DELTA ZETA

In February, the National Council of Delta Zeta met on the campus of Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. For Delta Zetas this is the magic name, the first lesson in every pledge's education. "Delta Zeta was founded on October 24, 1902, at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio."

Many of the National Council members had never before visited this spot where Delta Zeta's history began, and they were delighted with their sentimental journey. Your Editor felt that perhaps Delta Zetas everywhere would enjoy knowing more about their birthplace, and what it is today.

Vice-chairman of the Miami University Board of trustees is Lucile Crowell Cooks, A, herself a distinguished Miami alumna and booster, and the only female on its Board of Trustees.

The Council met in the Trustees conference room in the Murstein Alumni Center, ate in the trustees private dining room, and were housed in the Climer guest lodge which adjoins the alumni center.

The Murstein Center with its guest lodge was built entirely from gift funds. Each room is a gem in itself, with its various traditional furnishings, and the walls are hung with works of art as well as memorabilia. The Center houses the alumni association offices as well as the Office of Development and related departments. The main lounge is the scene of many receptions and teas, and Delta Zeta Council entertained at a reception with the help of the Alpha chapter officers.

The campus of Miami University is laid out with neatness and wide green lawns. The newer buildings are of the same red brick and general style of architecture as the nineteenth century buildings. It has an air of serenity and spaciousness not found on big city campuses. While the University and its students are very modern in their functioning, it is not difficult to close one's eyes and imagine Julia Bishop, Alfa Lloyd, Anna Keen, Mary Collins, Anne Simmons, Mabelle Minton, with their pledge Elizabeth Coulter, riding in their horsedrawn buggy and carrying their parasols against the sunshine—and the then president, Dr. Guy Potter Benton sitting in his high-ceilinged office, encouraging these brash young women who were among the first females admitted to the university.

On the cover:

The Miami University Sesquicentennial Chapel was constructed through gifts of alumni and friends as the university was observing the 150th anniversary of its founding in 1959. It is non-denominational and is symbolic of Miami's continuing concern for things spiritual, regardless of its tradition as a public institution. The chapel chimes, which are heard daily, are the gift of Delta Zeta and known as the Delta Zeta chimes.

THIS IS MIAMI UNIVERSITY

The bell tower officially is The Beta Theta Pi Campanile, but the campus generally designates tower and all as the Beta Bells. Believed to have been the only free-standing Georgian bell tower in existence at the time it was built, it has become the symbol of Miami's fraternity tradition. It was the gift of Beta Theta Pi to the university on the occasion of its centenary in 1939.

Alpha Chapter—1972

Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, second-oldest state university west of the Allegheny Mountains, was created February 17, 1809, by an act of the Ohio General Assembly. It often is pointed out that Miami thus was "born the same week as Abraham Lincoln."

Miami University actually was a direct result of a 1792 Congressional act, signed by President George Washington, requiring that one township in a Southwestern Ohio land purchase be set aside for permanent support of an educational institution.

This was the John Cleves Symmes Purchase, also known as The Miami Purchase, since it involved more than one million acres between the two Miami rivers. Terms of this purchase followed closely the terms of the Ohio Company land contract which led to establishment of Ohio University in Athens in 1804; both contracts were based on provisions in the Northwest Ordinance of 1787 for the reservation of lands in support of public education. The township eventually designated by the legislature for the support and location of The Miami University is outside the boundaries of the original Miami Purchase, but that is quite another story!

The act which created the Miami University made it clear that this was fully a creature of the state legislature, its trustees named individually by the legislature on nomination by the Governor, the powers of its trustees and faculty defined by the legislature and specifically subject to further action of the legislature. However, the term "state university" did not come into common usage until many years later. Direct and regular financial appropriations in support of the university did not begin until 1885.

Even to this day, state support of Miami and other state universities is far from complete. The cost of the instructional program and general operation of the university is financed by student fees as well as by state appropriations. While construction of academic buildings is financed through state appropriations, all residence halls are financed through funds borrowed by the university and repaid from room-board charges made directly to students. Other buildings not directly related to the academic program are constructed from a portion of the Student Service Fee.

Although created in 1809, Miami did not actually begin collegiate instruction until 1824. Throughout the intervening 13 years, its trustees encountered many difficulties in their efforts to bring a university into actual operation. These were frontier days, and the frontier had few people, few dollars, few roads. The War of 1812 and general hard times contributed to the delay. A grammar school was taught in a log cabin on the college grounds for several years before a brick building called "The College Edifice" was completed and collegiate instruction begun on November 1, 1824.

With a rugged Scotsman, Robert Hamilton Bishop,

MacCracken Hall is a women's residence hall, centerpiece of the South Campus complex which houses almost three thousand students in units of 250 to 300, preserving the small college friendliness and individuality in a major university environment. Henry Mitchell MacCracken, Class of 1857, later became head of the University of Pittsburgh and New York University.

as its president and principal teacher, the young university in 1824 required that boarding students bring as much as $93 to meet expenses for the year, as follows: board, $50; tuition, $20; washing, $8; candles and wood, $5; servant hire $5; extras, $5. Although only about twenty students reported for the opening, about eighty more came in during the year as they could get away from farm work or as roads became passable.

The first study period at the university began at 5 A.M. and extended til 7, with classes following. Except for meals followed by two exercise periods, students were assigned to study and recitation until the evening prayers. Their classes were in what has been identified as the classical pattern: logic and moral philosophy, Greek and Latin and mathematics.

By 1827, the new university was building a dormitory. By 1834, its enrollment had grown to 234 students, and there was need for a second dormitory. By 1839, with 250 students, Miami actually was the fourth-largest collegiate institution in the United States—after Harvard, Yale and Dartmouth. Dissensions and disputes through the next two decades brought periodic dips in enrollment; the Civil War weakened Miami again, and the Panic of 1873 was a telling blow. Miami was forced to close. It reopened 12 years later, in 1885, with 20 students and some state support. Recovery was slow. Enrollment did not get above 150 until 1902, when the opening of the Normal College brought 78 women students.

Miami was growing in many ways. The Normal College established for the training of teachers and school administrators in 1902 became the School of Education in 1927. A School of Business Administration was added in 1927; a School of Fine Arts, for architecture, music, painting and design, in 1929. Graduate study was coordinated into a Graduate School in 1947. The School of Applied Science was organized in 1959. The general liberal arts pattern of Miami University from its beginning had led to identification of a College of Liberal Arts to distinguish it from the Normal College; this in turn was given its present name, College of Arts and Science, in 1946.

"Extension" classes were offered by Miami in other Southwestern Ohio communities for many years, and in 1954 this program was organized into a Division of Academic Centers to offer evening classes in facilities of local high school buildings during hours when they were not needed by those schools. At its peak, this program served some 5,000 persons in Academic Centers at Hamilton, Middletown, Dayton, Norwood and Piqua. Three of these Academic Centers eventually became evening functions of university branch campuses; two others were absorbed into the evening programs of other universities.

In 1964, Miami and Ohio State together opened a joint branch campus at Dayton called the Wright State Campus of Miami University and the Ohio State University. Miami opened a second branch campus at Middletown in 1966. By the time its third branch campus was opened at Hamilton in 1968, the state legislature had accorded the Wright State Campus separate entity as Wright State University.

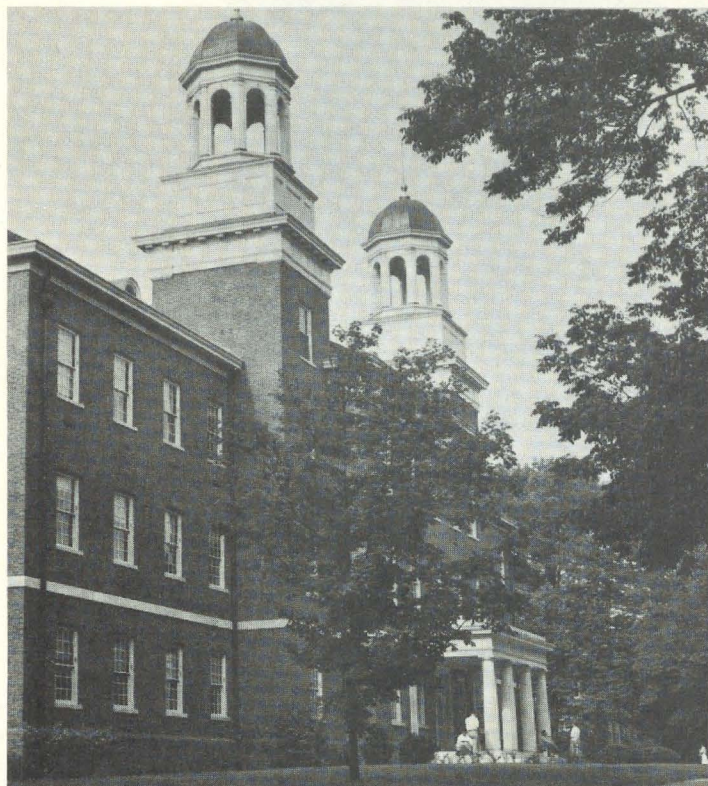

In the fall of 1966, when it was responsible for a part of the Wright State Campus as well as the Middletown Campus and five Academic Centers, Miami listed an over-all enrollment of 18,500. Separation of Wright State and the realignment of Academic Centers produced a new basis for comparative enrollments, but the Miami of 1971-72 has been 13,131 for the Central Campus at Oxford, 2,144 at Middletown, and 1,592 at Hamilton.

Susan Donovan, A '74, Lydia Osborn Wiepking, A, Eleanor Strickler Fariss, T, chat with Mr. and Mrs. John Dolibois at the tea given by Council in the spacious lounge of the Murstein Alumni Center. Mr. Dolibois is Vice-President for Development and Alumni Affairs for Miami University.

At the rear of the chapel, behind the pews are wood tablets carved with the names of the various donors to the chapel. Gertrude Meatheringham is pointing out Delta Zeta's name to Cynthia McCarty and Betty Agler. In the entry way of the chapel is a brass tablet marking the date that the carillon honoring the Founders was presented.

HARRISON HALL

The present Harrison Hall is named after Benjamin Harrison, twenty-third president of the United States who was a student at Miami. It is built on the site of Old Main.

Lucile Crowell Cooks, A, stands beside the Delta Zeta plaque commemorating the founding of Delta Zeta which was presented on the Golden Anniversary. Lucile's pin is not crooked; she is wearing it at the Alpha slant. Members of fraternities founded at Miami, on that campus, wear their pins at what they call the Alpha slant. The plaque hangs in Harrison Hall. In the Harrison room of the Student Center hangs an immense mural depicting Miami's early days. The Miami triad men are featured as it was a male world those days. Female trustee Lucile was justly aroused that the women were not included. As a surprise for her, before the dedication, the artist painted in the ΔZ crest on the tower of Harrison Hall, pictured the center of the mural.

Oxford College for Women was a neighbor of Miami in the community from 1849 until it was merged with Miami in 1928. Its principal building still is used as a residence hall for Miami freshmen women as Oxford College; its alumnae are considered as part of "the Miami family" although separate records are maintained for them by the Miami University Alumni Association.

Miami is distinguished in many fields. Among state universities it has been a leader in the development of an Honors Program, in the concept of university support of an Artist in Residence, in the insistence on a broad liberal arts base which at Miami is known as the University Requirement, in various academic programs designed to meet special needs of its times and its region, and in development of a residence hall and food service system and an intramural sports program.

Miami was among the first Midwestern schools to experiment with classroom television along with other experiments in new methods of large-group instruction, as well as with methods for measuring the effectiveness of these approaches. In an unusual program of cooperation with industry, it has developed a degree program in paper technology which is the only one of its kind in Ohio and one of only seven in the entire United States. Its degree program in systems analysis may be the first of its kind anywhere.

The Miami Student, founded in 1826 and still published twice weekly, claims to be the oldest college newspaper in America.

Because six Greek-letter social organizations have been founded here, Miami is known as "Mother of Fraternities." Three of them are known throughout the collegiate world as The Miami Triad: Beta Theta Pi, founded in 1839; Phi Delta Theta, founded 1848, and Sigma Chi, founded 1855. Also founded at Miami after the Triad designation had become current are Delta Zeta, founded 1902; Phi Kappa Tau, founded 1906, and Delta Sigma Epsilon, founded in 1914 and merged with Delta Zeta in 1955.

Walter Havighurst in The Miami Years opens a chapter on "Fortunes of the Greeks" as follows: "In 1871 the Board of Trustees passed a resolution: 'Resolved that the faculty be requested to require every student of the institution who is known to be connected with a Secret and Invisible Society . . . to withdraw from it forthwith . . . and that it is hereby declared to be unlawful for any student to become a member . . .' Fifty years later Miami was known as Mother of Fraternities. Of some 4,000 fraternity chapters in the United States and Canada in 1958, one in every ten had its origin on the Miami campus. One sixth of all members of Greek letter fraternities belong to societies founded at Miami University.

More recent in world notice is Miami reputation "Cradle of Coaches" because Miami is the alma mater of more of today's collegiate and professional head coaches or managers than any other college or university. These constitute the more widely publicized and more frequently identified alumni of a university which for more than 160 years had produced an impressive list of statesmen, educators, business men and leaders in other fields.

Miami buildings bear the names of famous Miami alumni Benjamin Harrison, 1852, 23rd president of the United States; Whitelaw Reid, 1856, diplomat and journalist; David Swing, 1852, eminent liberal minister; Samuel Spahr Laws, 1848, inventor of the stock market ticker, president of Westminster College and the University of Missouri; John Shaw Billings, 1857, organizer and first director of the New York Public Library; David S. Tappan, 1864, Raymond M. Hughes, 1893, and Alfred H. Upham, 1897, who became presidents of Miami; Calvin S. Brice, 1863, railroad magnate, U.S. Senator and national political leader; William Dennison, 1835, one of the earliest members of the Republican Party, chairman of the Convention which nominated Lincoln for re-election, Lincoln's postmaster General in 1864, and Henry Mitchell MacCracken, 1857, who later headed both the University of Pittsburgh and New York University. Miami also has named buildings for Oxford College graduates, and thereby has two pairs of buildings named for famous couples: women's residence halls have been named for Caroline Scott Harrison and Elizabeth Porter, who became wives of Benjamin Harrison and David Swing.

Miami also is proud of its McGuffey heritage. William Holmes McGuffey, as a young Miami professor in the early 1830's, prepared and tested with neighbors' children some of the readers in the series which was to play such an important part in the education and moral training of young Americans for the next hundred years. The home which McGuffey built and occupied near the edge of the campus in those years now is surrounded by Miami buildings. Maintained by Miami University as the William Holmes McGuffey Museum, it has been declared a National Historic Landmark. It includes one of the world's largest collections of McGuffey Readers, and its furnishings include a number of articles which he used at Miami.

Tributes to him also are found in the names of McGuffey Hall, housing Miami's School of Education, and William Holmes McGuffey Laboratory School, a part of its teacher-training program. A McGuffey monument by Ernest Bruce Haswell, Cincinnati sculptor, stands in the McGuffey Hall courtyard.

Miami's president since 1965 is Dr. Phillip R. Shriver, who came to Miami from the deanship of the College of Arts and Sciences at Kent State University. He is author of several books of biography and Ohio history. He succeeded Dr. John D. Millett, who had left in 1964 after 11 years as Miami president. Acting president for the year between Millett and Shriver was Dr. Charles Ray Wilson, who remained as the university's provost and academic vice-president until his retirement in 1970.

THE LAMP wishes to thank three charming gentlemen on the staff of Miami University who have asked to remain nameless. Pictures, information, and many of the actual words were done by them especially for this issue.

Lucile Cooks introduces Dr. Philip Shriver, president of Miami University, and his wife Mrs. Shriver to Lisbeth Francis. Because of a late class, their daughter, Darcie, who was president of Alpha's pledge class this year, was not in the picture.

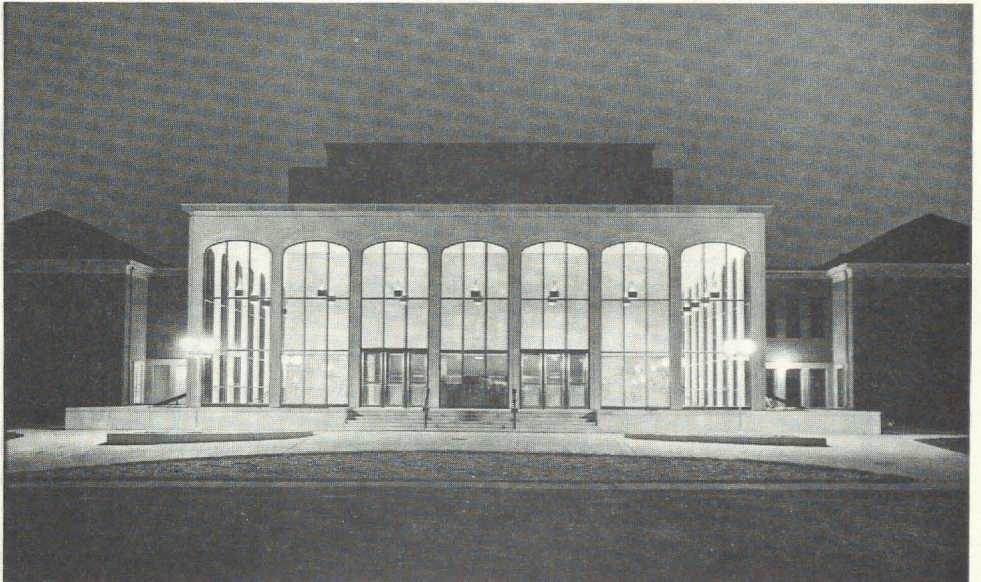

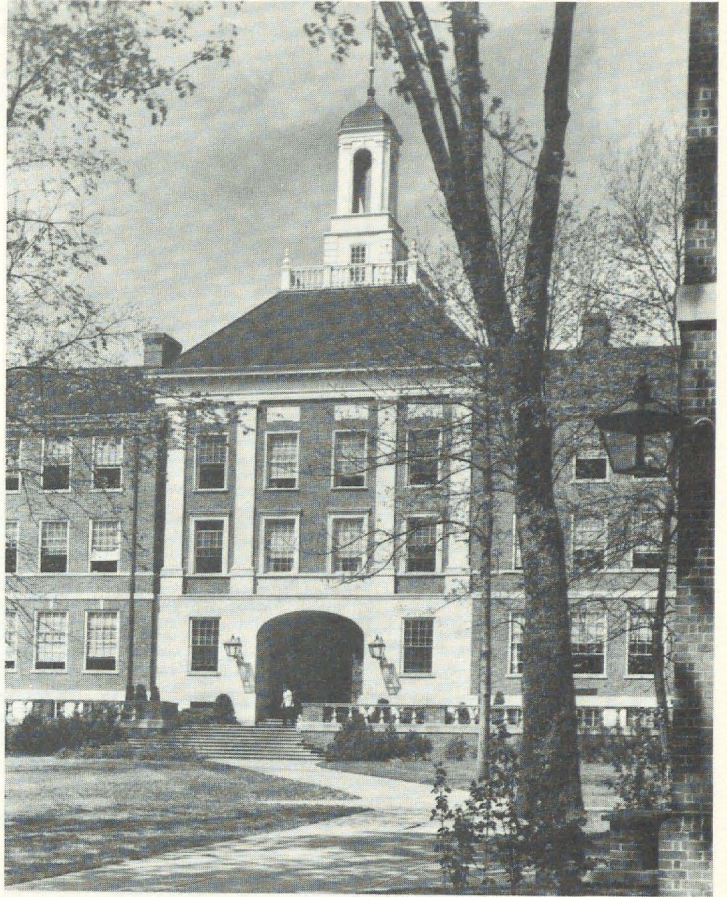

Ronald Helman, president of Miami University Alumni Association and Administrative secretary for Beta Theta Pi, chats with Lucile Cooks and Alpha chapter president De Ann Dahill.

Mae Dickinson and Eleanor Fariss pause beside the brass plate in the entry way to the chapel to read the inscription marking the date of the carillon given to Miami University in honor of the Founders.

UPHAM HALL

Alfred H. Upham, class of 1897, became one of Miami's presidents. Upham Hall, as the center of Miami's College of Arts and Sciences, preserves the liberal arts core of a university which in fact had been strictly a liberal arts college in the classic sense until the establishment of the Normal College the year Delta Zeta was founded.

The Center for Performing Arts, one of Miami's newest buildings includes a theatre seating 400, a recital hall seating 150, and an experimental theatre which can seat 250. It houses a fine music library, numerous practice studios, and splendid work shops for building sets and sewing costumes.

The New Approach

Admissions

"We need to remind ourselves constantly that a student at whatever level is not in competition with his fellow students—he is in competition with the best that is in him. The purpose of assessments of all kinds, be they marks or test scores, is to help us understand an individual student and to help him understand his unique interests, aptitudes and talents."—EUGENE S. WILSON, longtime dean of admissions, Amherst College.

The admissions picture in the sixties was one of great selectiveness. As we start the seventies, it is easing somewhat.

—The financial pinch is causing many families to shop around for a good buy in a college education. Through necessity, high-tuition colleges and even some state universities are reassessing their requirements for acceptance of students.

—The whole problem of finding ways to identify the full potential of poor and minority group students is having great bearing on principles and practices of formerly selective admissions.

—There is a strong nation-wide movement by students toward the two-year community colleges, most of which do not require admissions tests.

—Now a large university has adopted an open admissions policy—the City University of New York (CUNY). Despite many complications and problems attendant on the change, the policy seems to be working and it brought 12,000 more applicants to CUNY now in the second year of the program.

Does this mean the end of testing? Not yet. Aptitude and achievement tests, required as a part of many college applications, are holding steady, with admissions directors repeating what they said in the sixties: No one is accepted on test grades alone. Other important considerations: high school grades and rank in class; also evaluation of motivation, creativity, self-discipline, traits not measurable by tests. Likewise, tests, even if not used for admission, continue to be used for placement.

For those who see the trend toward open enrollment as a threat to quality in higher education, there are the reports just in on "risk" students accepted over the past several years at both Stanford and Brown. Nineteen of 21 black students with lower than average test scores accepted at Stanford have already made it through creditably to graduation and the other two are on their way. The same 2100 risk students at Brown have graduated at almost the same rate as other students and have shown themselves as equally likely to succeed after graduation.

Curriculum

"A degree has become a credit card which allows the student to buy his way into society's institutions rather than allowing him to orient his education toward what he wants to know and how his personal development can come about."—DR. ROBERT KRUEGER, Duke University.

College curriculum is being turned upside down with students taking responsibility for their own educational plans.

Have you heard of the "free" university or the "experimental" college, in vogue for awhile, but now not so prevalent? Many of these are student inspired, hold classes on campus and present courses arranged for by students on a wide range of subject matter, quite often those they consider "relevant" to social issues of the day.

However, while such courses usually do not provide college credit, many schools are liberalizing curriculum with credit at student suggestion. Indiana University says members of the class of 1971 triggered their new School for Public and Environmental Affairs. Student-designed courses at the University of North Dakota include Technology of the Modern World and Dialogue between East and West. Any group of 15 students at Notre Dame may petition for a credit course on any subject for which they prepare a bibliography, secure a teacher from the regular faculty and have the approval of his department.

Today, with over 7 million students—double the 1960 number—seeking higher education, with a 25% increase in the number of colleges and junior colleges, and with attendant disenchantment with education felt by many, change is rife on the campus scene. As colleges and college-age individuals seek to reassess priorities so as to better resolve the problems of contemporary human existence, we are confronted with a new approach, new patterns in universities, new organization, new freedom, a new student, and new developments for fraternity.

Other courses particularly linked to student concerns are, of course, the black studies plus the study of the role and history of women, the latter highlighted by San Diego State College's full-scale eleven-course offering.

There is also considerable effort to make existing courses more meaningful. A new approach to chemistry, relating it to man's environment, has students enthusiastic at places like the Universities of Maryland, Wisconsin and Rutgers. On many campuses "core" courses have been eliminated. DePauw, wondering whether English, science and a foreign language are really essential to a liberal arts education, has embarked on a three-year pilot study to find out.

Students in many places also have a good deal to say about their own graduation requirements. The University of Alabama is starting The New College, a small, flexible personally-oriented undergraduate program, allowing students to set their own pace of study and in many instances, their own requirements. In Duke's Program II students may have all course requirements waived upon presentation of a different plan of study.

The method of study is increasingly coming to mean independent study, a highly personal, individualized program determined by a student in conference with a professor-adviser. Indeed, say its proponents, the goals students are thus allowed to set for themselves are usually as ambitious as any professor would outline.

Work is implemented many places through the interdisciplinary approach, which brings together the resources of several departments or even of several different colleges; also through the honors program for academically gifted students.

Work off-campus is also more frequent. This varies from entire semesters devoted to work-study or study abroad, to smaller projects locally oriented. One of these is Cornell University's Human Affairs program which grants credit for student work in the community. Another is Goucher's Center for Sociological Study which gives students credit for work on small independent research projects in the community which they then correlate with their academic study.

Critics of so much student-inspired work stress the importance of stronger faculty-student rapport. Indeed, professors, long used to handling lecture classes, find the closer student relationship with the necessity of frequent student conferences challenging—and time consuming, a matter for additional study and planning. To better general faculty-student relations Ohio University has a University Day each quarter used for teaching or other student-designed educational activities when students and faculty participate together. At the University of Delaware, twelve student-faculty commons rooms are being set up to foster closer informal association between the two groups.

Besides humans, machines help out with the new curriculum. Through "Dial a Lesson" students at Penn State can dial to hear a lecture they missed or listen to supplementary materials. Ohio State has a computer-based information center in the library, which, upon receipt of a phone call, will provide a printed bibliography of materials published in any one of five areas of science and engineering. At South Dakota State University a responder system has been installed in a large classroom so the lecturer can have immediate feedback as to whether students are comprehending the material. Self-learning techniques are being tried at Indiana University, particularly in the journalism school where a student sits in a booth with a camera in hand and is shown by slides and tape-recorded instructions how to use it. A program called STIR (Self-Teaching Independent Research) has excited the Ohio Wesleyan campus where 16 learning carrels are available to students for study at three levels of an evolutionary botany program and where they can work at their own speed using equipment provided—two microscopes, a tape deck, film loop projector and a 35 mm. project. Even some sorority houses are now being built with study carrels.

Grading

"What kind of substitute can be found for the maintenance of good academic standing if the grade-point average, which academic standing committees have commonly used as a basis in the past, is no longer reliable?"—DR. H. BENTLEY GLASS, past national president, Phi Beta Kappa.

The pass-fail grading system, also the pass-no credit system, are nibbling away at the traditional ABC grading system. In many colleges students now can choose to get only a "pass" or "fail," the option usually restricted to elective courses (although a few schools have gone to complete pass-fail).

However, there are drawbacks. Some people feel students need grades to be motivated. Graduate schools still like to know grades and class rank and unless a school is small enough to provide personal evaluation from professors in lieu of grades, graduate schools feel they have little to go on. (Even students find drawbacks, suspecting that teachers, freed from making numerical judgments, are not painstaking enough in evaluating course grades.) Too, employers need more precise knowledge and may equate a pass grade with a D.

On the other hand, the letter grade is thought to encourage cheating and to cause students to steer away from challenging courses as likely to damage their grade point average because they are "too hard." Dean Wilson, former head of admissions at Amherst takes this view: "I have become suspicious of marks . . . Marks are evidence of how much a student has met the demands of a teacher, but whether a teacher demands memory, thought, obedience or reasoning, I rarely know."

Is it possible to combine the best of both systems? Ohio University has made a try. Under the pass-fail option a student may decide during the first ten days of a quarter to have his final grade in one course converted by the office of student records to a "pass" if he has earned any grade from A through D, or to a "fail" if he has received an F. The instructor turns in the usual letter grades without knowing which students have chosen the pass-fail option. No more than 45 pass-fail hours can be counted toward a degree.

But nothing can be said to be the last word on grading today. It is changing so rapidly that the officers of Phi Beta Kappa, an organization whose whole existence has been predicated on grade-point average, found that a report they prepared on trends last year was completely out of date this year. The only thing that seems to be sure about grading is that there is dissatisfaction with the way it is and great effort is being put forth to find something better.

Applications

"You don't have to go away to go to a good school any more, and it's cheaper to stay near home."—From an article on college applications in the New York Times.

Knowing that it's easier to get into college today than it was a few years ago (see section on Admissions), high school seniors are not in such a frenzy as they have been. Besides, it is thought that some, viewing the job situation, may have decided not to go to college at all or wait out a year. By mid-July schools were reporting 400,000 vacancies yet unfilled. However, some college-bound students may be in for turn-downs. Some schools are decreasing enrollments by self-imposed enrollment quotas and because of economic difficulties. Others have housing, classroom and faculty shortages.

With many seniors choosing schools closer home for cost reasons, the pressure is on state and land-grant institutions. By early spring 1971 these schools reported they had an average 1.5 applications for every available place in autumn enrollment. They expected to have to turn away 50,000 qualified people, although freshman enrollment overall will increase 3.8%. They also reported that in-state applicants, as usual, would be given preference over those from out-of-state.

As an indication of what is happening in expensive private colleges, as of April 1971 Ivy League schools in the east reported a 7% decline in applications, after steady growth for the past three years. Their counterparts, the Seven Sisters, showed a 2.5% decline. However, overall, these schools could only accept 20,874 members into the class of 1975 and sent out 45,263 letters of rejection.

Cost

"From coast to coast whole families are sharing the cost of college outlays nowadays. Wives work. Husbands 'moonlight.' Homes are refinanced. And students increasingly compete for scholarships, work part-time and take out sizeable loans to be repaid after graduation."—U. S. News & World Report.

Everything costs more nowadays, including college.

Tuition is up at least a small amount at nearly all schools and has risen in varying degrees at others. Public institutions still cost less than private ones, with in-state students at state schools getting the best break; out-of-staters pay much more. Parents considering a private college or university for their child can expect something close to a $3,000 tuition at many of these.

The average national tuition increases for this year have been figured at $200 at private coed schools and $96 for in-state students at public schools. But, even at this, at public universities resident students now only pay 28.3% of the bill for their education; non-resident students pay 70.3%.

Various schools have various ways of helping students meet these costs. Yale has come up with PAYE—Tuition Postponement Option—under which a student can stretch out tuition payments over a 35-year period and which will allow a freshman entering in 1971 to defer $5,000 over a four-year period. With help from the Federal College Work-Study Program universities in Texas have banded together to launch Project SET—Summer Employment in Texas—trying to help solve the growing student problem of finding summer jobs. The University of Tennessee opened a cooperative dormitory last fall which costs students about $300 less annually than if they had lived in other university dormitories.

Unfortunately, there is also a squeeze on outright grants or loans available to students trying to meet the new costs. No one knows whether Congress will extend the National Defense Education Act in 1972, a program which enables students to borrow money and repay it within ten years at 3% interest. But even with such money available, Auburn University reports they had to turn down one-third of their applicants for loans in 1970. The University of California at Santa Barbara says that 80% of their student body inquired about or applied for financial help during 1969-1970. During that same year Penn State notes that two out of three of their fulltime students received financial aid. Rutgers reports that for 1971 it can meet only half of the financial needs of its freshman class. It might also be mentioned that the emphasis on enrolling more youngsters from poor and minority families has significantly added to the need for financial aid.

It might not be so bad if the colleges themselves were in better shape. According to a study made by the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education, the rising cost of recent improvements (better salaries, courses, scholarships, community services) have increasingly outstripped income from endowments, gifts, grants and government aid, which means that at least two out of three U.S. colleges and universities are facing financial hard times. Many private schools are already dipping into endowment principal for current expenses.

Besides the slowing down of state and federal support, these other causes are mentioned for the financial distress: faculty salary increases of as much as 75% between 1959-1969; tenured faculty; unbusinesslike handling of affairs; revolt on campus, also the realization that a college degree no longer guarantees a job, all of which has caused the public's disillusionment with education; a slump in alumni giving; inflation-fed operating costs; and on and on.

Cost-cutting efforts by schools involve trying to save on maintenance (grass cutting, maid service, etc.); freezing professor's salaries and hiring fewer new ones; abandonment of construction plans; trimming graduate programs; increasing the ratio of students to faculty. Another innovative economical move is for groups of neighboring schools to cooperate on courses and library materials. However, a few weaker schools have closed already and others have found it necessary to combine with public institutions.

Based on this, is it any wonder that the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education recommends that a publicly supported community college be established within commuting distance of every person in the U.S.? Average tuition is only $300-500 (and none in California), and since students live at home there is no cost for room and board. Two-year programs are available, one leading to transfer to a four-year college, the other, vocational-technical geared to those who want jobs. Currently nearly two and a half million students attend the 1100 junior colleges of which some 250 are private with higher tuition). Forty to 50 community colleges are being added each year.

The New University

"No longer do we automatically assume that four years, two semesters, 15 hours is an education."—DONALD NOLAN, director of the New York state program providing for an "external" degree.

What constitutes college, any way? Sometimes schools cut across lines to lower "requirements"; i.e. Goucher, a private women's college, accepts especially qualified students who have not completed formal high school requirements. Then there is the New Hampshire College in Massachusetts which also does not require a high school diploma. On the other end of the scale, Columbia University has come forth with a two-year program leading to a Master's degree for executives to accommodate the self-educated man without a bachelor's degree.

But colleges are going farther than this. The big move is toward off-campus study, credit by examination, external degree programs.

Two programs are underway in New York State designed to allow high school graduates to get a college degree without going on campus for more than placement or counseling. One program allows students to take courses at any of the university's 70 campuses, or, if they prefer, at home through correspondence, TV lectures and cassettes. Tutoring sessions with faculty are required intermittently. The other program will grant "external" degrees to students who pass college equivalency exams on material learned on their own through reading, practical experience or company training.

The fall of 1971 sees the formal opening of the University without walls, a program backed by HEW and the Union for Experimenting Colleges and Universities, a group of 17 cooperating colleges where a student aged 16-60 or over, can get, a.) a study program tailored to individual needs, b.) take as long as he wants to graduate, c.) be given the advantage of an adjunct faculty of government executives, scientists, artists and the like, d.) take any of his courses at any of the 17 colleges or by independent study, TV, or tape, e.) receive credit for off-campus work such as supervised internship, VISTA, travel abroad and so on. One requirement: before receiving a degree he must produce a contribution to his field, perhaps a research study, a work of art, an identifiable community service, etc. CLEP exam (College Level Examination Proficiency, directed by CEEB, the organization which handles SAT tests) is a newly developed method to earn college credit, or satisfy college equivalency requirements for a license or a certificate or for job advancement, on the basis of examination. The tests are available monthly in 60 urban locations, are accepted by some 600 institutions for up to two years of college credit. They are considered especially valuable for people whose learning experiences have taken place primarily outside the formal classroom.

Syracuse University has a four-year program where students spend only 24 days each year on campus. . . . In a special cooperative program, tool and die workers can receive 32 hours of credit at the New York Institute of Technology for their 5,000 hours of apprenticeship.

And so it goes toward the goal of developing, not finished graduates, but lifetime learners.

Operation Brass Tacks

"The New Approach" by Mary Margaret Garrard, is one of a series of articles prepared for sorority magazines through Operation Brass Tacks, a project of the National Panhellenic Editors' Conference. Members of the Brass Tacks committee are: Ann L. Hall, Alpha Chi Omega, chairman; Mary Margaret Kern Garrard, Kappa Alpha Theta; Marilyn Simpson Ford, Pi Beta Phi; Caralee Strock Stanard, Alpha Delta Pi; Florence Hood Miner, Delta Zeta.

The Operation Brass Tacks Committee is constantly looking for material for its program and welcomes submission of manuscripts or ideas for manuscripts. Permission to use the article, or any portion thereof, in other publications must be obtained from Operation Brass Tacks Committee, 3445 Washington Boulevard, Indianapolis, Indiana 46205.

Family Occasions

Marcia Manring Kebel's family are the first to congratulate her on receiving Burlington's Outstanding Young Woman award. Julie, 11, Eric, 9, husband Harlan, and Lynn, 12, join in the celebration.

Marcia Manring Kebel, AB, was recently honored as Burlington, Iowa's, Outstanding Young Woman at a luncheon sponsored by the Junior Women's club. She was cited for her civic involvement and a valuable member of the community even though she has lived there less than three years.

Her activities in Burlington include the Sunnyside PTA board, Oak Street middle school study club, assistant leader for Girl Scouts, precinct chairman for L-Kee-Ta fund drive, assistant den mother, and vice-president of Panhellenic.

She teaches an Adult Basic Education Course which enrolls Head Start women whose ages range from 17 to 67. A willing volunteer for the Republicans, Memorial Hospital Auxiliary and the Muscular Dystrophy fund, Marcia was endorsed by many civic leaders.

Marcia is a graduate of the University of Illinois with a major in foods, and her husband Harlan is manager for U.S. Gypsum Co. Marcia's mother Mildred Wiltout Manring was a member of Alpha Alpha chapter at Northwestern.

When Debra Adams was initiated into Alpha Chi chapter at the University of California at Los Angeles, she was the third generation Delta Zeta in the family. To surprise her on this happy occasion were Aunt Betty Wieman Morrison, X, Mother Zelta Wieman Adams, X, and Grandmother Alice Feike Wieman, X.

Rosie Fisher Fullhart, IX, of the Muncie Alumnae models one of the evening gowns in the annual style show as part of the Indiana Flame Fantasy.

Alumnae across the Country

Hopscotching ΔZ Country (the Big Country):

Nutty idea in SAGINAW, MICHIGAN—a pecan sale. How's that for a money raiser? Which brings to mind a sage observation: People who don't absolutely adore pecans never tasted fresh ones. And by the way, the word is "pe-cahns" with the accent on the second syllable.

Betty Crocker coupons are still making the ΔZ headlines, as the deadline for organizations was extended. DENVER alums collected 5,754 for the Rocky Mountain Kidney Foundation. That's a lotta cake mix.

Unusual program topics this year included leather care and graphoanalysis, both in DENVER, and a trip to Africa, via slides, by the PENINSULA group in VIRGINIA.

The PENINSULA group, who last year received Province XX recognition for Most Improved Chapter, were pleased to see the '72 award go to their neighboring chapter, the TIDEWATER group. This at Province XX week-end in February.

Speaking of neighbors, SAN ANTONIO alums took their cue from the nearby SAN MARCOS, TEXAS chapter and established the beginning of a fund to be used for hearing testing equipment for a local hospital.

CLEVELAND EASTSIDE alums discovered that in volunteer work for Alexander Graham Bell School for the Deaf, the range of activities is great enough to permit every member to contribute some service. "I can't do anything," is not an excuse here.

In the DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA ΔZ's bake birthday cakes for the servicemen in Walter Reed Hospital. Since the cakes are stashed in the deep freeze until needed, this project can be taken care of when the mood hits.

Hot mulled cider with Christmas cookies sounds good in June as it did in January, when the GREATER KANSAS CITY chapter honored collegiates and their mothers at the home of Martha Cline Tyrer, O. In charge of arrangements was Sharon Perkins Pollard, ET.

Mailing labels pre-addressed to their Carville patients are distributed to SOUTHERN NEW JERSEY alums to encourage frequent and spontaneous mailing of cards and letters by all.

Topping for 10 hamburger buns (20 halves): Mix 2 lbs. grated sharp cheese, 1 can tomato sauce, 1 bunch chopped green onions (tops too), 1 can chopped ripe olives, 1 med. can chopped green chili peppers, and $\frac{1}{2}$ cup salad oil. Spread on buns. Refrigerate or freeze until ready to serve. Heat in moderate oven until cheese bubbles. Thanks to South Bay Bits (CALIFORNIA) newsletter.

Editing the Alumnæ LAMP reports can be fun and fattening. Sometimes it can be distressing, too. When reporters do not identify completely the girls they are writing about, we can't use the names unless time permits writing back for the information. Mrs. Joe Doe, for example, could be any lady, but only one gal can be Jane Brown Doe, AB. Won't you editors help by reading more carefully the fine print on the report forms?)

Long stemmed roses (figuratively) go to Blanche Rosa Jones, BK, WATERLOO-CEDAR FALLS; Patricia May McCray, BT, LEXINGTON, KY.; and Lois Kudrnovsky Mix, AB, KANSAS CITY, MO. These three LAMP editors gave the helpful added touch by completely identifying themselves on their report forms.

Are you sending your reports regularly but never seeing yourself in print? Don't despair. A report submitted in February does not make it in time for the Spring issue. It takes four months from deadline to press time—with luck. Even then, there can be a hitch or two. But we try. And we love you all for being so faithful.

DAYTON alumnæ are making lap robes for the aged residents of Lutheran Village. Small sections are pieced individually at home or at meetings. These are later combined to create quilted comforters.

Hats off to HATTIESBURG, MISSISSIPPI chapter for Volume 1, No. 1 of Hattiesburg Highlights. A contest to name the newsletter was announced. We'll be waiting to hear about the winning entry.

Thanks to all who sent alumnæ profiles. Watch for them elsewhere in this and future issues.

Margaret Beverly Bunn's daughter Mollie and Harriette Rawson Klecka, AB, admire the painting of Phyllis Eubanks who displayed her works in the Huntsville annual Christmas Arts and Crafts show. Proceeds of the show were pledged to ΔZ philanthropies.

Over two thousand people visited the show, which netted over four thousand dollars for their philanthropy program which supports the Houston Speech and Hearing Center television studio. The studio produces video tapes of an educational nature to show mothers in culturally deprived areas how to work with, and what to expect, from their handicapped children.

Virginia Lewis Schmied, BII, Beth Neave Keller, ΓΨ, and Kathy Makinen Stall, ΓΨ, pack pecans for the Saginaw-Bay City Alumnae chapter project.

A Krazy Kar, ice skates, swing drums, and a new coat were some of the items asked for by foster children. Topeka alumnae played Santa Claus through the Kansas Children's Service League. Sharon Kennedy Wared, ΓΓ, and Sue Hinz Wilbur, ΔΩ, pack under the supervision of the League's Director, Mrs. Heidelbrecht.

Virginia Ayer Brobst, M, reports to Miss Linda Begen, clinical audiologist at the Herrick Memorial Hospital in Berkeley, that the San Francisco-Bay Cities Alumnae have completed their project of providing this Bakesy audiometer. With many thanks to all those who sent Betty Crocker coupons to reach the necessary goal of 720,000, the committee, headed by Virginia, logged a total of 1,460 hours at the hospital trimming and counting coupons.

Ellen Kroll Jenkins, E, presents albums to one of the Deaf School's teenagers for her dorm as a teacher explains to the deaf students about the gift of the Indianapolis alumnae.

Carl, Alice Winters

Carl and Alice Butler Winters, Ψ, on the occasion of their forty-fifth wedding anniversary.

Forty-five years ago, married couples on college campuses were not the familiar situation of today, and so when Dorothy Best, Psi '27, learned that one of her chapter had eloped with her Kappa Delta Rho sweetheart, she had a special situation to meet!

Not being named "Best" for nothing, Dorothy took it in stride, welcomed back the happy pair, and exhorted them to get busy and prove that all their friends' faith and high hopes for an exceptional future, were justified.

That this advice was well received and followed is evidence by the fact that in 1971 Dorothy would have nominated Alice Butler Winters for ΔZ Woman of the Year. A little further search for biographical enlightenment brought from Alice herself a delightful letter, which THE LAMP is glad to share.

Let us preface her remarks by saying that Carl Winters is a minister, and also a lecturer of the General Motors group. Alice has been a happy and individually achieving wife for such a minister, in fact they are a team of the kind often dreamed about but not so often met in real life. Alice comments on their pleasure that Carl was selected as Minister for the dedication of the world-famous London Bridge on its re-location at Lake Havasu, Arizona in October of 1971.

Earlier in the year the couple had been signally honored at Chatauqua, New York, where Carl has given thirty-nine years of service, by receiving a flag designed and made especially to signify their many interests and services to the Chatauqua program.

For the special interests which Alice herself shares, she says: "We have made several trips around the world, visiting places far off the beaten tourist trail, and I found it heartbreaking to see the poverty, both physical and spiritual, of so many people. Ten years ago, after one such trip, a group of my friends organized The Globe Club to help me with some dreams around the world. These have included such things as an incubator for a little hospital in Gauhati, an eye clinic in Japan, furnishings for a small church in Africa. Our big project has been the creation of a rooftop nursery school for refugees in Hong Kong. This is run by a wonderful young Chinese couple whom we met some twelve years ago. We were able to aid Jimmy in completing his training, and this is the result.

"My other big interest which has become almost a fulltime job, is the Salvation Army. I have served on the Woman's Board for the Greater Chicago area for thirteen years, and currently as president of the board and auxiliary. Our big job is to back up the Army with money and service. It's a big, big, job and very close to my heart."

Elizabeth Sutton Gustison, K

"Just a housewife!" This is Elizabeth Sutton Gustison's answer to the question, "What were you before you were director of the Museum of History and Industry in Seattle, Washington?" Other museum directors, especially men, are surprised at her answer. Mrs. Gustison is representative of the earnest and intelligent volunteer workers who find a career in their volunteer field, although her entrance into the business world was an extraordinary one.

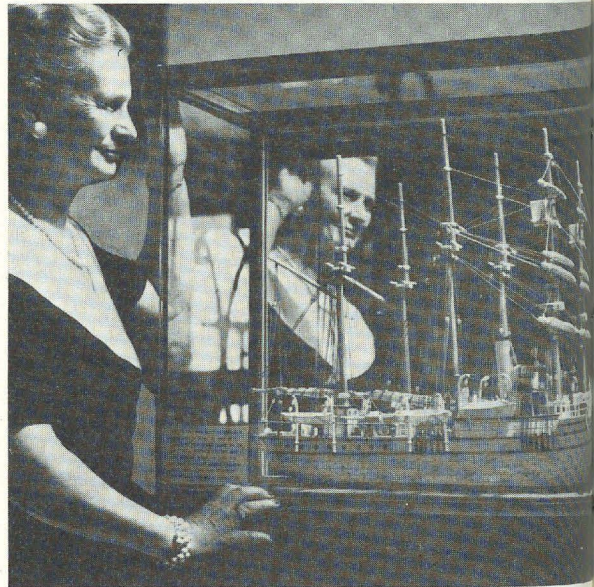

The Greater Seattle alumnae are justly proud of their Delta Zeta sister. A member of Kappa, she graduated from the University of Washington and also had three years in the University's Law School before she decided to marry. Her only other experience in the business world was running her father's real estate contract office after he died. A member of a pioneer Seattle family, Elizabeth was a Delta Zeta Province Director from 1928 to 1932. She is Seattle's Delta Zeta Woman of the year candidate, and last fall spoke at Kappa's pledge banquet.

Previous to being named director, Elizabeth was an active board member of the Seattle Historical Society, which operates the museum and gave the museum to the city. There have been many changes under her able direction. The year she became director the Maritime Wing was added. Then the Brinkley Natural History Wing was added, but the change that caused the most worry was the designing and building of a new entrance when the freeway was constructed nearby. Streets were closed and the public had to arrive on the other side of the building. The changed landscaping of the surrounding area and the new façade gave the museum an entirely new look. Suddenly the beautiful museum was visible from the freeway, no longer hidden off the beaten track. The eager visitors quickly found the correct freeway exit, and their cars filled the new parking lot.

Museum Director

Just this last year a much-needed wing, which houses an auditorium and meeting rooms, was added. With this addition, the facilities of the museum are greatly expanded. It was open in time for the museum's annual "Christmas Around the World" program, which began 20 years ago. Twenty-three countries were represented last year. Six thousand volunteers worked on the program and over 27,000 people attended during the three week-ends of programs featuring dances, food and customs of many different countries. The museum cases display Christmas material from around the world, and the halls are filled with Christmas trees from many nations. Other workers prepare food, make costumes and take part in the programs. Christmas Around the World is a cherished part of the Northwest's calendar.

International cookbooks have been printed as a result of these programs. The museum has also published

Elizabeth Gustison with a replica of The Bear, on exhibit in the time wing of the Seattle Museum of History and Industry.

Dog's Garden of Verses

Florence Van Wyck, AÆ, became a dog lover nine years ago, and watching and loving her Yorkshire terrier, Ranchit de Plata Pina, answering to the name of Mister, she conceived the idea for A Dog's Garden of Verses.

Published by Vantage Press, it is a collection of verses and amusing sketches from Mister's point of view. From the book jacket we learn that this erudite Yorkshire was born in County Westmeath, Ireland, the son of John of Nordlaw and Noreen of Audley. Brought to this country when he was only seven weeks old, he was naturalized by the American Kennel Club and educated by the ASPCA and the Gotham Kennel club of New York City, had a brief career as a model, and won seven show ribbons. This is his first book.

We suspect Florence helped with the typing, with her degrees from Randolph-Macon and Radcliffe. She was an editor of Architectural Record, and published feature articles in such divergent publications as Yachting and The Living Church, and presently is a regular columnist for The Yorkshire Terrier Quarterly. She lives in New York City.

On the subject of television commercials Mister writes:

"If ever I am asked to be
A television star
I'll let those dog-food people see
Exactly how things are:

The food they tell me that I'd like
Does not appeal to me!
But once before that paying mike
I might say differently:

For think of all those juicy steaks
My salary would buy!
(We're all of us a bunch of fakes—
Or television-shy!)"

a pictorial history of Seattle, and an information bulletin is mailed to members regularly. The museum is especially proud of their Marine History of the Pacific North West, which is the maritime Bible for all maritime museums today. The manuscript for this huge tome was reviewed by a board of 18 experts over the United States.

Education is the main purpose of the museum, which is especially for children. Bus loads of school groups visit daily. With their excellent docent program of both men and women, the children are divided into groups of 15, so each child can see and hear on the tour.

There is always a crowd around the submarine periscope, with children and adults alike waiting to view the surrounding neighborhood through a real, working periscope. The U.S. Navy gave it to the museum, but when she asked for installation directions, there weren't any. The head of a local shipyard who was a board member sent a crew over. After they figured it out and installed it, she sent directions to the Navy.

The planning never ends in a museum. Elizabeth is making plans for the next addition which will enlarge the library and storage areas. Museum conferences and travel to other museums are an interesting side to her career. An upcoming trip through Europe will enable her to see new display techniques and to see what other museums are doing, a vital part in keeping abreast of her field.

Quota Club named her Woman of Achievement in 1961, and she is past president of both Children's Educational Foundation and Pro-America. Because of the museum's interest in costumes, she is a member of the Fashion Group.

Carolyn Lee Wills, ΔΔ

From Delta Zeta to Eastern

Everyone agrees that while Delta Zeta Field Representatives work very hard, it is a glamorous existence flitting back and forth across the country. But what happens to them later? The percentage of their achieving even more glamorous success is proven by the latest release sent out by Eastern Air lines.

Carolyn Lee Wills, ΔΔ, is now Regional Public Relations Manager for Eastern in the Atlanta area. She joined Eastern in 1965, after serving Delta Zeta in the field, as a representative of Women's Activities. She works in the fashion, radio, television and special promotion departments of the airline.

Carolyn was chosen for Delta Zeta travelling because of her participation in Delta Delta chapter at Georgia State. Majoring in Journalism, she was editor of the yearbook, president of Panhellenic Council, on the Dean's List and Who's Who, and a member of Crimson Key.

Husband Charles Wills is a lawyer with degrees from Emory and the University of Kentucky.

What does Carolyn do in her Public Relations job? She writes news releases, sets up press conferences, and works with traveling VIPs. In the spring she works with the Atlanta Golf Classic. The day before the real tournament begins, she promotes Eastern Airline Celebrity Pro Am, with big name entertainers playing golf with the pros and local sponsors.

Taking a group of Atlanta press people to Puerto Rico for the opening of a new hotel, taking pictures of Disney World before its official opening, assisting Atlanta underprivileged children down for a day of fun, and arranging personal appearances for celebrities, are all in the day's work for Carolyn.

She claims the real difference between Delta Zeta and the airlines is that the former is a world of women, and the airlines are all men. Lucky Carolyn is many times the only female at policy meetings. At the annual corporate conference, she was one of five women among 600 men.

How do you qualify for a dream job like this in the Public Relations Field? Carolyn writes: "Delta Zeta and my experience traveling for the sorority was probably the main reason I was hired. My first job was to work with ladies' groups. I lectured on travel, destinations, did packing demonstrations and fashion shows on what to wear where. That was my professional background, but working with women and encouraging them to travel was where I used my Delta Zeta experience. As a sales representative they gave me all the educational accounts too as I was thoroughly familiar with the academic world.

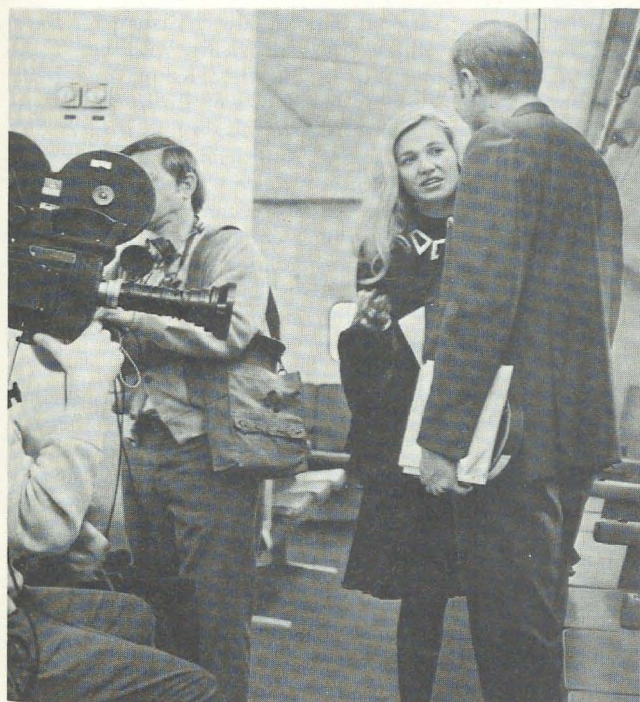

Outside of her job, she is president of Atlanta City Panhellenic, and scheduled their membership coffee at the home of Delta Zeta's Woman of the Year, Hazel Bently Eubanks, ZII.

When the Metropolitan Opera played in Atlanta, she helped with the publicity and ended up on stage as a "super" wearing a man's shepherd's costume and pretending to play an ancient instrument. At the Southern premiere of the Nicholas and Alexandra film sponsored by the Young Matrons Circle for Tallulah Falls School, Carolyn was general chairman, and she and Chuck wore original costumes for the film.

Anyone for a Field Representative?

Carolyn and Chuck Wills discuss airlines with former astronaut Frank Borman, now a vice-president for Eastern.

United States and Morocco

Dr. Luella Hall, Y

Pen & Palette, publication of the National League of American Pen Women in California, South, salutes Dr. Luella J. Hall, Y, on the publication of her latest book, "The United States and Morocco 1776-1956."

"Like a postman taking a walk on his day off, Dr. Hall, when not professionally writing history, devotes her time to her collection of primary historical material. Her large collections have been presented to Hartnell College, University of the Pacific, University of North Dakota, Stanford University, and Harvard University. There's no chance of Dr. Hall's mind rusting what with her interests in literature, history, political science, poetry, mystery novels, drama, music, genealogy and public speaking. All this and writing, too!"

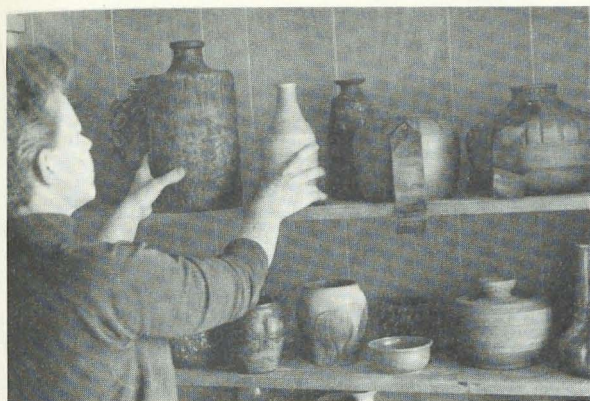

Luella received her BA and MA from the University of North Dakota where she was one of the founders of Upsilon chapter, and her PhD in history and political science from Stanford.

A longtime teacher in both North Dakota and California, her other published books include "History of the Formation of Counties in North Dakota" and "The United States and the Moroccan Problem, 1776-1907. She has contributed widely to educational and historical journals.

Luella was National Scholarship chairman for Delta Zeta in 1924, which isn't surprising with her background of membership in Phi Beta Kappa and Delta Kappa Gamma. She is listed in The California Register, Social Blue Book of California; Who's Who in California, in the West, and in American Women.

Of her book, the Pen & Palette writes: "Throughout our history the perennial Moroccan Problem has engaged the attention of such eminent American statesmen as Washington, John Adams, Franklin, Jefferson, John Quincy Adams, Lincoln, and the two Roosevelts. Morocco has been a proving ground for two major American foreign policies—the Monroe Doctrine and the Open Door.

"Yet despite the fact that the U.S. has had more important dealings with Morocco than with any other minor country, this area of the U.S. foreign relations has been virtually ignored by American and European historians. Dr. Hall's study, with its extensive and thorough documentation, leads the way for further exploration of this long-neglected topic and sets into proper perspective the real significance of American-Moroccan relations in the great international embroilment over control of the state of Morocco."

Nita Jones, Potter

She returned to school to become a painter, but after first touching clay it became an immediate love affair. And now, Nita Posey Jones, BB, says, "I'm a Potter."

Rapidly making a name in pottery circles, Nita attends the University of South Alabama in Mobile where she is finalizing her thesis plans for graduation with a Bachelor of Fine Arts.

"Pottery is a way to bring beauty and fine art to the home of the average person," she says. Her love for pottery has increased so immensely that she now digs and mixes her own clay and formulates her own glazes. In fact, she's collecting bricks to construct her own kiln.

When not making pots, Nita finds time to do prints, painting, sculpture, wood cuts and silk screens. But, she feels closer to clay for she feels "closer to nature . . . clay has an earthiness about it."

Nita, who left the University of Mississippi in 1942 to enter the business world, now plans to earn a Masters of Fine Arts and continue to operate a private studio and perhaps teach privately. She and husband Harold have transformed part of their Pascagoula, Mississippi home into a studio-gallery which houses a gas kiln, two potter's wheels and a gallery of Nita's work.

She has won pottery and painting honors from Greater Gulf States Fair, Mobile Opera Guild and Dauphine Island Association. She has exhibited in Gautier, Pascagoula, Pass Christian, Jackson, Mississippi and Mobile and Montgomery, Alabama. She is also represented in numerous private collections.

Though not near an active alumnae chapter, she has designed and painted a 12 x 80 foot rush textile mural for Epsilon Mu at the University of Southern Mississippi. For the past several years she has designed and painted pageantry for local Mardi Gras festivities. She is a member of EM House Corporation, American Crafts Council, Alabama Craftsmen Council, Singing River Art Association, Mobile Art Association, Mobile Art Gallery, American Legion Auxiliary and Order of Eastern Star.

Her husband Harold operates his own security contracting agency and fills his extra time with the Army Reserve, where he is a Lt. Colonel. They have one Delta Zeta daughter, Diane Jones Skelton, EM.

Nita Posey Jones, BB, at work on one of her two potter's wheels.

Pioneer Education for Physically Handicapped

From a one-room country school in Iowa to an important position of leadership in the Michigan program of pioneering education for physically handicapped children, Grace Milledge, AA, Flint Alumnae chapter, can trace her career in an area of education that continually increases in value, and expands in opportunity.

At the University of Colorado, where she had become a member of Delta Zeta in 1924, she combined that enthusiasm for science and special education in the winning of both AB and BE degrees, and later received her MA from Columbia University.

Her teaching experience included stints of service in schools in Illinois, Wisconsin, and finally Michigan, where she found her niche and where she has remained for more than twenty-five years doing work in education with the physically handicapped. Her program in Flint was so successful that it soon attracted state-wide notice and she was called upon to counsel and advise in expanding this work to a larger field.

Thus, in 1946, there was inaugurated the first Teacher-Counselor program for handicapped school children in the state. The program is a comprehensive one, and has involved the participation of students, teachers, parents, and administrators. Social and government agencies, doctors, and clinics have been enlisted in strengthening and constantly improving this service. The children who are benefitted by the state's efforts include many who might ordinarily not have the experience of normal school training.

Problems include vision, hearing, orthopedic conditions, epilepsy, heart or speech disabilities. The child is enabled to attend every regular class which he can, and is treated as a normal student, up to his ultimate capacity. Crippled youngsters, for example, can attend the regular classes in mathematics and English, but will then be enrolled in special classes for physical therapy.

Happily, the timely and inspired quality of Grace Milledge's work has been noticed and rewarded with membership and offices in a number of organizations concerned with this service. In fact, in each city where she has taught she has quickly been recognized as outstanding in her specialty. She has enjoyed her association with Delta Kappa Gamma, in which she has held state offices and served on the national program committee. Her offices in the Michigan Council for Special Education and the Michigan Education Society, have been numerous, and she was official delegate to the National Education Association.

What does she do in her vacations? She works in camps for physically handicapped children, or directs workshops which are concerned with counseling and assisting this group. She takes an active part in the Easter Seal Drive, assists at a nursery school for handicapped small ones, teaches a Sunday School class for the deaf, and passes on her guidance and inspiration as study chairman of a women's circle in her church.

Officially "retired" at present, Grace Milledge continues to give and to serve. It is a source of real happiness to Delta Zetas to have her say, "Long ago when loans for college girls were sometimes non-existent, it was a loan from Delta Zeta which made it possible for me to remain in college one crucial year. This has always made me grateful for my membership."

The Future of Delta Zeta Is Your Responsibility

The greatest contribution you, as an individual, can make to the continued growth of high quality membership of Delta Zeta is by furnishing college chapters with personal references of girls from your community.

Each of you knows a girl who will be going to college this Fall. Some of you know many girls whom you would welcome as Delta Zeta sisters. Talk with these girls, telling them of Delta Zeta. If they plan attending a school where there is a Delta Zeta chapter, do mail a personal reference to that chapter, giving as much information as possible concerning the girl. This will serve as an introduction between the college chapter girls and your friend.

Delta Zeta has hundreds of alumnae who have volunteered to work on their state committee, which is headed by a State Reference Chairman. There should be thousands of alumnae who are eager and willing to be of service in helping the college chapters to secure information about the girls whom they hope to pledge. Each of you has received a letter from your state's chairman requesting your cooperation. If you haven't already answered her, why not take a moment NOW to write to the chairman of your state's committee, offering your assistance. You will be proud when "your" girl becomes a Delta Zeta pledge.

Even though your name is not listed as a member of the state committee, you may still receive a request for a personal reference on a girl from your community. You may be the only Delta Zeta living in your town. The college chapter needs YOUR help. Wouldn't you like younger girls from your hometown to become

Delta Zetas? If you do not know the girl or her family personally, there are various ways in which to obtain enough information to warrant your sponsoring, or not sponsoring the girl. Some sources of information that may be of help to you are listed:

- (1) High School Principal, Counselor, or a teacher.
- (2) Church—if the girl's church membership is listed.
- (3) Some of your friends in town.
- (4) A Panhellenic pool—if your town has such.
- (5) Some organization that the girl belongs to.

If you are unable to secure any information, PLEASE DO indicate so on the reference form and return to the State Chairman. Too often the forms are not returned to the State Chairman or to the college chapter. This entails extra time, and postage.

Should you know of a girl whom you feel would not be an asset to Delta Zeta, it is hoped that you will impart this information to the College Chapter Director, or to the State Reference Chairman.

You will find listed the name and address of each State Chairman and the members of their committees. It should be rewarding to find your name listed as a member of this committee, knowing that you have volunteered to do your part in maintaining the highest quality of Delta Zeta membership.

Delta Zeta is YOUR sorority. Delta Zeta IS THE BEST. You, as alumnae should feel a responsibility to keep it so.

Mary Lou Barth
National Reference Chairman

Pledges Have Spirit

Delta Upsilon pledges at Marshall University had their picture taken in their new colorful rush dresses on the plaza of the Marshall University Memorial Student Union recently opened.

Theta Chi pledges at Lock Haven shampooed rugs at the YMCA as their service project.

Sigma Alpha Iota dedicates American Musicale

Clara Nygaard Johnson, T

"I just pledged, became active, then an alum, nothing special. I just did what I could." These were the quiet, unassuming words of a truly great Delta Zeta lady, just before the Fifty-third Upsilon Founders' Day Banquet. A member of the chapters second pledge class, she served as toastmistress, introducing Anna Jo Peterson Bridston, a charter member.

"I was President of House Corporation when the new addition was planned, but, many served before me and after, too. I haven't done anything special. As an alum, I joined the Tacoma and the Washington, D.C. chapters. I just did what I could to help, like bringing a hot dish or some advice. I will never claim to have been very active."

Clara Nygaard Johnson is an active member of Sigma Alpha Iota the music honorary. Just recently this organization dedicated an American Musicale concert to Clara, honoring her Fifty years of membership in SAI. In learning of the planned dedication, she said, "Why do they want to dedicate the concert to me? I've done nothing more than grow old enough to be a Fifty year member."

Now that sounds just like Clara! But we have her record to show she is well worth the award given her.

After graduation, the former Clara Nygaard began her career as music supervisor of the Valley City, N.D. public school system. After one year, she was told by doctors she could do no more teaching.

In the fall of 1927, she was married to Arthur Johnson, who is now professor of hydrocology at the University of North Dakota. They have two children, David and Louise now Mrs. Edwin Zuern. After Mr. Johnson's retirement, they plan to travel.

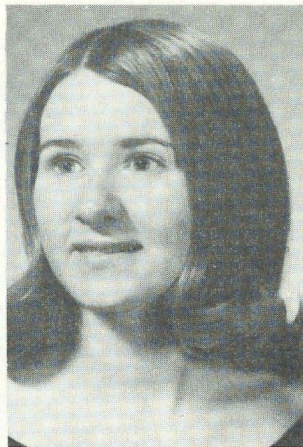

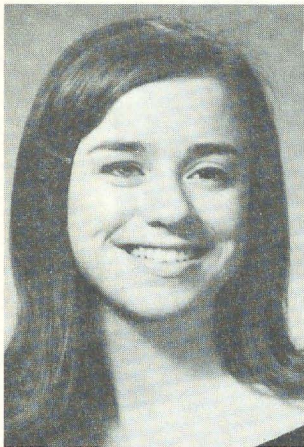

Wherever the Johnsons have lived, she has taken part in choir work. She has been president of SAI clubs in Tacoma, in Washington, D.C. and in Grand Forks. Clara has been instrumental in chartering these alumnæ clubs as national chapters of SAI. She has been national chairman of the International Music Fund and has just completed a three year term as vice-president of XI province.

Clara is a certified music brailist with the Library of Congress. In service as a literary brailist, Clara has brailied many books for children in the lower grades in Washington, D.C. and at the State School for the Blind in Grand Forks.

Her well-mannered disciplined way of life has served to further the cause for music. While she did not follow her original career of classroom teacher, and with a heart pacemaker as her constant companion for many years, she has been an inspiration to all who know her.

In 1970, Mrs. Clara Nygaard Johnson received her Order of the Golden Rose, fifty year pin. She has served in every alumnæ office and on the advisory board.

Congressional Interns

Cathy Bradley and Nancy NeSmith from Samford University spent month in Washington, D.C., as Congressional Interns.

During January term Cathy Bradley, AII and Nancy NeSmith, AII, spent the month in Washington D.C., working as Congressional Interns for three hours credit. As they say, it was an experience that is really hard to sum up. For both of us it was the best month of our lives.

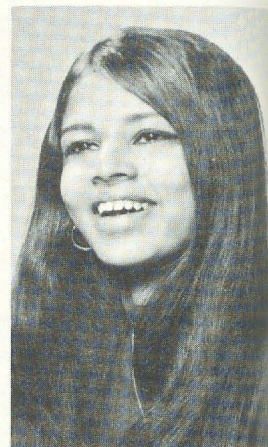

"We learned from the routine office work (typing, filing, opening the mail, and running errands) how a Congressman's office is run. The requests range from the ridiculous to the sad.

"The most exciting event of the entire month was going to the State of the Union Address. We could hardly believe that we were actually in the same room with all the leaders of our country. Another high point of our trip was visiting the French, German, and Indian Embassies. We even met the Indian Ambassador!

"The people in our offices went out of their way to make certain our visit was an enjoyable one. A special tour of the White House was arranged. We were really excited to go into Nixon's office. We were given pens just like the one that Nixon uses to sign bills.

"Of course we visited Washington Cathedral, Jefferson Memorial Arlington Cemetery, Supreme Court, Washington Monument, Lincoln Memorial, Library of Congress, Mount Vernon, Smithsonian Institute, State Department, National Gallery of Art, Pentagon, Federal Bureau of Investigation, National Archives, Bureau of Printing and Engraving, and Harpers Ferry.

"We enjoyed going off on our own and exploring the city. Washington is beautiful. We learned quite a lot about the mechanics of our complicated government. It was an experience that we feel more people should have. In fact, we both loved it so much, that we hope to go back next January.

Adopted Sister

Pamela Dawson of Madras, India, was Epsilon Gamma's adopted sister at Central Missouri this past year. She received her degree in her homeland at Ethiraj College, Madras University, and continued her education studying marketing in the United States.

Pam got her first taste of American education in Joplin, Missouri, when she attended high school there on an American Field Service international scholarship. She was one of forty-five students, out of six thousand who applied in India, who received this scholarship.

Here at Central Missouri State, she lived in Panhellenic Hall with the chapter and shared all of their activities. In the powderpuff football game, she starred as the quarterback. During week-ends she visited in the homes of her sisters. She was secretary in the International Club and a member of the American Marketing Association.

Building Homes for Delta Zetas

by FLORENCE HOHNBAUM MAIER, BO
National Director of House Corporations

Because House Corporations function quietly, even though they hold a most important place in the Delta Zeta world, the motto of our birthplace, Miami University, could well be the slogan of Delta Zeta's House Corporations: "To accomplish rather than be conspicuous."

A necessary part of Delta Zeta, a house corporation is the business arm of the college chapter and as such, manages, operates, and maintains the owned, leased or rented house, apartment, lodge, suite, or classroom facility used by the chapter for meetings.

Inasmuch as a college chapter changes its membership yearly, its house corporation, as a permanent entity in itself, provides continuity of chapter management, assuring through its influence and guidance, continuing interest and concern for the welfare of the chapter and Delta Zeta.

As a loving and understanding landlord, governed by an elected Board of Directors, membership in a house corporation is composed of all the members of the college chapter and those alumnae of Delta Zeta who are interested and who qualify under the chapter's house corporation bylaws. No funds are distributed among members; and no member, officer, or any other person, receives any remuneration or realizes any profit from the operation of the house corporation. Each state has specific laws which differ in the governing of a corporation, therefore the individual house corporation is incorporated as a non-profit organization chartered by the state in which it functions.

University and campus requirements also differ, and because the majority of the membership in a college chapter are not of legal age to sign or enter into legal contracts or assume legal liability, there are specific requirements to which each house corporation must adhere in assuming these roles. In addition, it is inadvisable for the sorority's college chapter to be burdened with the long-term responsibility of owning and/or managing property. To ascertain that collegiates are included in all house corporation planning, the chapter president and house manager or treasurer are automatically appointed to the house corporation's board of directors. It is the college chapter's responsibility, however, to see that its house corporation complies with all provisions of the bylaws as well as the Constitution of Delta Zeta.

To insure attractive continued or future housing and/or furnishings for a chapter, Building and Furnishings Funds are established. Each house corporation member, as well as interested persons, contribute to these funds thereby equalizing payments for expenses over the years. The house corporation guides and advises in planning, financing, and budgeting.

Chapters which meet in classrooms or Student Union facilities especially need a house corporation for long range planning and financial preparedness. By so doing, they will be ready to act when the university administration changes its rulings or policies, and housing becomes available or is advised.

Just as with the chapter's Alumnae Advisory Board, the house corporation also serves as a means whereby a Delta Zeta alumna can gain fulfillment and make her membership meaningful through house corporation involvement. Membership in a house corporation offers the alumna the opportunity of communicating with the collegiates; broadening her dimensions through discussion, analysis and planning; participating to improve the sorority she helped to build. Volunteer! Be useful and truly enjoy participation in one of those benefits to which your Delta Zeta membership entitles you. Our collegiate sisters do encourage and do support alumnae who are interested and willing to share the value of their experience when they give of their time and talents as resource persons.

Over the years there have been many loyal Delta Zetas who have served our sorority as house corporation members and directors; many Delta Zeta husbands, brothers, and friends who have assisted our house corporations. We are truly indebted to each and every one of them for contributing their time, their ability, their money, their patience and their untiring efforts.

Become involved in Delta Zeta . . . your sorority! If a collegiate chapter in the vicinity of your community is listed below, write to the House Corporation President telling her that you would like to become a member.

If a college chapter in your community is not included in the list, your help is needed in establishing a house corporation for this chapter. Write the National Director of House Corporations and/or consult the chapter's copy of the House Corporation Manual re: Guidelines For Establishing A House Corporation.

Let your closest college chapter and your own chapter know that you are willing to help.

Flame Eternal

Mary Permelia Coleman, older of Julia Bishop Coleman's two daughters, will be remembered by those who shared her initiation at the 1933 Convention, when she became the first Delta Zeta daughter to be so honored. Mary had attended Stephens College and as a junior transferred to Alpha chapter at Miami University. After serving some years on the administrative staff at Stephens, she enlisted in the Red Cross for service in World War II, and served on a Clubmobile in Holland. It was from her suggestion that the sorority sponsored a home for orphans in Holland. A Memorial Service at Stephens College honored her memory and a Memorial Foundation in her name has been established at the college.
