grants provide funds to hearing centers, schools, clinics, hospitals, and for education and projects in the area of speech and hearing.

This year's recipients are:

- Arlington Alumnae Chapter for Arlington Regional Program for the Deaf
- Charlotte Alumnae Chapter for Charlotte Speech and Hearing Center
- Houston Alumnae Chapter for The Center for Hearing and Speech

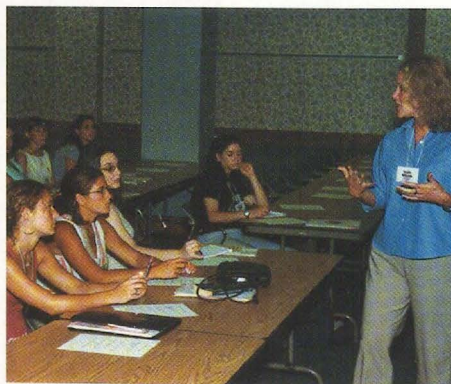

The Foundation applauds these chapters for their work in providing the opportunity for others to communicate, learn, and live a productive life while living with the challenges of speech and hearing impairment. Won't you be a part of this important mission with your gift to the Delta Zeta Foundation today?

Leading the Way - The Delta Zeta Foundation Sponsors Leadership Conference Workshops

At the Norma Minch Andrisek 2001 Leadership Conference held at Purdue University this summer, the Delta Zeta Foundation was proud to sponsor many of the leadership and educational workshops presented.

These workshops provide training and information on the important issues facing collegians today, and educate our alumnae who support our college chapters. Leadership programs guide collegians in accepting the challenge of leadership—on their campus, and later in their own communities after graduation.

Donations to the Delta Zeta Foundation are crucial to supporting this important educational effort. You can always donate online using your credit card via the Delta Zeta website at www.deltazeta.org. Go to the Foundation page and click on "Online Contribution Form." Your information is safe and secure with our secure server software (SSL).

In 1971, Grace Mason Lundy (1893-1993), Past National President and Past Historian, published a booklet for collegians entitled "The Founders of Delta Zeta."

As Delta Zeta begins the Centennial Year, we will publish excerpts from that booklet in upcoming LAMP issues.

In each set of excerpts, various sections of the booklet will be tied together with a common thread. In this excerpt, we look at Mabelle May Minton (1880-1929).

GRACE MASON LUNDY

Introduction

They founded a sorority for us. They became alumnae. What did they do in the years after they left Miami? Most kept in close touch with the sorority they established with so much love and high ambition. But what DID they do, where did they live, and what do we know about their later lives?

This question came up once from a Delta Zeta who wanted to know these things for a talk she was planning on a Founders' Day. To help her, and perhaps many others of you, I have written this little booklet which tells most of what we know, and only shows us how much more we wish we could know, now that all our Founders live only in memories and grateful hearts.

Mabelle May Minton

Mabelle Minton was the oldest child in a family of eight, another family growing from a college romance, but in this case the parents, Florence Parker and Harvey Minton, had met as students at Wheaton College in Illinois. The family was living in Ohio, at Buena Vista Farm near Hamilton, when Mabelle was born, and she graduated from Hamilton High School. College began for her also, at Wheaton, but Miami University, nearer home, drew her in 1902, and she was active in the new sorority during its first year.

In 1903 the death of her mother kept her home as head of the household, and it was two years before she could resume her collegiate life, this time at Teacher's College of Columbia University. A short teaching period in the East ended with a decision to go into business, and she chose the actuarial field.

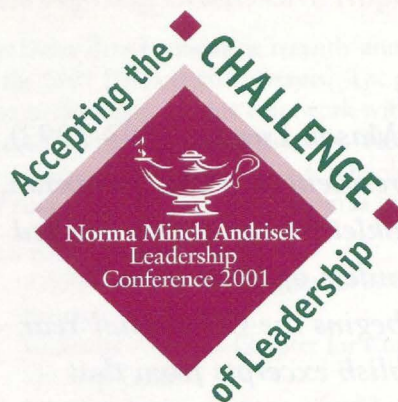

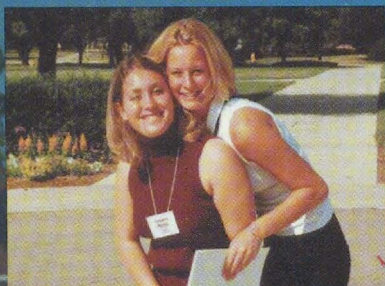

In the early years of Delta Zeta growth she had contributed a great deal to its extension, this being a field of special interest to her. She was the organizer of Iota, Omicron, and Xi Chapters. It was due to hopes for a chapter at Minnesota that the chapter name of Gamma was reserved for a chapter there, even though it did not become a reality until 1923. She was of special inspiration at Conventions, and her attendance at the 1910, 1912 and 1914 Conventions was a highlight for all collegiates who met her.

The Articles of Incorporation

Mabelle Minton's sister, Lillian Minton Krebs was an early initiate in Alpha and has all her life been a steadfast, lovely Delta Zeta. Some of you have met her at the conventions she has attended; you may recall her as the hostess at Miami in the 1964 post-Convention tour there. To her we owe the discovery of the long-lost original charter to Delta Zeta from the State of Ohio.

Addenda

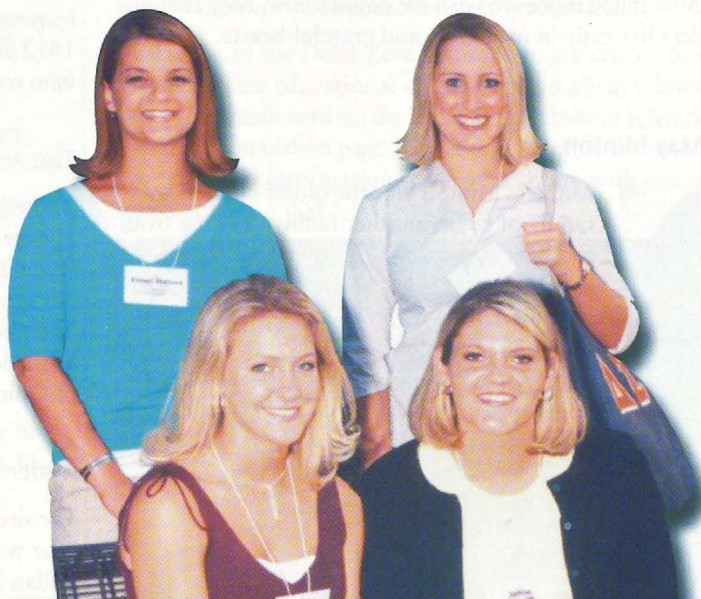

The original document, in some of Alpha Chapter's moves, later was misplaced and mourned as lost. A diligent search by Lillian Minton Krebs discovered it after many years, in some long-undisturbed boxes of sorority mementos.

Accepting the Challenge of Leadership

The Norma Minch Andrisek Leadership Conference for 2001 set new attendance records with over 460 delegates as it began on the evening of June 29, 2001. At Purdue University in West Lafayette, Indiana, collegiate officers eagerly awaited the opening remarks from National President Karly Burns as the lights dimmed, voices stilled, and the program began.

Mrs. Burns introduced Norma Minch Andrisek, Past National President and the conference's namesake, saying, "This conference is named in honor of Mrs. Andrisek and the leadership she has given Delta Zeta over the years." Mrs. Andrisek then reminded the audience that "The name of the conference is not important—the word that is important is 'leadership.' Each and every one of you is a Delta Zetas leader, and when you leave this conference, you will be taking something very special with you."

A Greek System for the Future

The program then kicked into high gear as David L. Westol, Executive Director of Theta Chi National Fraternity, took the stage to give the keynote address. David has lectured on legal affairs and liabilities at over 200 campuses and fraternity conventions. He gave a compelling presentation entitled "Hazing on Trial." Using a mock trial setting, he played the part of a prosecuting attorney cross-examining a Delta Zeta college chapter president during an investigation into the accidental death of a collegian at a party hosted by the chapter and a fraternity.

David's re-enactment made a sobering statement to the audience and brought home the point of taking responsibility for risk management issues—and taking the precautions to ensure they don't happen. "If we don't do something [as Greeks], the Greek system won't be around all that much longer. The idea is very simple—we've got to take a stand.

Everyone can have parties. Only a few people have the vision and ideals to believe in something bigger than themselves. We want to have a Greek system for our sons and daughters to come to."

Saturday, June 30 kept delegates busy as they attended breakout sessions, lectures, and workshops. Collegiate officers were excited about actual hands-on workshops in the areas of their interest. There were many breakout sessions to choose from, including "Five Simple Steps to Recruitment," "Making Academics a Priority," "Productive Partnerships: Working with Greek Advisors and Panhellenic Council," "A Sorority of Substance, Not About It," "Values Based Leadership," "The 100% Involvement—How to Make it Happen," "Alumnae Involvement," "Communication—It Shouldn't be So Difficult," and "Selling the Delta Zeta Product."

The National President's Collegiate Advisory Board— Leading the Path to Excellence

The National President's Collegiate Advisory Board met for the first time at the NMA Leadership Conference. The members of the Advisory Board are the college Chapter Presidents of Crest Award-winning chapters for the past biennium. The Crest Award is presented at National Convention to outstanding collegiate chapters that have excelled consistently in all areas of college programming.

The Board's purpose is to provide information to the National Council and/or its representatives regarding the college chapter or individual collegian's perspective and needs relevant to college programs, issues, behaviors, or other areas as determined by National Council. This dialogue will not only benefit current chapter members, but will serve to improve the chapter as a whole.

Katie Sermersheim Honored by Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity

Katie Sermersheim, Secretary of Delta Zeta Sorority's National Council and member of the Training Committee, was presented with a special honor from Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity—the Interfraternity Educational Fellowship.

Phi Kappa Tau implemented the Fellowship in 1997 to recognize and reward outstanding individuals who contribute to their fraternities and the entire Greek community. Katie is a doctoral candidate in Educational Administration at Southern Illinois University and is the Assistant Director of Student Development at the university as well, and has many credentials in the Greek and academic realms.

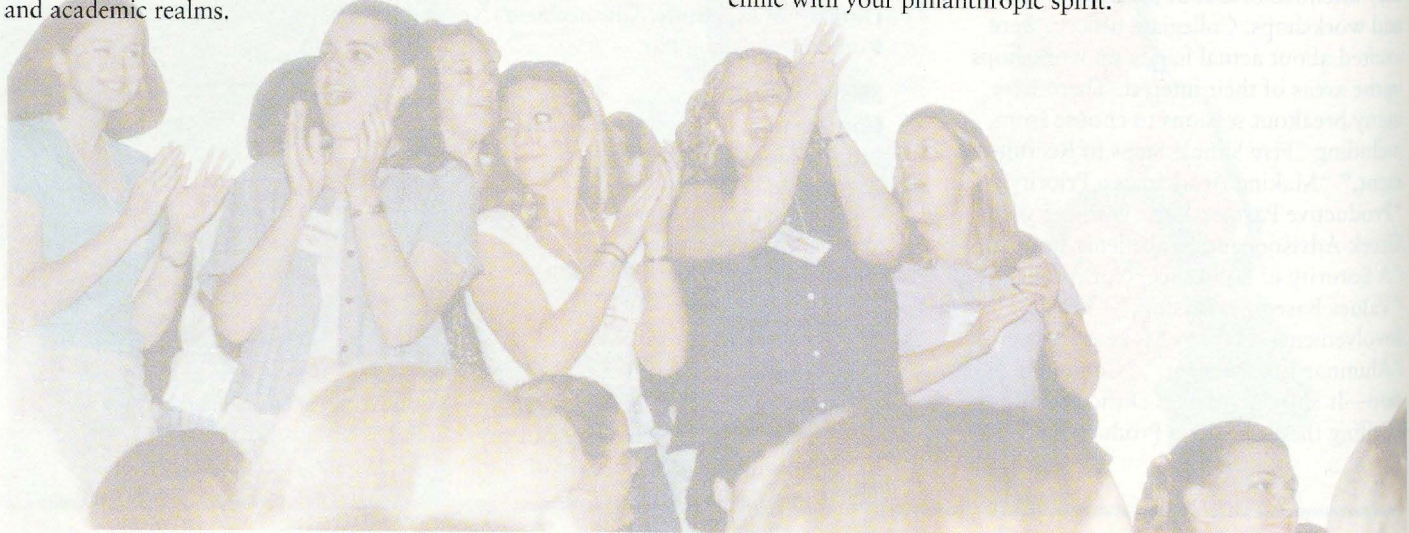

William Jenkins, Executive Vice President of the Phi Kappa Tau Foundation and current President of the North-American Interfraternity Conference (NIC), awarded the fellowship to Katie. Citing one of Katie's colleagues at SIU, Dr. Nancy Hunter Pei, Director of Student Development, he quoted, "Katie has been instrumental in providing direction for our Greek community. Because of her careful guidance and professional diligence, she has earned the respect and admiration of the students, Greek alumni, faculty and staff as well as her professional colleagues throughout the country."

When asked how being a Greek has enhanced her life, Katie said, "Delta Zeta has laid the foundation for who I am today. Without Delta Zeta, I would never have sought a master's degree or would never have worked on a college campus as a Greek advisor. Delta Zeta has given me experiences I would never give up or change about my life. Delta Zeta has taught me temperance, insight, and courage, and provided me with opportunities for personal, professional, and academic growth."

Exciting Programs and Presentations

The keynote speaker for Saturday was Ginny Carroll, a former Executive Director of Alpha Xi Delta. She discussed the importance of ethics in our lives, and how those ethics are an inherent part of the values that Greeks live each day.

A special donation of toys and money, collected from each chapter attending the conference, was presented to the Department of Audiology and Speech Sciences of Purdue University. Mary Lou Miller, Speech Language Pathologist, said, "I would like to thank you for your generosity and support. Your donations are greatly appreciated and will enable us to better serve children in our clinic. Your commitment to your sorority and to helping others is heartwarming. Thank you for honoring our clinic with your philanthropic spirit."

Members of Delta Zeta's Centennial Committee were introduced to unveil plans for the coming Centennial Year. Norma Minch Andrisek, Chairman of the Centennial Committee, said, "Our Founders are responsible for our knowing one another. They have provided, for almost one hundred years, their insight and courage, and the forum by which we do know one another. I feel very indebted to them, and I know you do, too."

Many of the collegiate delegates enjoyed the roundtable discussions that were held on Saturday evening. The collegians had the opportunity to break into groups by officer title, and then later by specific topics of interest, to share ideas and discuss similar challenges they encounter in their chapters. Everyone agreed that the evening provided valuable information and insight into the responsibilities chapter officers share in guiding their chapters.

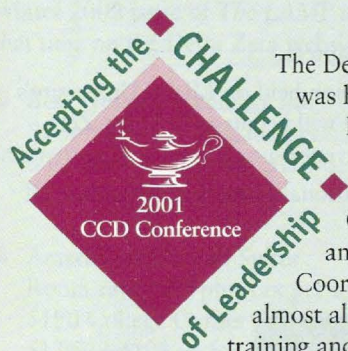

The NMA Leadership Conference concluded on Sunday morning with a closing activity that allowed attendees to share their thoughts and feelings about those who had come to mean the most to them—whether it was someone they had known for a while in Delta Zeta, or someone they had met that weekend.

Delta Omega Chapter President Michelle Joy summed up the feelings of the delegates as she said, "I felt so special to be a part of an organization of thousands of women just like me who come together to create something so important. I believe that every chapter, no matter how big or small, is crucial to Delta Zeta in the scope of the national organization. Each individual chapter, each individual girl, makes Delta Zeta what it is today."

THE 2001 CCD CONFERENCE

The Delta Zeta CCD Conference was held on July 20-22, 2001 at Purdue University in West Lafayette, Indiana.

Delta Zeta College Chapter Directors (CCDs) and Regional Collegiate Coordinators (RCCs) came from almost all 50 states to spend time training and gaining leadership ability at the annual conference. The CCD Conference is supported through the contributions to the Delta Zeta Foundation made by chapters, members, and friends of Delta Zeta.

The Stewart Center was a buzz of excitement on Friday evening as the women were welcomed to the conference. The CCDs then disbursed into regional meetings. On Saturday, the assemblage was updated on the latest Centennial Celebration news before going into breakout sessions, which included timely topics such as "CCD 101," "Advising Your Way Through Recruitment," "What is Ritual?" "Delta Zeta Academics—A Step Ahead," and "Officer Training," among others. RCCs also attended special training sessions throughout the day. LikeMindedPeople, a training organization that customizes solutions for a range of clients, presented a general session to the assemblage.

The day concluded with roundtable sessions that gave the CCDs the opportunity to share ideas and express common concerns. Many of the attendees believed that this was a great way to find solutions to similar challenges and to pass on what exactly is working for them at their respective schools.

The conference came to an end on Sunday with a closing group session that affirmed the closeness that the members of this crucial Delta Zeta team have for one another and the importance of their common goals.

Workshops provided many learning opportunities for CCDs and RCCs.

As a member of the university community where Delta Zeta has its chapters, we want to be a part of serving the mission of the institution. We have asked school officials to share with us their thoughts about what Delta Zeta and other Greek organizations can do to make a positive contribution to that end. Associate Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs and Enrollment Management and Dean of Students at Southern Illinois University Dr. Jean Paratore discusses how Greek organizations are part of the campus tradition, and how those organizations enhance the strengths of the schools at which they have chapters.

Please describe your role as Associate Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs and Enrollment Management and Dean of Students of Southern Illinois University/Carbondale.

As my title indicates, my role is really divided into two roles. First, as Associate Vice Chancellor, I serve as staff to the Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs and Enrollment Management. In that role I represent the division on campus-wide committees and task forces and fill in for the Vice Chancellor in his absence. I also work with individuals across departmental and divisional lines in responding to campus emergencies or student crises, preparing SIUC's response to our annual Campus Crime Report, chairing our division-wide staff development committee and other assignments as they arise. I also, upon request, advise the Vice Chancellor on all matters within the purview of our division.

As the Dean of Students, I have line responsibility for eight units within the division: Career Services, Counseling Center, Disability Support Services, Intramural-Recreational Sports, New Students and Family/Parent Programs, Student Development, Student Judicial Affairs, and Students Legal Assistance.

How many Greek organizations are on the SIU campus?

At present we have 23 organizations recognized on campus. We are planning to expand and could add one or possibly two additional fraternities within the year.

Delta Zeta's Gamma Omega Chapter has been a part of the Southern Illinois campus since 1953. How do you believe Delta Zeta and other Greek organizations contribute to the overall strength of the university?

The women of Delta Zeta are very involved in the student leadership of the campus. They hold leadership positions on Panhellenic Council and the Inter-Greek Council. They serve as Student Resident Advisors in the residence halls and are very active in other large student organizations. Certainly, the wealth of community service activities in which they participate is noteworthy. Delta Zetas can be found throughout the community donating hours of service to such worthy causes as the AIDS Walk, Habitat for Humanity, and the Girl Scouts of America. The involvement of Delta Zeta and all of our Greek organizations in campus leadership, including student government and in service to the community, is impressive and vital not only to the agencies served but also to the holistic growth and development of the women and men of our Greek organizations.

Dr. Jean Paratore

Do Greek organizations play a large part of the tradition of the SIUC campus?

During our major weekends such as Saluki Family Weekend and Homecoming, our Greek organizations shine as the students who do the very most to perpetuate our traditions. Without our Greek organizations there would most likely be no Homecoming parade and certainly there would be no King and Queen. They are the spirit of the campus. One of our newest traditions occurs at the very beginning of the Fall semester. Freshman move-in day is a special time for our campus and the Greeks are a major part of our new student welcome. They participate en masse as "Greek Movers," helping our new students move into their residence halls along with our Student Life Advisors, many of whom are also Greek. The emphasis is to be welcoming and helpful and at the same time to promote the Greek experience.

How do Greek organizations contribute to the quality of campus life for the students?

Our Greek organizations contribute to the quality of campus life in so many ways. They provide leadership for many organizations and contribute in innumerable ways to the community through volunteer service. They also work very hard to improve their academic status. In fact, the all-fraternity grade point average for Spring semester 2001 exceeded the all-men's average. Each chapter house has study hours, especially for the new members. Members help their sisters and brothers when necessary as tutors and emphasize the importance of attending class.

We are also very proud of how our Greek community is working to ensure that social gatherings adhere to the regulations they helped to enact just two years ago.

The Greek Millennium Initiative is a plan designed by the Greek leadership that establishes goals for all our chapters in such areas as academic achievement, community service, safety, and leadership. The plan also includes the system currently in place and is working very effectively whereby the Greeks monitor the social events sponsored by our fraternities. Self-regulation is the central focus of the plan and is working extremely well. They have also established a Greek Judicial Board, comprised entirely of members of our fraternities and sororities. This Board is trained through a class taught by our office of Student Judicial Affairs. The Board hears cases involving violations of the Greek Millennium Initiative and makes recommendations of sanctions to the Greek Advisor. Those on the Board take their responsibility very seriously, as do those who monitor fraternity social events. The leadership demonstrated by members of our Greek community with respect to the monitoring and enforcement of the Greek Millennium Initiative has been outstanding.

On Campus with Delta Zeta

It's been an exciting summer for our college chapters. Collegiate chapter presidents share their impressions of the Norma Minch Andrisek 2001 Leadership Conference, and discuss the insights and education they gained while there.

Alpha Gamma Chapter member Jessica Brooks was surprised with a special presentation from National Vice President of Membership Development Denise McCullars, when Mrs. McCullars visited the chapter during a recruitment visit and presented Jessica with her Florence Hood Miner Award. Jessica, an accomplished vocalist, was a featured soloist that afternoon during the chapter's preference ceremony.

The Alpha Rho Chapter (Ohio Wesleyan University) President Jennifer Beighley's favorite conference experience was the opening ceremony. "To be in the same room with over 400 collegiate delegates and a myriad of alumnae—all with bright smiles and an air of excitement about them—was a feeling that I will not soon forget. Also, it was very beneficial to hear from alumnae that are still very active in our Sorority. We need role models like them and the members of the National Council," she said.

Alpha Sigma Chapter (Florida State University) President Leigh Becker said, "Being at the conference gave me the opportunity to meet sisters from around the nation and to learn that we all share a common bond despite the distance. I feel that members often don't think outside the scope of their own university to realize the impact we make as a National Sorority. By constantly contributing ideas and upholding the ideals upon which this Sorority was founded, we are paving the way together for Delta Zeta to continue its existence in the future."

The Beta Lambda Chapter (University of Tennessee/Knoxville) President Clare Aubrey said, "I really enjoyed talking with the presidents at our roundtables. I know what goes on at my university, so it was such a great experience to know what other Delta Zeta chapters are doing and how they are leaders on campus. It was also good to see and help with their challenges and help them create better ideas."

The Beta Tau Chapter (Nebraska Wesleyan University) President Deborah Rogers said her favorite experience was getting to know the Executive Board. She said, "You talk with them during the school year, but one does not get to know the women that make up a great team for our chapter. Also, I enjoyed the workshop on values. I learned so much about being a role model for my chapter."

The Delta Beta Chapter (University of Tampa) President Leor Zellner enjoyed seeing how her individual chapter affects the Sorority on a national level. "Being a Crest Award winning chapter, I now realize what an integral part my chapter plays. Since we are going to be the sounding board for many of the new programs that we hope to implement, I feel great pride in being about to take part in this," she said.

The Delta Delta Chapter (Georgia State University) Chapter President Leslie Nurnberger said of her experience at the NMA Leadership Conference, "It was an absolutely wonderful experience. I came back with an abundance of wonderful ideas that I have shared with several sisters, and I am so excited to begin the fall 2001 semester."

The Delta Omega Chapter (Fort Hays State University) President Michelle Joy was highly impressed with the conference. "I felt so special to be a part of an organization of thousands of women just like me who come together to create something so important. I believe that every chapter, no matter how big or small, is crucial to Delta Zeta in the scope of the national organization. Each individual chapter, each individual girl, makes Delta Zeta what it is today," she said.

The Delta Sigma Chapter (Truman State University) President Tara Plumley said of her experience at the NMA Leadership Conference, "We had a great time interacting and bonding with so many Delta Zetas—not only collegians, but alumnae and National leaders. We loved being a part of this conference. We feel that the networking and exchange of ideas is a lifelong asset to all members and their chapters."

Delta Sigma representatives Miranda Feldmann, Tara Plumley, and Lindsey Gamlin on the Purdue campus at the NMA Leadership Conference.

The Delta Tau Chapter (Temple University) President Tara Sambuca said, "I noticed that each chapter is really different from one another, but that we aren't competing with each other to be like the best chapter. We are all working to be the best Delta Zetas and learning to be leaders in our own chapters."

The Delta Xi Chapter (University of Northern Colorado) President Allie Steg enjoyed being part of such a big conference. "It helped me to realize that the chapter I belong to is just a small part of the whole body of Delta Zeta. I also enjoyed the roundtables. It was great to talk with women from chapters and schools that were about the same size to hear some of their ideas," she said.

The Epsilon Chapter (Indiana University) President Amy Braudis said, "The conference served as a time for us to rejuvenate ourselves and refer back to what our actual purpose as a sisterhood is. So often, especially during the school year, we get so wrapped up in the logistics of running our organization that we forget our true purpose as our Founders saw it. The conference was a time to escape from the trivial matters and focus on the bigger picture."

Epsilon Chapter members (Indiana University) Sara Stuczynski and Amy Braudis share a moment at the end of the first day of the conference.

The Epsilon Delta Chapter (Concord College) President Emily Myers said, "Being a part of the NMA Leadership Conference showed me that the National Council is committed to making Delta Zeta chapters even better than they are now. The whole conference was very well planned and the speakers and session facilitators were excellent."

Epsilon Delta Chapter representatives at the NMA Leadership Conference with National President Karly Burns.

The Epsilon Kappa Chapter (University of Wisconsin/Whitewater) President Crystal Berge's favorite conference experience was interacting with women from other chapters. "It helps you to see the bigger picture when it comes to Delta Zeta. Each chapter makes their mark in Delta Zeta and on the world with many philanthropic events. Through chapter interactions, a woman grows into a stronger, more confident, and well-rounded individual who can go out and make a difference," she said.

The Epsilon Omega Chapter (University of Wisconsin/Eau Claire) Vice President of Programs Jessica Ripp said, "My favorite conference experience was the connection I felt with all the women that attended. Everyone was so comfortable and enthusiastic because we all knew that we shared a common bond. This bond was our belief in Delta Zeta and the important place it holds in our lives."

The Epsilon Omicron Chapter (Western Illinois University) President Kristin Barney felt honored to be a part of the conference. "As a whole, it maintained a resourceful environment that in turn let me relate to other Delta Zeta chapters just like mine. It also helped me realize more about myself and my goals that I want my chapter to strive for in the upcoming year, especially recruitment, because that is what keeps the Delta Zeta legacy of sisterhood progressing into the Centennial year of 2002."

The Epsilon Rho Chapter (Northwest Missouri State University) Panhellenic representative Janelle McMullen said that her favorite part was to be with so many Delta Zetas and sharing different experiences. "It was good to brainstorm with other chapters from throughout the United States since many chapters experience the same types of challenges. It opened up a whole new outlet of ideas," she said.

On Campus With Delta Zeta

The Epsilon Sigma Chapter (Wayne State University) President Laurie Tucker felt the conference was a great experience to have as a leader. "I liked sitting in on the different sessions because I got ideas on how to run meetings and how to make things more interesting," she said.

Gamma Delta Chapter (Pennsylvania State University) President Amy DiElsi said, "I felt proud of my chapter the entire weekend. I was so excited to share what works so well for our chapter with other chapters who were in need of advice. Also, I realized how far ahead our chapter was implementing the alcohol-free resolution policies. Our chapter was faced with the challenge of change and pulled through to successfully make our Sorority safer. We are able to represent Delta Zeta positively through service, academics, and leadership."

Gamma Lambda Chapter (San Jose State University) President Theresa Higgins said, "I have never been in such a beautiful place before with such a wonderful group of people who were all trying to learn and take as much information as they could back to their own chapters. I loved staying in the dorms, meeting all the girls, the breakout sessions, and the wonderful speakers."

Gamma Omega Chapter (Southern Illinois University) President Annie Wubbolding said, "We all loved singing songs and chanting new cheers. It made us feel excited for the next year. It was amazing to see what Delta Zeta as a whole can do to make a difference when we all work together. It also showed our chapter that when we put together fundraisers or philanthropy events that we are making an impact."

The Gamma Psi Chapter (Central Michigan University) President Julie Price said, "My favorite experience was getting to meet my sisters from all over the United States—especially from within my own region. I also enjoyed the Presidents' roundtable discussion. It was nice to hear that other chapters are facing the same problems, and to be on a personal level where we all could give input on ways to help out."

The Iota Iota Chapter (Middle Tennessee State University) President Ann Arians said, "I felt very privileged to be a part of the National Conference. There is so much hard work and dedication that goes into planning a conference like this and I felt lucky to be a part of it."

The Iota Psi Chapter (University of Texas/Arlington) President Jill Howe's favorite aspect of the conference was all of the new ideas for formal recruitment and COB. "It's just a great feeling knowing we are recognized as one of the chapters at the conference. We work hard throughout the year to keep our chapter growing strong and going in the right direction," she said.

Members of the Iota Psi Chapter Jill Howe and Laura Harrison.

The Iota Theta Chapter (Mansfield University) President Nichole Swick said, "My impression of the conference was a positive one. I learned a lot about Delta Zeta and it made me excited to be in Delta Zeta. The Iota Theta Chapter contributes to Delta Zeta by honoring tradition and valuing sisterhood and loyalty. We also value the importance of our founding sisters' history."

The Iota Upsilon Chapter (California State University/Fullerton) President Stephanie D'Auria said, "It is most important as an individual chapter to remember who we are as Delta Zetas and what it is we stand for. By coming together at this past conference, each individual brings her own personal campus experience and Greek knowledge. We are able to help one another as sisters by expressing our ideas and eventually taking those ideas back to our own campus."

The Iota Xi Chapter (University of Missouri/St. Louis) President Dawn Symington's favorite experience was meeting Delta Zetas from all over the country. "It is amazing how many there are of us and what impact we have on college campuses all over the nation. The conference was awesome. I think every Delta Zeta should go to a national conference to see all of these girls come together who have the same ideals and values," she said.

The Kappa Beta Chapter (Northern Kentucky University) President Katie Rasp said, "My favorite part was the focus on getting my chapter back to the fundamentals of Delta Zeta Sorority. I participated in multiple sessions relating the focus, purpose, and mission of the sorority to my individual life, as well as the state of my chapter. The information both motivated me and allowed me to further understand why I am a part of Delta Zeta."

The Kappa Epsilon Chapter (Plymouth State College) President Stephanie Pappas said, "I enjoyed meeting all the sisters I never knew I had. You could talk to anyone for hours like you had known them for years. Not only that, but you could share stories, problems, and experiences. I just learned so much from other women on how to become a better leader and president for my chapter."

Collegiate members Steph Pappas and Lindsay Toth, Kappa Epsilon; Wendy Reel, Epsilon Iota; Emily Myers, Epsilon Delta; Erin Minus, Xi Upsilon; Karen Marcum and Rebecca Buckner, Iota Pi.

The Kappa Rho Chapter (Kutztown University) President Nicole Burkhart said, "The best part was that we had the opportunity to send our entire Executive Board. This benefited us in many ways. We were able to attend more sessions and receive more information that way. Talking to our sisters in other chapters was also great because we learned many new ideas and are excited to implement them in our chapter."

Kappa Rho conference attendees included Amanda Carr, Treasurer; Jamie McFadden, Activities; Lindsey Kuhns, Secretary; Nicole Burkhart, President; Steph Korkos, Alumnae Rep.; Chrissy Volkert, Vice President of Membership; and Meghan Chapman, Vice President of New Member Education.

The Lambda Delta Chapter's (University of Virginia) President Virginia Turner enjoyed the roundtable discussions. "It gave members from similar chapters time to share ideas and solve problems together—you learn the most from other people's experience," she said.

The Lambda Theta Chapter (Michigan Technological University) President Jamie Wagner said, "It was such a neat experience to actually meet all of the people that keep our organization going. It was also such an overwhelming feeling to sit in that large auditorium and think this is representative of all of Delta Zeta. All of our heritage and all of our strength was in that room."

The Lambda Theta Executive Board at the conference.

The Omicron Alpha Chapter (St. Mary's University) President Trisha Taino said, "What moved me was sitting in an auditorium with 500 other women collegians as well as honored members of the National Council and directly seeing the scope, vastness, and strength of our Sorority. There is something so powerful in seeing hundreds of women my age stand in respect for the many alumnae who have and are working so hard to promote and maintain the beliefs our Founders had almost 100 years ago."

Omicron Alpha Chapter representatives at the NMA Leadership Conference were President Trisha Taino, Vice President of Programs Lorrie Flores, Alumnae Relations Chairman Felice Garza, and Vice President of Recruitment Lori Ovalle.

On Campus With Delta Zeta

The Omicron Beta Chapter (Richard Stockton State College of New Jersey) President Dana Smargisso had a great impression of the conference. "The only thing that remains steady in life is change. This gave many chapters the opportunity to change different factors in their chapters, from academics to stressing the importance of leadership and then seeing the outcome," she said.

The Omicron Nu Chapter's (University of Windsor) President Alynn Bergamin said, "My favorite experience at the 2001 NMA Leadership Conference was meeting women from other chapters. I feel like I can meet anyone that is a part of Delta Zeta and I feel like I've known the person my entire life. I feel this way because I know what each woman is experiencing or has experienced in her collegiate years."

The Rho Chapter (University of Denver) President Megan Whitehill said, "My favorite experience from the conference came when women from other chapters re-motivated me to do the best that I can. It was great to see us all together, and how we truly cared about what was going on in other chapters across the nation."

The Theta Chapter (Ohio State University) President Cheryl Brennan felt being a part of the national conference was a wonderful opportunity. "It allows one to see the whole scope of the Sorority and what their chapter has to offer to Delta Zeta on the national level. By providing new members who strive to live by the morals and values of Delta Zeta throughout their college life, we graduate wonderful alumnae who help keep the flame burning," she said.

The Theta Eta Chapter (Creighton University) President Susie McCauley said, "I really enjoyed David Westol's mock trial presentation. He had a lot of constructive things to say about risk management and hazing, and presented it in an interesting and effective manner."

The Theta Nu Chapter (Minnesota State University/Moorhead) President Karisti Pergande said, "My favorite experience was the talk about values. It's nice to see that Delta Zeta's values cross over all chapters. It was a bonding thing."

The Theta Phi Chapter (Old Dominion University) President Stacie Coverdale said, "I realized that my chapter is not just a faceless chapter but we are part of a whole. What we do does count. Our chapter is important to Delta Zeta because we pick the sisters of the future, as do other chapters. Any one of the girls we choose could later on be on the National Council."

The Theta Rho Chapter (California State University/Los Angeles) sponsored a child from Ecuador last spring. Ten chapter members made the Dean's List, most of who received scholarships for this academic achievement.

Theta Rho Chapter members Jaime O'Neal and Katherine Rodriguez at the NMA Leadership Conference.

The Xi Nu Chapter (Tarleton State University) President Jessica Tucker said, "I thought the Leadership Conference was very well organized. It was a great opportunity to meet other Delta Zetas and converse with the national chairpersons. The programs were very interesting and informative. There was a good variety of topics and great speakers."

The Xi Omega Chapter (Purdue University) President Laura Moon was honored and proud to have been part of such a great conference. "I wish my entire chapter would have been able to attend it. I just have a really great impression of Delta Zetas all around and a great respect for the National Council, and what a huge job they do," she said.

The Xi Rho Chapter's (Clarkson University) President Jordan Swift said, "I especially liked the women's empowerment session. Being on a campus where there are two sororities and nine fraternities, the work that we do sometimes gets overlooked. I liked listening to the ideas on how to make sure we are seen and heard on campus."

The Xi Tau Chapter (Millersville University) President Jamie Bazzano said, "I enjoyed getting the chance to see how different each chapter can be from one another. Yet, all the while we have a common bond which makes us sisters and instant friends."

The Xi Upsilon Chapter (Northeastern University) President Nicole Martins said, "Although all of the information I learned was invaluable, I would have to say that my favorite conference experience was when we had a room full of Delta Zetas singing at the top of our lungs at the song workshop. It was fun learning songs with new people and it is fun to know that come this fall, many chapters will be singing the same songs that we learned at the conference."

The Xi Xi Chapter (North Georgia College and State University) President Jessica Graves said, "I feel that we are lucky to be a part of DZ as a whole, to be associated with such an amazing organization is definitely a privilege." Jessica very much enjoyed the roundtable discussions. "It gave me a chance to share things with others in my same position and hear that they have faced similar challenges," she said.

The Zeta Psi Chapter (Stephen F. Austin State University) President Carrie Ross said, "The NMA Leadership Conference 2001 is one that will stay with me for the rest of my life. From the moment I walked in the first night I had chills, the kind you get when something really touches you. Seeing hundreds of Delta Zetas in one room almost brought me to tears. I knew that all these women had the same love and devotion to Delta Zeta that I had. It was a fantastic feeling!"

The Zeta Rho Chapter (William Jewell College) President Rebekah Sullins said, "Being part of the national conference was a huge honor. I learned so much and am so excited to go back and share many of my new ideas with the chapter. I also really enjoyed the Presidents' roundtables. It was so great to

Delta Zeta's Chapter Consultants for 2001-2002

With the new school year under way, Delta Zeta is proud to introduce our new Chapter Consultants. As national representatives of the Sorority, chapter consultants have one of the most important jobs within Delta Zeta. Their role is crucial to conveying the Sorority's mission and fundamental ideals through on-site visits.

Chapter Consultants assist with the growth and development of chapters by encouraging quality sorority programs, helping with routine chapter business, training officers and chairmen, and assisting with recruitment and new member programs. Each Consultant receives intensive training prior to her assigned chapter work. Most Consultants keep a busy travel schedule, and have the opportunity to become acquainted with campuses and collegiate and alumnae members throughout the United States and Canada.

Look for one of these Chapter Consultants on your campus this year. She's here to help your chapter fulfill its potential.

Alumnae Rachel Kapke Dold ΔΣ '92 gives up much of her time to oversee a youth organization in the Kansas City area called Youth with Vision. This group of teens finds alternative social events to prevent under-age drinking within the community.

Clay-Platte Alumnae Chapter members gathered in Kansas City for Region Day.

Epsilon Rho alumnae and members of the Clay-Platte Alumnae Chapter Karen Catechis '80, Connie Surprise Kramer '70, and Debbie Surprise Couch '71, members of the Clay-Platte Alumnae Chapter, attend Region IX Day in Kansas City.

Christine Winship Nikunen Π '86 is an outstanding alumna. In addition to being CCD for the Creighton University's Theta Eta Chapter, she is involved in many other community organizations, including the Opera Omaha Guild, the Girls Inc. Board, and treasurer of the Omaha Junior League. In 1999, she was voted the Outstanding Young Alum for Eureka College and was voted one of the 10 Young Outstanding Omahans.

An easy way to connect with your sisters in Delta Zeta is through Chapter Associations. Alumnae who belong to the same college chapter can form a chapter association. It's really just a chance to meet whenever you want to—chapter associations don't have the formal structure of an alumnae chapter, but give alumnae the opportunity to connect with sisters from their college chapter at their convenience.
