GAIL BROOK BURKET

ALPHA BETA

1954 Woman of the Year

VIOLET SHARRATT WHITFIELD, national secretary, presents a gift of silver candelabra, symbolic of Delta Zeta's circle of friendship, to Gail Brook Burket, 1954 Woman of the Year. Witnessing the event are her husband, Dr. Walter C. Burket, Evanston surgeon, and Mrs. Paul F. Gorby, president of the North Suburban Alumnae chapter.

DELTA ZETA HONORS GAIL BROOK BURKET

"Woman of the Year" 1954

AND HER COURT OF HONOR

DELTA ZETA'S "Woman of the Year" for 1954 is a poet. From a long list of outstanding candidates, Gail Brook Burket of Evanston, Illinois, was chosen to receive Delta Zeta's highest alumnae honor. She was previously chosen to the Court of Honor in 1950.

Because of her unusual talent, Gail Burket has achieved literary recognition on a national scale. This has not been done, however, at the sacrifice of her family or community responsibilities. While others of us dream about the poetry, the music, or the stories we wish to write, Gail goes about producing in a consistent manner—which may be one of the reasons she has been so successful.

Gail's husband is Dr. Walter C. Burket, Evanston surgeon. They have three daughters, Elaine, Vassar 1953, now at Yale; Anne, junior at Vassar; and Margaret, now in high school.

Among Gail Burket's activities and honors we can list only a few: author of four books, Courage, Beloved and Blueprint For Peace, both collections of poems, and two books for children, Manners Please, and Let's Be Popular. Her poems appear widely in books, magazines and newspapers throughout the United States. The terse verse for Delta Zeta's new public relations booklet Future, Perfect, was written by Gail.

She is a member of Alpha Beta chapter of Delta Zeta, University of Illinois 1926; M.A. from Northwestern in 1929; Phi Beta Kappa; Theta Sigma Phi; president of the Women's Auxiliary of the International College of Surgeons; immediate past president of National League of Pen Women for the state of Illinois; founder of State Poetry Day in Illinois. She has just completed teaching a course, for which she wrote the book, You Can Write Poetry for Hospitalized Veterans, sponsored nationally by Theta Sigma Phi. For this latter organization she will serve as Great Lakes Regional chairman in charge of five states for 1954-56. She has won many prizes for poetry and short stories, the most recent being first award in the national poetry contest for 1954 sponsored by the National League of American Pen Women.

Gail Burket has been a leader in activities of D.A.R., Evanston Woman's Club, A.A.U.W., Congregational Church, Brownies and Girl Scouts, and Evanston Community Concert Series. She fills many lecture and study group engagements.

She was sponsored by North Suburban Alumnae Chapter of Delta Zeta in which she takes active part.

Court of Honor

DR. DOROTHY E. NAUMANN

Syracuse, N.Y.

For service and leadership in her profession and in her community, Dorothy E. Naumann was selected to our Court of Honor.

Physician at Syracuse University where she is in charge of the student infirmary, and physician for the Y.W.C.A., she also finds time for medical research.

In the field of medicine she has collaborated with Dr. G. A. Cronk in bacteriological research. Along with this research she has had many articles published in medical journals, has lectured, and appeared on radio panels and TV health programs.

Dorothy has held offices in many organizations to which she belongs. A few are: Onondago County Medical Society, Zonta Club, Y.W.C.A., Alpha Epsilon Iota and Sigma Delta Epsilon, professional medical fraternities, Professional Women's League, and City Panhellenic.

Initiated by Alpha Kappa chapter when she attended Syracuse University, she has continued her devotion to her college and alumnae chapters in that city. Sponsored for this honor by Syracuse, South County, Rochester, and Hartford Alumnae chapters and Alpha Kappa and Beta Alpha college chapters.

ELOISE RAEF SHERMAN
(Mrs. M. E. Jr.)

Dallas, Texas

Eloise Sherman receives a place in our Court of Honor because she has been outstanding as a volunteer worker in her community.

Using her early training as a social worker and statistician she has given unstintingly of her time, talents, and energy for public welfare. She has directed research, made surveys, prepared reports, and edited bulletins pertaining to community problems such as juvenile delinquency, health and tuberculosis control. She fills many speaking engagements in an endeavor to interpret welfare policies and practices to civic groups. She holds offices in many civic organizations. As a member of the American Statistical Association she is frequently called upon by county, state and national government bureaus to act as consultant, conduct analytical surveys, and set up policies for child welfare agencies.

Eloise's husband owns and operates an air-conditioning company. They have one son Bill.

She has given continuous service to Alpha Psi, her home chapter which she now serves as V.I.P., and to Dallas Alumnae, her sponsors for this Delta Zeta honor.

Basis for Judging Delta Zeta's
"Woman of the Year"

Delta Zeta's Woman of the Year is chosen annually by a national jury of the sorority from alumnae candidates submitted by college and alumnae chapters of Delta Zeta. Since the quality of the entrants is so superior each year, a Court of Honor has been established for those who were the strongest contenders for this award.

This national award was established in 1950 as an annual tribute to the ideals of the six founders of our sorority, and the winners are announced synonymously with Founders' Day observances throughout our chapters. The "Woman of the Year" is chosen from each year's candidates as the one who most nearly exemplifies the principles of Delta Zeta in her daily life.

Candidacy is based upon her success as a wife and mother, as a leader in her church, as an educator, or in any of the business and professional fields. The over-all requirement is that she be "a benefit to the community of which she is a part."

Mu's Loss Is Province's Gain

UNTIL recently VIP for Mu chapter, University of California (Berkeley), Eleanor Atterbury Corten (Mrs. A. H.), is now serving Delta Zeta as Director of Province XIII.

El's personality? Tops—vivacious, alert, with a fun-loving sparkle in her eye. Her looks? A joy to behold; she could double as a model straight out of the pages of Vogue, with a superlative sense of humor matching those "super" looks.

"El" CORTEN, who successfully combines home, family, church, community and Delta Zeta, is now Director of Province XIII.

Eminently successful in tackling chapter house problems, both psychological and material (material? Leaks, replacements, repairs; you name it, she has fixed it or had it done) she has ably served Mu chapter for the past three years as chairman of the Advisory Board. In the past, she was chairman of a wonderfully successful benefit at the Berkeley Women's City Club for the San Francisco Bay Cities Alumnae Chapter; chairman of Gamma Group, and has served on the Alumnae Board.

In addition to being wife, mother and homemaker, El is superintendent of the junior department Sunday School of the First Congregational Church in Oakland, serving also on its Board of Religious Education. Her two charming young daughters, Connie, fourteen, and Janet, ten, are girl scouts, so mother acts as chairman of the troop committee, vice president of her PTA group, and was a delegate at a Santa Cruz PTA convention. In charity work, El's interests include an associate membership in the Pied Piper Chapter of the Children's Home Society. Somehow she finds time to belong to four bridge clubs, an unfair bidding advantage over some of us who belong to only some of the four.

Under her maiden name, Eleanor Atterbury, she has done considerable writing, including seven serials for the Associated Press, a novel published about four years ago, and many short stories for various magazines, capping her pen activities by teaching a course in short story writing at the Cora Williams School in Berkeley.

Her husband, who rejects his given name and answers only to "Bun," is as loyal a Delta Zeta husband as I know. When there is a job to be done for Delta Zeta that only a man can do, Bun is in there pitching. Witness the perspiration pouring down his face during our recent rummage sale, when he and Lloyd Oliver manned the truck to pick up furniture and boxes of rummage earmarked for the sale.

A member of Alpha Chapter of Beta Phi Alpha during her college days, El was initiated into Delta Zeta's Mu chapter at the merger in 1941, bringing to the San Francisco Bay Cities Alumnae her charm, her leadership, her sense of responsibility, and her ability to get things done. Bearing out the old adage that it is best to choose the busiest people for heading the most important posts, we know she will be tremendously successful in her new appointment as Director of Province XIII, which includes California, Arizona, Nevada and Utah.

Delta Zeta to Aid GALLAUDET COLLEGE

By Lucille Hunt Pendell, A E

ONE DAY, a little over a year ago, Lucille May, Province III Director, telephoned me about the local directory. It was during this conversation that Mrs. May and I became acquainted and found that we had things in common, including an interest in the education of the deaf. I told her something of my work as librarian and teacher at Gallaudet College and we discussed Delta Zeta's interest in the deaf. As a result of our conversation, I was invited to be the speaker last fall at the local Founders' Day Celebration. I gave a report of my work with the deaf. Later a group of these alumnae visited the college and had lunch with us.

Gallaudet College became an active interest of the alumnae here and the college felt it had met a real friend in Delta Zeta. This chapter had a book drive and fashion show specifically for the library and its contribution from those efforts was significant and appreciated very much. Sometime later Mrs. Evelyn Costello, our national president, visited our campus. This summer, after Convention was over and I learned that Delta Zeta had voted to place the college officially among its national interest projects, I was most pleased and most grateful to those persons who introduced us to the National Convention. I would like to thank you all, not only for myself but also for the faculty and students of Gallaudet College.

I hope that the following account will help you to become better acquainted with our college program.

Gallaudet College is the only college in the world for the deaf. It was founded in 1864 by Edward Miner Gallaudet, who became its first president. Dr. Gallaudet had come to Washington in 1857 at the invitation of Amos Kendall, Postmaster General in President Jackson's Cabinet, to establish a school for the deaf children in the District of Columbia. This school is operating today and is known as Kendall School in honor of its benefactor.

The present site of more than ninety acres, on which the college and Kendall School are located, was furnished by Amos Kendall. The campus is generally known as "Kendall Green" and is located off Florida Avenue, between 7th and 8th Streets, in northeast Washington, D.C.

Amos Kendall was a very influential person. He came to Washington in 1828 as an auditor in the Treasury Department. President Jackson appointed him to be Postmaster General to insure a thorough reorganization of that department. He remained in this post for many years. In 1845, he became associated with Samuel F. B. Morse, who had made a telegraph device. The association grew into a partnership. After surviving serious financial troubles involving patents and other legal difficulties, the investment paid off. Amos Kendall became wealthy, and Samuel Morse and he lived to see a vast network of telegraph lines woven across the world.

After 1855, Amos Kendall devoted most of his life to philanthropy. It was during this time that he became interested in the deaf children in the District of Columbia and invited Edward Miner Gallaudet to come to Washington to establish a school for them. He personally met the financial obligations of the school for the first nine years of its existence. He served as President of the Board of Trustees until his death in 1869. The Kendall School and the lovely grounds of Kendall Green with its fine old trees are living memorials to the man who truly put his efforts and money to work for a neglected few.

As the only college of its kind, Gallaudet draws its students from all parts of the United States and from several foreign countries. Last year, there was a total of thirteen foreign students from Canada, China, England, Estonia, India, Norway, Sweden, Thailand, and Trans-Jordan, in addition to students from 39 states. A young lady from Italy is coming this fall.

New students, chiefly through competitive examinations, come to the college from the various state schools for the deaf and from private and other public schools. Transfer students are sometimes accepted from other colleges in cases where it appears that Gallaudet can best serve their needs.

New students are generally admitted to the preparatory class and are given a thorough one year course in studies equivalent to those given in the senior year in high schools. Those students who are successful in passing this course are admitted to the college.

In college, the freshmen and sophomores are given a general education by studying required courses in science, mathematics, social studies, and the Humanities. If successful, at the end of this two-year course, the student may graduate with the degree of Associate in Arts; or by substituting some vocational training, he may receive the degree of Associate in Applied Science. If he chooses to continue his college course, he must decide on an area of concentration.

Candidates for the bachelor degrees specialize he is also required to take a workshop in communications, to develop his powers of speech, speech-reading, and hearing to their maximum, as well as other means of communication of value to the deaf.

The method used in presenting the classroom during the junior and senior years by studies offered in one of the following departments: mathematics, chemistry, biology, history and political science, economics and sociology, English, art, education, home economics, library science, and philosophy. English composition is required of all students during the first three years of college. Considerable emphases are placed upon vocabulary training.

As long as the student remains at Gallaudet, work varies with the subject taught, size of the class, and previous training of the students. Lectures, class discussions, projects, field trips, conferences, and library assignments are all part of this phase of the work. Great use is made of the blackboard, ditto outlines, visual aids, and other devices to get subject matter across. The discussions, reports, and lectures are given in speech, the manual alphabet, and the language of signs, simultaneously. The teacher speaks, and at the same time, signs or spells with his hands. The student responds in like manner.

In addition to the preparatory year and the regular four-year college course, the Graduate Department of Education offers specialized training in the education of the deaf to hearing men and women who are graduates from other colleges.

These students receive masters degrees at the close of their work, and they find teaching positions in the various schools for the deaf. Often they become principals or superintendents in the schools for the deaf. Representatives from foreign countries, including Bolivia, India, and Thailand, have been members of this class and have been instrumental in founding schools for the deaf in their respective countries.

The number of students in the graduate department is limited to ten or twelve since the workshop facilities are limited to the Kendall School.

Kendall School is chiefly a residential school and is maintained by a staff of highly trained teachers separate from the college. It offers instruction from preschool through high school.

The campus is a happy place. The students are all deaf, but while they are here, deafness is not a handicap. They do the same things that are done in colleges for the hearing. There are numerous clubs, two fraternities and two sororities, athletic associations for both men and women, membership in the Mason-Dixon Athletic Conference for the men, and numerous other college activities that are similar to those found in colleges for the hearing. In addition, there are Governing Councils for both men and women that provide for the administration of residence halls and campus regulations.

There is also a Student Body Government, an organization of the entire student body, whose purpose is to promote harmonious understanding and cooperation among the students, with the faculty and administration.

Our students have dances. When hearing people attend these, if one were to judge by performance, it would be impossible to know who is deaf and who is hearing. Our students are especially sensitive to musical vibrations and like to place their hands on a piano when it is being played.

The students publish an annual yearbook, The Tower Clock, and a newspaper, The Buff and Blue.

There is a snack bar where midmorning coffee and doughnuts are consumed midst much discussion, and where cokes and ice cream furnish the refreshments in the afternoons.

Spring graduations are followed by the usual weddings and young people go out from college to find their places in a hearing world where most of them do very well. We have graduates who have made names for themselves in chemistry, in architecture, in business, in government work, in art, and in other fields of endeavor.

When I think of any limitations that I would place on the deaf, the only significant one that comes to mind is the use of the telephone. They cannot use the telephone. They realize the importance of that instrument in today's economy, and so in an office they try to perform other tasks better to compensate for this particular lack of service.

The college was examined by the Accrediting Commission of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools in 1952. We were not accredited, but we were given a blueprint for working toward that goal. Each year we have met certain of the requirements stipulated by the Commission. Our latest achievement came this summer when Congress appropriated $240,000 for a new library building. Dr. Elstad, President of the College, officials in the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, members of Congress, and friends have all been untiring in their efforts to get the new building for us.

The new library will be known as the Edward Miner Gallaudet Memorial Library in honor of the founder and first president of the college.

The alumni of the college have provided $100,000 from a memorial fund and with the appropriation from Congress, together with a grant of $10,000 from the Agnes C. Meyer Foundation, we are to have $350,000 for a library. $300,000 is to be used for a building. The remaining money is to be used for architect fees and for "contingencies."

We decided that, since the enrollment is expected to reach at least 500 students and since building costs are high, we would spend the money on a building and try to get the furnishings from other sources. And so we have made plans accordingly. The architect has been hired; he has received our notes and suggestions relating to our needs; and he is now working on first drafts.

Our general specifications to the architect provide for a building (as large as can be built for $300,000) two and one-half stories high—half-basement, main floor, and a balcony above the main floor extending out from all sides for at least twenty feet. Reading areas were specified to accommodate two hundred and fifty readers; and open stacks, to shelve eventually 125,000 volumes. Our present collection contains approximately 20,000 titles.

The half-basement floor is to contain a browsing room (which will have a kitchenette attached and which will be known as the Alumni Room), the Kendall School Library, a visual education room and facilities, a reading clinic, a library science classroom, a bookbinding room, storage stacks, a receiving room, a vault, coat rooms, and rest rooms.

I am sure that the alumni can be counted on to help furnish the Alumni Room. There are many alumni living in the Washington area, and they will be permitted to schedule this room for parties and other meetings. The room will serve generally as a lounge for our faculty and students.

The main floor will contain the reference collection and catalog, charging desk, reserve book area, librarians' offices, workrooms, staff lounge and kitchenette, staff toilets, student typing room, conference room, provisions for archives, microfilm, etc. There will be a large reading area and free standing book shelves in this area. This floor is to be very flexible and permanent walls are to be kept at a minimum with book shelving and equipment providing whatever divisions seem necessary.

On this floor will also be located our treasure room which will be known as the Gallaudet Room. This is to be a lovely place and is to contain as many of our treasures as we can assemble. The collection of books on the deaf will be shelved in this room and the students in the Graduate Department will study in individual carrels directly on the balcony above it.

The Gallaudet Room will constitute the memorial part of the library and probably will contain a portrait of Edward Miner Gallaudet.

There will be a balcony around the main floor. This area is merely an extension of the main reading room. The book collection is classified according to the Dewey Decimal System of classification, and it will be arranged in order on both the main floor and the balcony. Forty-eight-inch tables with dividers that will accommodate two students at each will be used on the balcony. We hope to have the balcony chiefly an area of study for juniors and seniors.

The plan of the entire library stresses flexibility, and when emphasis changes in the college program, the library can accommodate the changes with a minimum of effort. It has also been planned so that supervision can be easily accomplished.

We are all very enthusiastic about our prospects. Before the snow flies, we expect activity to commence on the actual construction. From my present office window I can look out over the site where the building will be located, and I am sure that this winter promises for me and for the Gallaudet community one filled with anticipation and excitement.

I mentioned before that our money will provide the building but not the furnishings. If Delta Zeta Chapters want to help us on that, we will see to it that each donor chapter achieves immortality by having its name engraved on a metal marker and attached to each gift. We can give you more definite information a little later when we get bids on furnishings, but whatever you choose to do will be greatly appreciated by all of us and by the deaf all over the country. Please come to see us when you visit Washington.

May We Introduce . . .

IN THIS ISSUE we begin a series of articles presenting the State Chairmen of Delta Zeta. Some have been serving for many years; others are brand new to the position. But in any case, we hope you will become better acquainted with your state chairman and respond when she asks your help with recommendations, state day, or new addresses—all a part of her big job for Delta Zeta.

Chairman for Tennessee is ERNA THRELKELD SCALES, who lives in Nashville. A member of Beta Lambda, she was graduated from the University of Tennessee in 1947. In addition to caring for her children Walt and Lisabeth Clare, Edna is a commercial artist and art teacher. She is a member of the American Association of University Women, Phi Gamma Mu, and treasurer of the Nashville Alumnae. As one might expect, she lists her children and art work as her hobbies.

BEATRICE FUNK JOURDAN is the newly appointed chairman for Missouri. Now teaching music in Paseo High School, she also travels a great deal with her architect husband. She is state music chairman of D.A.R. and a member of High School Women's Organization. Although her own chapter is Alpha Phi, she has worked hard for Gamma Gamma chapter and the Kansas City Alumnae, of which she is past president. Beatrice's hobbies are listening to and performing music and gardening.

Michigan's chairman, JEAN ROGERS ALBORELL is the mother of three children: William Rogers, Anne Elizabeth and Susan Jean. This member of Beta Pi used to teach French and Spanish B C (before children). Living in Lansing, Jean is a member of her church choir, P.T.A., and secretary-treasurer of the Lansing area Albion Alumni. Her Delta Zeta record includes collegiate chapter president, rush chairman, charter member and chairman of Detroit Alumnae junior group, vice-president of Detroit Alumnae. At present she is vice-president of Lansing-East Lansing Alumnae and secretary of Beta Pi house corporation.

MILDRED WADE LENNING, chairman for Ohio, needs no introduction to Delta Zeta's who honored her as 1953 Woman of the Year. Besides her work in the First Lutheran Church, the Dayton Woman's Club Board, Community Chest Budget Committee, the College Women's Club and Lasertoma Club, she serves as a part-time account executive for radio station WING. Mildred's hobbies are public relations and duplicate bridge. She has two children, George and Dorothy, and four grandchildren.

Although she lives in Medford, Massachusetts, ETHELYN PERCIVAL HOWARD is serving as chairman for Maine. A charter member of Alpha Upsilon chapter, she taught mathematics and was a high school librarian before her marriage four years ago when she acquired four children, Ardel, Robert, Kathleen, and Alan. She also has three grandchildren. Her hobbies are Cub Scouts, sewing, music, collecting buttons, and making braided rugs. Ethelyn noted that she has attended eight national conventions and has met all six of Delta Zeta's founders.

Two states, Delaware and Maryland, make up the territory of MARIE DENISON SCHREYER who lives in Wilmington, Delaware. This Delta member has served as president of the Wilmington Alumnae since 1952. She is also active in the Arden Singers (local operetta group), Hanover Presbyterian Church, and is Wilmington Panhellenic representative. Formerly a medical technician, she is now the mother of one son, James. Her hobbies are playing the cello and bridge.

Colorado's chairman is MARCELLA WHITMOYER CADWELL who teaches in the Denver Public Schools. In addition to the many school activities connected with her job, she belongs to D.A.R., P.T.A., Colorado Education Association, Reserve Officers Ladies of America, National Education Association, and Panhellenic. She was rush chairman and vice president of Rho chapter, and secretary and president of her alumnae chapter. Marcella's hobbies include dancing (eight years of ballet), jewelry and traveling. She lists The Dumb Friends League for stray and lost animals as her main philanthropic project.

Besides her work as a chemist at the Hormel Institute, a branch of the University of Minnesota Graduate School, EVELYN McMEANS is Minnesota's chairman. Memberships in other organizations include president of Wesleyan Service Guild, O.E.S., A.A.U.W. board member, and League of Women's Voters. She has served as secretary for the Twin City Alumnae and on the Advisory Board of Gamma chapter. This Iota member lists entertaining friends, cooking, collecting American pressed glass and bridge as her hobbies.

Another who combines teaching and working for Delta Zeta is HOLLIS HUDDLE O'NEAL of Kentucky, a member of Alpha Theta chapter. Taking an active part in many educational organizations, she is a past president of Lexington Alumnae, past president of Kappa Delta Pi, member of A.A.U.W., Woman's Club of Central Kentucky, D.A.R., O.E.S., Lexington Safety Council, and Phi Kappa Tau Wives and Mothers Club. Hollis is especially proud of the fact that she was commissioned a member of the Honorable Order of Kentucky Colonels in 1935. This year she has added the joys and problems of building and moving into a new country home.

GLADYS MARTHA TAGGART, professor of physical education for women at the University of Wichita, is chairman for Kansas. Her hobbies of horses, poetry, philosophy, camping, stamps and books would seem to leave her little time for membership in her church choir, Community Arts Council, P.E.O. and several other professional organizations. At present this Iota member is working on her doctorate at N.Y.U. She writes that she "still can do a back-jack and a half-twist and ride a bucking colt, but am beginning to enjoy a quiet life too. My Irish setter Patric sends his regards to his friends everywhere."

Northern California's chairman is MARTHA HENRY BURDE, Alpha, who has served since 1949. Her hobbies of gardening and Scouting have led to her becoming president of the Monterey Peninsula Girl Scout Council, member of the Monterey Peninsula Garden Club, and secretary of the Board of Trustees of the Church of the Wayfarer. The mother of two children, Carolyn and Meredith, she has twice been president of Foothill Alumnae and first president and organizer of the Monterey Peninsula Alumnae. She is chairman of the Biblical Garden at the Church of the Wayfarer, considered one of the most authentic Biblical gardens in existence.

Delta Zetas Wear Navy Blue

ALTHOUGH the United States is officially at peace with the world, Delta Zetas are still serving in the armed forces of our national government. From Liz Read comes news of Delta Zetas serving with the United States Navy.

Officially known as Lieutenant JG E. A. Read, Liz was a member of Alpha Sigma at Florida State University. She joined the Navy in January of 1950, and after completing five months of officer indoctrination at the General Line School in Newport, Rhode Island, she was assigned duty in Norfolk, Virginia, for twenty-six months. In August, 1952, she was assigned as instructor on the staff of the U.S. Naval School, Officer Indoctrination, Women, at Newport.

The purpose of this school is to familiarize students with the Naval Establishment and the types of billets they, as women officers, may be expected to fill ashore. The curriculum encompasses such varied fields as personnel administration, instructor training, communications and intelligence, ships, aircraft, weapons, typing, naval correspondence, sea power and world affairs, military justice, logistics, hygiene, drill, physical education, and character guidance. Indoctrination tours to the various kinds of naval activities represented in the Newport area and tours aboard every type ship available constitute a part of the training. The program is open to young women between the ages of twenty-one and twenty-seven who are college graduates and meet the necessary mental, moral and physical standards.

To date eight other Delta Zetas have graduated from Officer Indoctrination, Women:

Lt. JG Celia Louise Barteau, 1st M, current duty station: London.

Ens. Irma Jean Brooks, B A, current duty station: Commander Western Sea Frontier, San Francisco.

Lt. JG Lillian Cady, Φ, current duty station: Seattle.

Lt. JG Norma Florence Parlin, A Y.

Lt. JG Faris Anne Tomlinson, A X.

Ens. Barbara Minns Burchnall (MSC), A K,

The Department of Psychology in conjunction with The Office of the Dean of Women of The Ohio State University announces

A Program in Student Personnel Work With Graduate Residencies for Women

For what types of position does this aspect of the program in the student Personnel area prepare?

Deans of Women, Counselors of Women, Directors of Residences, Directors of Social Programs.

To what degree does the program lead?

The Master of Arts Degree. This program may be continued as a part of a Ph.D. program in Student Personnel Psychology.

What is the length of time required?

Ordinarily this will be a two-year program. The minimal requirement for the Master of Arts Degree is forty-five quarter hours. Graduate Residents may carry ten hours of course work each quarter.

What does the Residency offer?

Board, room, and a stipend of $30 a month. Fees will be remitted.

What are the responsibilities of the Graduate Resident?

She does individual counseling, works with the program in women's residences, with student government and with student activities.

What courses are included in the program?

Among the many offerings of the Department of Psychology the following may be of special interest:

University Personnel Psychology
Psychology of Counseling
Laboratory in Educational Counseling
Problems of the Dean of Women
Laboratory in Psychology of Campus Group Activities

Who are the staff members in the area of Student Personnel Psychology?

Dr. Francis P. Robinson	Dr. Harold B. Pepinsky
Dr. John R. Kinzer	Dr. Collins W. Burnett
Dr. Frank M. Fletcher, Jr.	Dean Christine Y. Conaway
Dr. Kathryn L. Hopwood

What supplementary fields are recommended?

A wide offering including courses in Psychology, Education, Sociology, Anthropology, Social Administration, Philosophy and Family Life Education provides much from which to choose.

What background is necessary for admission to the program?

This is a program in the Department of Psychology. Some can be admitted directly to the program. Others may need to make up some background while in residence. Applications will be considered by the Personnel Committee of the Department of Psychology and by the Entrance Board.

Where is further information available?

Please write to:

Frys Conquer New Frontiers

as told to Mary Mae McDonald Hartley, A T, in a letter from Peggy Croke Fry—dated March 15, 1954

PRETTY young Delta Zeta alumna, Peggy Croke Fry, and her equally young and adventuresome husband, Ed, are disproving the theory that there are no more frontiers to conquer in the modern world.

For their most recent exploits—in the interest of science—the Frys selected one of the most inaccessible, but beautiful spots on the earth: the faraway Cook Islands located in the South Pacific in the region of New Zealand.

Since October of 1953, the couple also have been disproving the conception that the present generation is "soft." Isolated from all modern conveniences, all white people and all familiar surroundings, the Frys have been making a happy home for themselves in the wilds of Cook Islands' jungles.

Here, amidst Maori-speaking people of Polynesian descent, tropical plantations and hurricane atmosphere, Ed and Peggy are spending a year in valuable, tedious, untouched research. Both are on Fulbright scholarships: Ed, in anthropology; and Peggy, in nutrition. Peggy also is on an Effie I. Raitt scholarship from the American Home Economics Association.

Tall, sandy-haired Ed, a graduate of the University of Texas, is working on his doctorate from Harvard University's Department of Anthropology. For his unusual studies, he picked the people of the Cook Islands. Ed is making anthropometric measurements of the islanders between the ages of five and 65 years and is taking dental casts of their teeth, blood samples for typing and photographs for showing facial details.

Blonde, blue-eyed Peggy, a home economics graduate of the University of Texas, is making a qualitative, as well as quantitative, dietary survey of the families in this remote and primitive area. She says she has found the islanders' foods are as many miles apart from USA foods as the island itself.

Peggy, a native Texan, and Ed, formerly of New Jersey, met while attending the University of Texas. Here they both were outstanding students and both received many scholastic and social honors on the campus. They married shortly after graduation.

A former president of Alpha Tau chapter, Peggy served ΔZ as Province One director in 1952-53. During this time—while her husband was working at Harvard and doing post graduate studies—Peggy also was employed in nutrition research at Forsyth Dental Infirmary for Children in Boston. Results of her work recently were published by the Journal of Clinical Nutrition in an article on obesity in children.

The Frys' adventures began long before they set out on the last lap of their journey on the seas to the Cook Islands. After months of preparations, they left by plane in July, 1953, for Panama where they boarded an English ship bound for New Zealand. In the middle of the Pacific, their ship had engine trouble and the trip was slowed down. In addition, the condensers "went kaffloie too," writes Peggy, and "we ran out of fresh water."

But they arrived safely in New Zealand "at the tail end of winter in August, since the seasons are just reversed south of the Equator."

For two months, Peggy and Ed remained in New Zealand, studying further the strange Maori language. They audited some courses at Auckland University College, gave a few lectures and "tried to explain the American Way of Life to all and sundry who were interested." That is part of the Fulbright plan.

Peggy says that English, as well as Maori, is taught in the Cook Islands schools. She has found it is better to ask questions in Maori in order to get accurate information from the natives, but "when all else fails, gesturing can usually get the point across."

The friendly and outstanding Delta Zeta describes New Zealand as a "rather small country . . . certainly beautiful with all the extremes in climate and scenery that we have in the U.S. plus several glaciers that we do not have."

In New Zealand the Frys' baggage reached safari proportions, recalls Peggy. They were loaded with photographic supplies, emergency food packets and gifts for the natives; such as, fishing lines, nails, needles, buttons, bolts of material, costume jewelry and "several hundred samples of Fuller Brush cosmetics we got from a salesman in Massachusetts."

The gifts proved handy for getting acquainted with the islanders. They were thrilled with the items, says Peggy, but "giving in return is a very delicate matter here, governed by all kinds of old customs. It is really a game, requiring several days." In exchange for the gifts from Peggy, the inhabitants have presented the couple with baskets of food, hats, necklaces and embroidery work.

Peggy's latest gift is a ukelele, made in the native fashion. "I will never be able to sing in their high nasal way, since I never could sing anyway, as you will remember from song practice at school. But perhaps when I can play the thing, I can accompany someone else."

The Frys left New Zealand on "one of the smallest and oldest boats I have ever run across," remembers Peggy. "It was equipped with superb food but primitive cabins and had the lovely native name of Maui Pomare. We were in a small storm en route to our new home on the island, and during it the boat proved, after all, to be a good one in such cases, despite its looks."

Originally, Peggy and Ed were to have lived on the island of Mitiaro, but they discovered it was completely inaccessible, so decided to stay on the "fantastically beautiful island" of Rarotonga, which is regularly visited by ships, except during the hurricane season from December to April. "Most people," explains Peggy, "try to avoid being here during this season, and the boats do not call regularly for fear of being caught in a hurricane and being run aground on the coral reef."

At first the Frys lived native-style in a "shack" made of bamboo-like stick walls and topped by a leaky, plaited cocoanut leaf roof. It was located near the village of Titikaveka, on the most isolated part of the island. Not fifty yards from their hut was the lagoon where Ed learned to fish like the islanders: with a spear and goggles. Peggy finds underwater fishing opens "a whole new world, down under the surface in amongst the coral. And so many kinds of fish! This is really the place for people who love to fish."

In December, the Frys had a stroke of luck when the owner of a plantation went on a four-month holiday to New Zealand and left Peggy and Ed in charge of his home which was kept by two servants. "All of this living around the island is rent-free," says Peggy. "Wish that principle prevailed in the U.S."

The plantation is surrounded by orange, lemon, banana, pawpaw and cocoanut trees "all of which we enjoy eating." Behind it rises a dramatic mountain peak some 2,200 feet high.

But from nearly every place on the island, Peggy comments, the pretty, blue lagoon can be viewed. "I can hear the surf crashing in on the reef, especially at night. I go to bed and wake up with the sound in my ears. It is quite a feeling."

Naturally Peggy is most interested in the native foods. "We certainly never get a shortage of Vitamin C, with all the fresh fruit there is here . . . fish is plentiful and most of the men go fishing every day." As for staple foods or starchy foods, Peggy names kumara, taro, taro tarua and maniot. "We have learned to cook and eat all the foods here and have grown to really like them. Of course, cocoanut cream is added to almost everything. The tops of the taro plants are used to make a dish called rukau . . . somewhat like spinach in appearance, but much richer and tastier."

Peggy and Ed travel about their island haven on the accepted mode of travel, bicycles. They visit the people, do their research and journey to the main area of the island which is nine miles away and where the post office, three trading stores and ship anchorage are located. Peggy writes, "Mail comes in real good here. We sometimes get it five weeks after you write it—airmail, of course."

The first three months on Rarotonga, the young couple spent becoming more familiar with the use of the language and overcoming the initial shyness of the natives. Once they allayed the people's suspicions and gained their confidence, they began work in earnest. Now they count many friends among the islanders who have been very helpful in their various research projects.

"All in all," admits Peggy, "we're having a good time and certainly getting some good work done, but we shall be glad to see the good ole' USA again, too."

There is a radio on the island, explains Peggy, "so we hear a little of what goes on in the outside world, 'though not much because it is all so brief and irregular . . . occasionally we get magazines from home and it seems just like a fairy story. To think of electricity, refrigeration, hot and/or cold running water and screens."

She adds that they carry on a running battle with mosquitoes, cockroaches, spiders and mildew. "So far the score is the enemy, 10, and the Frys, 0, for they, like everything else here, thrive on the heat and humidity."

Everything moves at a slow pace on Rarotonga, she observes, except perhaps the rains which come hard and sudden. Peggy says she can see them coming over the mountain, but hardly has time to get under cover—for they are quick, forceful and drenching.

The Frys planned to fly home by September 1, 1954, traveling by way of Fiji, Samoa, Hawaii and Tahiti, if possible. With them they bring new and valuable anthropological and nutrition discoveries to the modern world, a wealth of interesting tales—and a year of delightful and unusual experiences.

Film Made of Televised "Sorority Preview"

Seattle City Panhellenic announces the availability of a 25 minute film with sound track of their September 10, 1954, show "Sorority Preview." This was kinescoped because of the many inquiries received about their previous television shows from Panhellenics throughout the country planning similar programs. To defray the cost of filming the show, a nominal fee of $5.00, plus mailing cost, is charged for the reel. In addition to the kinescope, a tape recording of last year's show is also available to interested groups.

Produced over KING-TV Community Workshop for those girls registered for rush, "Sorority Preview" includes an introductory explanation by the narrator of Panhellenic, scenes in the College Panhellenic office, sorority "house," dormitory and study table. One interesting sequence is a close-up of the badges of all the nationals on the University of Washington campus.

Panhellenics are encouraged to arrange for the use of the kinescope by writing Seattle's TV chairman, Angeline M. West (Mrs. J. H.), 4801 38th N.E., Seattle 5, Washington.

Alpha Theta Wins Fulbright Scholarship

THE girls of Alpha Theta chapter are justly proud of the accomplishments of a charming, fun loving brunette from Hazard, Kentucky. Her name is Carolyn Turner, and she is our ideal of what a Delta Zeta ought to be. A casual glance at her college record is enough to see why she was the recipient of a Fulbright study grant.

Carolyn spent the first two years of her college life as a music major at St. Olaf College in Northfield, Minnesota. She was very active in campus organizations there, and had singing roles in two choruses. Also, she had a leading role in "Pirates of Penzance," by Gilbert and Sullivan, given during her sophomore year.

She came to the University of Kentucky as a junior, and pledged Delta Zeta almost immediately. She has since become a member of Kappa Delta Pi, honorary education fraternity; Phi Beta, professional music fraternity; the Music Education National Convention and the Future Teachers of America. She has sung in two choruses and a church choir. She has appeared in three summer operas given by the university, and sang a leading role in "The Marriage of Figaro." She was a soloist in the university presentation of "The Messiah," and had a leading role in an opera written for the Central Kentucky Youth Symphony. Carolyn was graduated from the university with a 2.4 overall standing out of a possible 3.0.

Of the three Fulbright study grants given by the University of Vienna this year, Carolyn was one of the students to win the coveted honor. Excited and thrilled, she explained to us the details of her plans. Although the summer session lasted only approximately six weeks, Carolyn intended to make the most of her "once-in-a-lifetime" opportunity. She planned to tour in France, Holland, Germany, Austria, Italy, and Switzerland both before and after attending the music classes, which are held in Grunden, Austria. Upon her return to the United States, Carolyn will teach public school music.

Pasadena Foothills Receives Recognition

IN A LETTER sent to National Headquarters, George A. Dasney, president of the Pasadena Braille Club, has expressed the group's appreciation of the work done for them by the Pasadena Foothills Alumnae.

"For many years the chapter has been host at two of our regular monthly meetings by serving dessert lunches with appropriate decorations commemorating the festive seasons of Halloween and St. Valentine's Day.

"The members have assisted by staffing stands and soliciting contributions on Tag Day fund raising campaigns which are an annual event.

They furnish transportation to and from our newly acquired clubhouse. Some participate in various kinds of service at our weekly recreational sessions wherein the activities consist of teaching Braille, leather handicraft, basketry, Bible study, social dancing and others. Monetary donations also form a part of their generous and philanthropic efforts.

"We are extremely grateful to them and feel that they should have some recognition of this in your national publication. . . .

"Sincerely yours,
GEORGE A. DASNEY, President"

She Says She's an "Amateur"

By Flo Beatty

MECCA for all writers are slicks like Saturday Evening Post and Better Homes and Gardens. These magazines are most discriminating.

A Delta Zeta alumna, Anne Stone Schorr from Columbus, Ohio, has seen her articles in the nation's leading magazines. "But really, I'm just an amateur," she explained. "It's impossible to save all my rejection slips. We just don't have the closet space."

Anne's first achievement in writing came at Ohio State University, where she was initiated

Anne isn't the sort of a homemaker who slaves over a typewriter while the dishes stack from the sink to the ceiling. Her home, family and their friends rate first.

"Sometimes, I don't get around to writing for three or four months at a time. Then it is late at night at the snack bar in the kitchen. And about that time Rick, 17, and Jon, 13, come out to raid the refrigerator. Rick wants to tell me about his date, Jon about a basketball game, and that's more fun and more important than writing."

Baking cookies for her three men and ironing around 17 shirts each week leave scant time for composing prose.

A fourth man in Anne's life, her grandfather, was the inspiration for a literary venture. She sent an anecdote about him to Reader's Digest for its "Life in These United States." The first she ever submitted, it was accepted and appeared in December, 1946. When the second anecdote about grandfather was printed the following December, the Digest informed Anne she was the first amateur to have two printed.

Her first article in Better Homes and Gardens in July, 1953, was entitled "Mothers Are Needed at Home." It explained "we can't properly rear a child on part time."

"There Are Times When It's Difficult to Avoid a Strategically Placed Fib" by Anne Stone Schorr appeared in the October 6, 1951, issue of The Saturday Evening Post. In March 21, 1953, the Post used an editorial, "Brief Remarks by an Anxious Father to His Teen-Age Son About to Drive."

This appeared without Anne's name because the editors thought a woman's byline would spoil the impact. She thinks that was simply a case of sex prejudice. The editorial was based on George's advice to Rick.

George, an insurance man, always goes over his wife's writing for errors.

"He always finds them too," Anne laughed. "He says my spelling is atrocious. I do a lot of rewriting and keep a dictionary handy."

Anne's writing like her conversation is sparkling and witty. One of her more recent stories is "Husbands Don't Grow on Trees." "This is about the feeding and care of husbands after you've landed one. One of the slicks turned it down. They said it was too 'sophisticated.' Successful Farming bought it. They only use one article of that type in each issue and are still hatching mine."

into Theta Chapter. She entered a nation-wide prose contest of Chi Delta Phi, women's honorary literary society. To her amazement, she won first prize. "I never could sell that story," she said, "but they gave me a beautiful plaque. The plaque is still in our living room. It hides an unsightly electric plug."

After college, Anne married George. They met in an English class. She also became a receptionist for a Columbus doctor.

A short story she wrote about the happenings in a doctor's office brought her first prize in a contest of The Columbus Citizen. To her chagrin, the newspaper sent a photographer to her home. Now, most women love to have their pictures taken. Since this was two days before her oldest son was born, Anne wasn't eager. The photographer, she recalled, was downright embarrassed.

Europe on a Budget — FRANCE AND SPAIN

By Charlotte Hutchison, A X

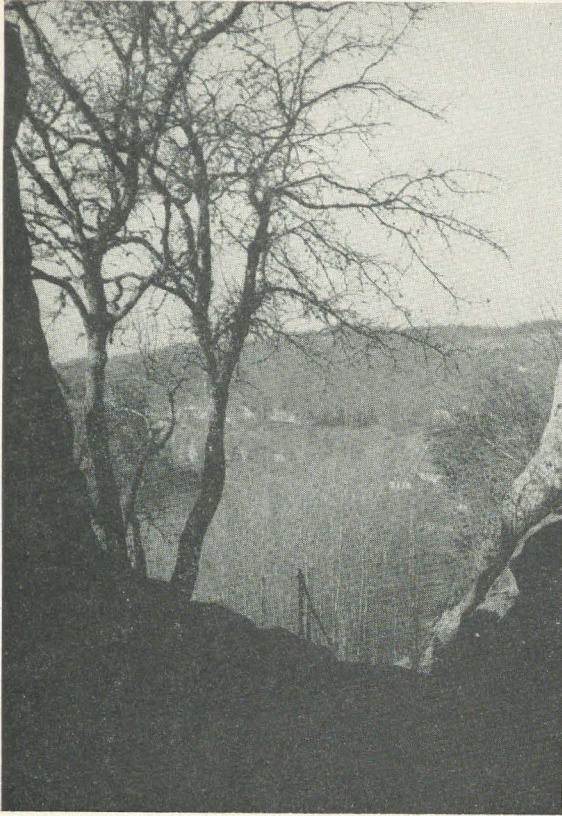

IF I should try to measure the varying national characteristics of the peoples of Europe, the French and Spanish would score at opposite ends of the scale. I found it hard to believe that only a range of mountains separated them. Never could you find a people more warm-hearted, friendly, and eager to be of assistance than the Spanish. They are flattered and thrilled to find a stranger speaking even a few faltering words of their language and, ignoring mistakes, they supply words you are seeking and compliment you on your facility.

And the French? They enjoy pretending they do not understand, although when they finally pronounce the word you have been repeating, it sounds exactly the way you have just said it. They have little patience with the tourist who does not understand a rapid fire of directions or description, or who gropes for words to express his needs, and they sigh with relief when he turns to go. No French person ever commended my French, and it was equal to my Spanish and Italian, which drew many compliments, as did my terrible German, spoken with no knowledge of grammar and no vocabulary either.

I realized I was going to love Spain even before I got off the train at my first destination, and in spite of the fact that I was discovering the hard way the incredible slowness of Spanish trains. Having left Irun, at the border, at 7:45 A.M., I was astounded to discover that I would arrive in Burgos, at a distance of 148 miles, at 6:00 P.M., the train having averaged 15 miles an hour! The same train went on to Madrid, a total of 300 miles, arriving at 7:00 the next morning, lowering the average to 13 miles an hour!

But if Spanish trains are time-consuming, they make up for it in entertainment value. It took some courage, but I travelled third class with the "peasants," and what fun they always had!

VIEW FROM A CAVE-MAN'S DOORWAY. The grotto of Font-de-Gaume at Les Eyzies contains some of the most famous prehistoric paintings. The cave is high on a cliff-face and from the entrance one sees this view over the valley.

So different from the French, who rarely converse on trains except with friends. In Spain they have all become friends by the time they arrive—I am sure they exchange life histories along with those luncheon tidbits.

In Madrid I had room and meals at a pensione where I practiced my Spanish. Seville is considered by many to be the most typical Spanish city, but I choose Cordoba instead, with its dusty streets, whitewashed houses, and cool, greenery-filled patios. Malaga was delightful as it lay caught between the sunny blue Mediterranean and scenic mountains. Granada is famed for its fabulous Alhambra and its gypsies, whom I saw dance.

To me Madrid is Europe's most beautiful city, with its never-ending succession of plazas, and fountains glittering in the bright sun; but Spain's real treasure is the town of Toledo, home of El Greco and site of a dazzling cathedral. Situated on a hilltop surrounded on three sides by a river, and entered over an ancient bridge, Toledo is a page from medieval history with its picturesque vistas, stone buildings, and steep, narrow and winding cobbled streets. I had only two twilight hours to see Barcelona's wonderful group of Gothic buildings surrounding the cathedral. Outstanding memories of Spain include recollections of the folk songs sung by people on the street or at their work, as well as Madrid's marvellous Prado Museum, the extravagantly decorated cathedrals of Burgos, Toledo, and Seville, and the scenery of the entire country, often spectacular and always reminiscent of California when it did not remind me of Arizona.

My favorite memories of France are of thrilling cathedrals, rich museums, ancient and picturesque cities, and the best moderately-priced food in Europe. Other countries have equal food, but only at higher prices (excepting England where, cheap or expensive, food is just average. Whenever I could I ate in Lyon's Cafeterias—a whole dinner for 40 cents)!

I am sure Paris deserves the prize for number of museums in any one city—museums covering every conceivable subject. I did not find Paris as enchanting as the books would have it be; the freezing, gloomy January weather was against me. But I believe the greatest lure of Paris is to the night-club enthusiast, for I am sure it could take a prize in this respect also. The wonderful vistas of Paris were hidden in mist and I began to see them only a few days before ending my month's stay. Paris is noted for unity of architectural style; the Louvre, formerly a palace, and other public and government buildings are wonderfully conceived. The traffic is just as frenzied as you have heard—it can take 10 minutes on foot to cross the large squares like Place de la Concorde or Place d'Etoile.

Perhaps the outstanding sight of Paris is the Sainte-Chapelle, a jewel of stained glass walls, located on the Isle de la Cité near Notre-Dame, in which the miraculously intricate exterior contrasts with a rather cold and plain interior. Among my favorite smaller Parisian churches are St. Pierre, St. Julien le Pauvre, and St. Eustache.

Of course I visited the Paris Opera, where I was thrilled by the ballet, "Giselle," and taken back to the Paris of 1735 at a performance of Rameau's "Les Indes Galantes," the current Parisian hit. This can be termed "ballet-opera" and boasts fantastic and colorful sets and costumes, and staging which fully utilizes the famous trap-doors of the Opera stage.

Planning an itinerary through a country of France's shape was difficult. Starting out toward Rheims to the northeast of Paris, I then turned northwest toward Amiens, Rouen, Caen, and Bayeux, all famous for cathedrals, and Mt. St. Michel, where I met a fellow American, a Fulbright student who remembered having seen me in Chartres Cathedral a week before. I then went on into Brittany to Vannes, and thence eastward to Tours in the Chateau country, Poitiers and St. Savin with their Romanesque frescoed churches, Bourges Cathedral lighted by breathtaking thirteenth century stained glass, and the fine city of Dijon, rich in medieval buildings. Southward then, past Cluny's unbelievable tenth and eleventh century houses and ruined Abbey Church, the world's largest until St. Peter's was erected, and into the scenic Massif Central to Les Eyries, where I was fascinated by prehistoric cave paintings and gravures, and charmed by the pastoral green valley. Southward for my three-week Spanish sojourn, and then back to France for a visit to Albi's pink cathedral and eleventh century bridge, the oldest in France, and Carcassonne, famed as Europe's best preserved medieval fortified city. Later, I re-entered France from Germany to see picturesque Colmar and Strasbourg Cathedral.

After a look at the Roman relics of Nîmes I proved in Avignon how small the world really is by meeting two girls from California, one of whom had graduated from my high school one term before me. They were driving a Volkswagen and invited me along, as we were headed in the same direction. We soon discovered, to our amazement and amusement, that they had seen the gypsies dance in Granada just one night before I had! Following the lovely shores of the Riviera, we drove to Nice for a stay of several days, paying a visit to the pottery village of Vallauris, where Picasso lives and works, before continuing into Italy.

ITALY AND SWITZERLAND

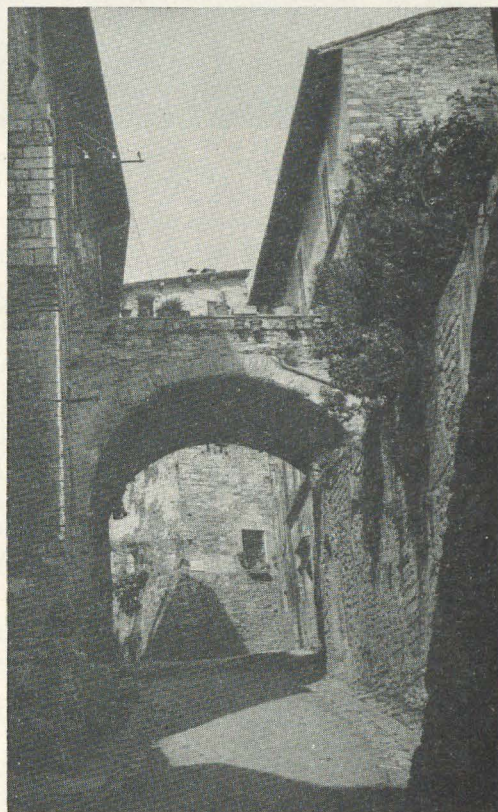

Our first taste of Italy could not have been more typical if it had been pre-arranged—the good-looking young border soldier begged to take all three of us dancing that evening! We only dissuaded him with the fact that by evening we were to be some miles away in San Remo, this explained in my unpracticed Italian. As the two girls I was with spoke only English, I had been elected spokesman.

I felt a surprising difference between the French and Italian sections of the Riviera. The latter is more in keeping with our mental concept of pastel cottages and walls overgrown with bright flowers. My most lasting impression of the French Riviera is of palatial hotels overlooking the beaches of Cannes and Nice.

Our second night found us in Genoa, the town of Columbus. The next day we all drove eastward along the coast to the charming hamlet of Portofino, memorable for its tiny harbor and water of an emerald green impossible to imagine. After a hillside picnic the girls pointed their Volkswagen toward Pisa and I returned to Genoa and the train to Milan.

Of all the countries I visited, Italy contains the greatest wealth of art and architecture, and in the best condition. This is largely because the Reformation gained no foothold there, so religious works, constituting practically the entire artistic output until the Renaissance, did not suffer damage as in other countries. I also felt here that the ordinary people show a greater love and veneration for their works of art than is noticeable elsewhere.

Of course Rome was my paradise. Here are historic spots at every turn—Roman ruins, churches dating from the third century on, medieval palazzi, and the famous Roman fountains. Among my favorite sights were the Sistine Chapel, the Roman Forum and Palatine Hill, and various ancient churches still containing their mosaics and gorgeous marble decorations created before the tenth century. The church of SS. Giovanni e Paolo, built in 398 but since “modernized” several times, is particularly fascinating because beneath it is a complete Roman house, held by tradition as the residence of the Apostles John and Paul.

ASSISI. One of the many delightful corners of the hill town of St. Francis. Throughout Europe in summer, towns boast a wealth of window boxes and potted plants, ivy geranium being the most common.

In Rome it was arranged that I could dine in an Italian home each evening. This was ideal for me, for every time the traveller can enter a home, a truer picture of the country and people is gained, and this, I believe, should be the prime reason for travelling.

My visit to Pompeii was thrilling in spite of the pouring rain. From there I went to Assisi, a pearl among medieval towns, perched on its hilltop and remarkable in its cleanliness, and sparkle of pink stone. Florence is remarkable for its many famous Renaissance palazzi, and its wealth of museums where may be found nearly all the most famous Italian art works. Siena is known for its huge piazza and its black and white striped cathedral which would have been, if completed, larger than St. Peter’s. Verona is a treasure house of the Middle Ages, where can be seen the houses of Romeo and Juliet, and also Juliet’s tomb.

Ravenna is the mecca for lovers of mosaics, for here are six ancient structures with large expanses of breathtaking pictures in stones from the fifth and sixth centuries. My last stop in Italy was Venice, more enchanting than pictures can indicate. I think it is set apart from all other cities not so much by its canals as by its unique style of architecture, reminiscent at times of Moorish Spain, but yet proclaiming its own individual blend of Italian Gothic with the mood of the East.

I was lucky in hearing the sensational soprano, Maria Callas, in two operas, “Il Trovatore” in Milan and “Norma” in Rome. I also heard the Academy of St. Cecilia Chorus and Orchestra in three concerts, and a recital by Alfred Cortot.

Through the Dolomites, the scenic Italian Alps, and on to Switzerland and Zurich, said to be the most American of Swiss cities, and certainly one of the most modern and stimulating of Europe.

Swiss cities seem united by a location on a lake or river. My choice among them is topped by Zurich, Lucerne, and Berne; Lucerne for its delightful location and picturesque old covered bridge, and Berne for its fine medieval arcades and famous fountains crowned with quaint allegorical figures. Zermatt, at the end of an almost inaccessible valley, manages somehow to retain a mountain-village atmosphere in spite of being a tourist center and the starting point for mountain-climbing expeditions. I spent a delightful day within view of the Matterhorn, wandering on a mountain trail overlooking a glacier, until my path disappeared under the shrinking May snow. But my greatest Swiss thrill came at Jungfrau-Joch where, at a height of 11,333 feet, I stood on an observation platform below the majestic peak of the Jungfrau, wrapped in eternal snows. At this moment I finally understood what draws people to climb high mountains. The visit to Jungfrau-Joch is accomplished by a three hour train trip from Interlaken and costs $16.00 third class, round trip, or half price with a Swiss Railways Holiday Ticket. In season the road is open about halfway.

I did not visit St. Moritz or Basel, and spent only one day in Geneva, which seemed more French than Swiss; this held true throughout the French-speaking section of the country.

Regarding language, all educated Swiss speak English as well as their native French, German, and Italian. The most cultured and travelled older citizens have a perfect accent in each. The small Italian section lies in the far south. A fourth national language, Romansch, is spoken in the rural districts.

Louise Moreman, Heads Campus Panhellenic

LOUISE MOREMAN, a member of Gamma Delta chapter at Pennsylvania State University, began her term of office as president of the University's Panhellenic Association at an installation banquet in May; she was previously vice president of the association.

Louise, a liberal arts student with a major in music, is from Mount Pleasant, Pennsylvania. She plans to become a music supervisor in the elementary schools.

Besides holding her office of president, Louise is active in the sorority as song chairman and a member of the Judiciary. On campus, she is a member of the Women's Chorus, All-University Cabinet, Committee on Student Affairs, Interfraternity Council—Panhellenic Dance Committee, Community Concert Committee, Lutheran Student Association, Music Educators of America, and the Red Cross, which assists the local hospitals. She is also a typist for the College of Agriculture's newspaper, a member of the sorority's intramural program, a contributor to the University's rushing booklet, an Orientation Week counselor to transfer students, and a counselor to the students at the University through the fireside chats sponsored by Panhellenic, Leonides, independent women's organization, and the Pennsylvania State Christian Association. She is now chairman of the committee to take coffee and sandwiches to the fraternities guarding the Nittany Lion shrine from our opponent's paintbrushes during football season.

LOUISE MOREMAN, $\Gamma \Delta$, Pennsylvania State University's Panhellenic president.

Dallas Panhellenic Presents TV Program

By Margrette Grubbs Nance, A T

SEATTLE'S City Panhellenic television program write-up in the Delta Gamma Anchora so impressed Mrs. Norwood Blankenship, the 1953-1954 president of the Woman's Panhellenic Association of Dallas and a Delta Gamma, that at the March meeting of the association she referred to parts of the article which was written by Angeline M. West, a Delta Zeta, and asked if our association might be interested in such an undertaking. Extreme interest was expressed, a vote was taken and the president appointed Mrs. Timothy Carroll, Alpha Delta Pi, and me as co-chairmen.

A fifteen minute program period was promised as a public service donation by The Dallas Times Herald's KRLD-TV station. Then, with prompt cooperation from Seattle's Mrs. West, the tape recording of their program was received. We were able to listen to their method of presentation and then to formulate plans suitable for our Southwestern area. By working almost daily from June through July, the necessary conferences were held. Decisions were made concerning whether or not to mention actual average costs of sorority membership, what terms used during rush were most often misunderstood by the rushees and their parents and how best to aid the rushee in her understanding of what clothes should be worn to the various types of parties.

The next decision was how best to present the most information in the most favorable setting when the allotted television time was actually thirteen minutes. It was then that two parties, informal and formal, seemed the logical answer, with the conversation of the actives and rushees revealing the information we felt most needed to be stressed. At the suggestion of Dr. Harold Weiss, chairman of the Department of Speech of Southern Methodist University, the question and answer method of tying the two parts together was used. Mrs. Isham P. Nelson, Jr., the 1954-1955 president of the association and a Gamma Phi Beta, gave the introduction. Logically, the person to do the questioning would be a mother who had no sorority connections and who needed information about rush and the answerer would be an alumna of a sorority. Mrs. Carrol played the part of the mother while I assumed the role of an alumna.

In addition to these decisions there were numerous others which seemed constantly to require conferences either together or with various members of Panhellenic including the president and the past president as well as with the Dean of Women of Southern Methodist University, Lida Spragins, who gave us valuable assistance particularly with the explanation of the terms "silence," "The Quota System" and "Preferential Signing." The rush rules of the other schools of the Southwest had to be considered so that none was violated and yet have the presentation as nearly as possible like all. The meaning of "Preferential Signing" had to be as true for Southwestern University as for the University of Texas.

Mrs. Henry A. Davis, Alpha Gamma Delta and the publicity chairman, directed publicity for the program. The Dallas Times Herald published her article in the Sunday section entitled "Of Interest to Women" and followed with a picture of the three Panhellenic participants in the afternoon paper which preceded the program.

When, at last, the final conference was held and the script approved both by the incoming and outgoing presidents, the mimeographing was done. After several readings of the script, parts were assigned. The actual work of concentrating on exact placement of the participants, for conversational speaking and for naturalness, followed at the next two rehearsals. Advice about what colors to wear, make-up, and the types of jewelry best for television were discussed at one rehearsal by Carolyn Hopkins, a Delta Zeta alumna who had just spent a year working with television "live" telecasts and television films.

August 18, at 12:30 p.m., all members of the program had to be present for the final rehearsal under the experienced eye of the studio director, Mr. Eddie Halleck, and his assistants. There was intense concentration and an atmosphere of frenzied endeavor while the cameramen focused their lenses and the directors called orders.

And then, at 1:30 p.m., the program was on! In just those short 13 minutes, a program which had taken hours of preparation was given; television viewers watched and were unaware of the endless details that had to be thought of, discussed and kept or cast aside, of the many conferences which had to be held, of the many minds that had worked to bring 13 minutes of TV to whomever had bothered to turn on his set. The comments which have been received have been most encouraging and have inspired our Dallas association to consider televising again next year just as Seattle's association is continuing to do.

The low price of $1.50 per record includes mailing and handling. Order your records today, direct from National Headquarters, 1325 Circle Tower, Indianapolis 4, Indiana.

ALUMINATIONS BY GRADABOUTS

Muriel Fletcher, B A, was honored last spring by the Providence, Rhode Island, branch of the National Secretaries' Association. As the result of a grueling two-day, sixteen-hour examination she was awarded the highly prized rating of Certified Professional Secretary. Dozens of other secretaries who took the exam failed. Muriel is assistant professor at the College of Business at the University of Rhode Island. Since graduation from college she has divided her time between teaching secretarial and business sciences and practicing them.

The award of CPS, according to the National Secretaries Association, is a means of separating the executive secretary from the others and establishing an elite world of Girl Fridays with the highest of professional standards.

Diane's European Summer

DIANE KLECKA, a Beta Mu at Florida Southern College in Lakeland, Florida, excitedly returned to school this year after spending the summer months in Europe, highlighted by her appearance in the Paris on Ice ice skating show, directed by Raymonde du Bief.

Diane left New York, June 17, aboard the Liberte, destination France. In France she attended Aubegny, a liberal arts school for six weeks where she studied French, art, history.

After attending the summer school, Diane visited throughout France, Switzerland, and Italy, seeing many points of interest including the Chateaux de Loire, the Riviera at Nice and the beautiful Alps. She was also a volunteer worker in the U.S.O. in Paris and Nice in addition to the skating performances.

Diane is a nineteen-year-old sophomore at Southern from Oak Park, Illinois. She is majoring in French. Her activities are choir, Circus, International Club, Vagabonds. Diane has this to say about her trip: "Seeing Europe has really given me a different outlook on life and has made me realize the gross importance of language as the prime means of communication; for when you have mastered another language, it opens a new door to many interesting experiences, fascinating friendships and fuller understanding of other peoples' way of life."—ALICE GRAY, B M

PROVINCE I

Alpha Kappa—Syracuse University

A "DZ All Over the World" theme was used for our formal rushing. It featured a Casbah costume party directed by Aderf Pettengill.

Marilyn Lind was our Grecian girl, Rosemary Ferris represented Hawaii, and Eleanor Howie portrayed France. In charge were Susan Haggerty and Mary Lou Talmadge, co-rushing chairmen. Jane Sheckells handled the formal party and Helen Hill, the informal party.

New initiates since October 1, are: Lois Beger, Tohamus; Joyce Davis, Trenton, N.J., and Lois Wightman, Spring Lake Heights, N.J.

Alpha Kappas are proud of Dr. Dorothy Naumann, named to the 1954 Delta Zeta Honor Court.

Nancy Boerner, chapter president, finds time to attend leaders' conferences, act as chairman of Senior Guides, and guide of Nottingham cottage.

Yohma Gray, house president of her freshman cottage, is again house president of Corneille, her new living center. She had an A average the past semester.

Jane Sheckells, co-chairman of Protestant Council, spent the summer at a religious camp studying choral leading.

ROSEMARY FERRIS, editor
NANCY BOERNER, president

Alpha Upsilon—University of Maine

New initiates as of last May are: Freeda Clement, Jacqueline Wardwell, Francis Whalen, Ellie Small, Betty Durling, Maude Kenney, Jean Porter, Elva Brackett, Jane Cushman, and Joyce Lyon.

New officers are: Laura Elizabeth Tucker, president; Martha Burrow, first vice president; Faith Wixson, second vice president; Shirley Putnam, recording secretary; Byrl Haskell, treasurer; Katherine Zoidas, corresponding secretary, and Diana Eslin historian.

Girls who hold offices on campus are: Martha Burrow, vice president of Maine Forestry Club, Faith Wixson, secretary, Orchestra, treasurer and band secretary, and Elva Brackett, Chairman of Brotherhood Week, and an Eagle.

We are having a rummage sale in Bangor to earn money for philanthropic activities.

At our "animal fair" in November, each girl makes three animals which are sold at a coffee.

Picture Story

DIANE KLECKA AND BARBARA MOCK, Beta Mu, are shown chatting with some of the star performers of the Philadelphia Music Festival held in that city on June 12, 1954.

Both girls are members of the Florida Southern College Concert Choir which was the only college choir to have a part in the Festival. Star performers in the program were Eddie Fisher, Julius La Rosa, Eartha Kitt, Dorothy Kirsten, Richard Tucker, Guy Black, the U. S. Air Force Band, the Singing Sergeants, with Ed Sullivan as Master-of-Ceremonies.

Diane is a sophomore at FSC and president of the pledge class.

Barbara is a junior, treasurer of the chapter, secretary-treasurer of the Junior Class, secretary of the Home Economics Club, a member of the Southern staff, and Junior-Editor of the Interlachen, in addition to being in the Choir.

7. Sorority open house before formal rush was November

ELIZABETH J. WHITE, editor
LAURA E. TUCKER, president

Beta Alpha—University of Rhode Island

Beta Alpha is enthusiastically concentrating on rushing. A field day for sorority members and rushees was sponsored by Panhellenic. Round Robin was used twice and a formal party followed. As we look forward to a new pledge class, Beta Alpha announces the initiation of: Jean Chappell, Carol Carpenter, Joyce Huling, and Joyce Wolf.

Beta Alpha started the school year with the Bermuda Bounce on the tennis courts. The Argyle Orgy attracted many and has become a must as one of our functions.

Celebration of Founders Day was at the chapter house. Scholarship awards were presented from the Providence Alumnae, South County Alumnae, and Beta Alpha to Carolyn Angell, Janine St. Germain, Jean Chappell, and Christine Townsend.

Two members appointed to Judicial Board, Woman's Student Government Association, are Marcy Sayles and Barbara Toegemann.

JULIA HOVNANIAN, editor
JUDITH W. BLISS, president

Gamma Beta—University of Connecticut

Chapter officers elected are: Patricia Buckley, president; Inez Hergert, first vice president; Leatrice Frankland, second vice president; Dorald Almquist, recording secretary; Margaret Confrey, corresponding secretary; Mary Ann Healey, treasurer, and Joanne Campbell, historian.

We pledged: Bernice Fanning, Irene Healey, Edith Doolittle, and Lorraine Dowd.

New initiates are: Doris Gagliadone, Jeanne Halbin, Martha Hanzl, Joyce Mount, Barbara Nordby, Peggy Ann Quicker, Carol Wennrich, Lillian White, and Jean Williams.

Margaret Confrey and Dorald Almquist were tapped for Mortar Board. Dorald was elected president and Margaret, secretary, of the group. Dorald is also in Gamma Chi Upsilon. Another top campus position was achieved by Leatrice Frankland appointed to the Student Union Board of Governors as executive secretary. In May, Gamma Beta won second place in the Greek Sing with our selection of "Dream Girl." Spring weekend was highlighted by a formal at the Mohican Hotel in New London. Jack Albertson, Beta Epsilon Rho, reigned as Delta Zeta man. Our picnic was at Ocean Beach. Gamma Beta was cited for scholarship improvement at the Storrs Panhellenic Association tea.

Dorald Almquist attended the University of Oslo summer school on a scholarship awarded by that University. She met several Delta Zetas there.

Joanne Campbell spent a month of the summer in St. Louis and Michigan on the Danforth Fellowship, an award for outstanding home economic Seniors. She is president of the College Home Economics Club, vice president of Phi Upsilon Omicron, and president of the Connecticut Collegiate Home Economics Association.

Patricia Buckley was appointed treasurer of Panhellenic Council. Ruth McClellan was chosen secretary of the Student Union House Council.

Phi Sigma Kappa held a coffee in our honor at their chapter house. We have provided Rushing entertainment at Phi Sigma Kappa, Theta Sigma Chi, Iota Nu Delta, Theta Chi, and Sigma Chi Alpha fraternities.

JOANNE CAMPBELL, historian
PATRICIA BUCKLEY, president

THETA CHI fraternity at Oklahoma A & M chose Kathleen Robinson, Alpha Epsilon, as its sweetheart.

BETSEY KOON was chosen Dream Girl at Gamma Kappa's Rose Ball of 1954.

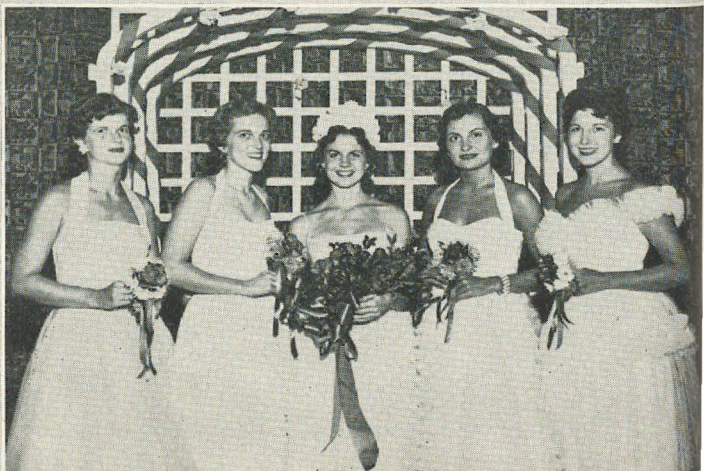

EUREKA COLLEGE's homecoming queen was Pat Marshall of Pi chapter.

EARLENE PETTY, Gamma Nu senior home economics major, from Pana, Illinois, reigned over Eastern Illinois State College's homecoming.

BARBARA FORTNER, E, was a member of the Summer Prom Queen's court at Indiana University. Barbara is at the extreme right of the group.

PROVINCE II

Alpha Zeta—Adelphi College

Last June initiates went on a boat up the Hudson River to Bear Mountain to honor graduating members.

Initiation past July was at the home of Susan Healey, an alumna, of Savville, for Victoria Uss, Hicksville, and Eleanor Schafft, Valley Stream.

Faith Avidon, Panhellenic delegate, received Freshman Honors and is on the Dean's List. Eleanore Eckert, recording secretary, was elected to the French honorary society, Le Cercle Francaise. Eleanor Schafft was elected to the German honorary, Delta Phi Alpha.

Our president Olga Schlottmann was on the Dean's list last year and is now. She was elected to Delta Tau Alpha, senior honorary society.

She is a past president of Delta Omicron, national professional music fraternity, and a member of Le Cercle Francaise.

Norma Dia was made chairman of a committee sponsoring religious emphasis movement.

Marion Oltmann, first vice president, returned from a trip to Italy.

Our rush party was November 1 at the Beekman Tower Hotel, New York City.

LILLIAN BECK, editor

OLGA SCHLOTTMANN, president

Beta Omega—New York University

Summer vacation for some of our sisters meant trips across the Atlantic. Pat Coleman, Betty Balish and Grace DeFrank were in Europe and Betty went on to Syria and Egypt. Joan Lamb returned from Puerto Rico. She plans to return to the University of Puerto Rico next summer to train as a corrective speech teacher. Jean Sostilio worked with handicapped children at Connecticut State Hospital.

We who remained in New York kept busy preparing for rushing. Mrs. Marguerite Wherry Havens, College Chapter Administrator, and Mrs. Florence Wright Barker, Province II Director, helped us with rushing.

With Gamma Eta Chapter at Hunter College, we held a Charity Ball, December 10, to benefit Cerebral Palsy. The dance was at the Waldorf-Astoria.

MARION SCHULTZ, editor

Gamma Eta—Hunter College

For the first time in many years, we took part in informal rushing. Last April, we held a "coffee clotch" at Emilienne Hardouin's house in Greenwich Village. Dinner and a theater party followed.

All 13 of our girls attended New York ΔZ State Day at the Beekman Towers and won the attendance award. During the summer, we met weekly. Graduates were honored with a party at Micheline Chiarello's house on Long Island.

Mrs. Freygang entertained us with a barbecue supper, attended by New Jersey alumnae leaders.

Concetta DeNave served on the Freshman Advisory Committee for Hunter which has been co-educational for a little more than a year. Emilienne, our president, a member of Student Christian Association, attended a weekend conference in Pawling.

Patricia Butler, a member of Sigma Tau Delta, and Ann Patti are still on Dean's list. Concetta is coordinator of Follies, a musical comedy.

PATRICIA BUTLER, editor

EMILIENNE HARDOUIN, president

PROVINCE III

Omicron—University of Pittsburgh

We held fall rushing teas for advanced freshmen October 24. Also on our schedule was an after game spaghetti dinner party. A Halloween costume party was planned too. Greek Week was November 14-19. All sororities and fraternities take a part in dinners, dances, and inter-fraternity and sorority competitive sing.

We welcome Jane Pickering back from her summer abroad. She studied in Norway.

Pat Ritz was chosen Senior Queen before graduating and is now on the staff of the Dean of Women at the University.

Participating in WSGA are Rosie Laurito, Shirley Ritz, Lois Grosz, Norma Jurso, Margie Kroeger, Frannie Hedges, Shirley English, and Jane Morrell.

BEVERLY NAMESKA, editor

SHIRLEY ENGLISH, president

Alpha Delta—George Washington University

Spring semester closed with our average of 3.012 placing second in all-University scholarship.

Summer events included the initiation of Mary Lou Benson, Evelyn Blume, Kathy Powell, and Pat Simmons, the redecoration of our apartment, and the selection of Pat Simmons to represent the University in the Made-moiselle Fashion Show.

With the assistance of Miss Irene Boughton and Mrs.

ANNE BROWN and PAT O'NEAL are two of Alpha Delta's fall pledges.

Jean Sullivan, Alpha Delta finished rush season with the pledging of Anne Brown, Lucille O'Neal and Enid Wall.

The chapter is proud of its 100 per cent membership in Colonial Boosters and of winning second place in two Booster car cavalades so far. We are represented in Travelling Troubadors, Sailing Club, Dance Production Group, Debate Team, Glee Club, Spanish Club, and Tassels.

Individual honors include the selection of Gini Page as art director of the Dance Production Group, the Homecoming Art Committee, and the Career Conference. Irene Schuler and Pat Simmons have been elected to Delphi, honorary for outstanding sorority women. Joyce Gray is treasurer of Panhellenic and the Inter-Sorority Athletic ALPHA GAMMA GIRLS go back to the Roaring Twenties for a rush party theme.

Beta Sigma—Colorado A & M College

Heading the list of Fall activities was Formal Rush Week. Rush Chairman Nina Squires mapped out the theme of DZ-T.V. which included informal parties that took us to Denmark, Ireland, Portugal, and "DZ Island." A special touch to the last party were 300 orchids sent from Hawaii by the parents of Eldean Chung. We pledged 13 girls.

New initiates are JoAnne Dobesh, Frankie Malles, and Shirlee Randecker.

Homecoming at Colorado A and M was Oct. 16. For the college theme of "Aggie Serenade," we have chosen the theme of "Three Coins in the Fountain."

October 23 was our Fall pledge dance.

The three fraternities of the original Miami Triad; Sigma Chi, Phi Delta Theta, and Beta Theta Phi, joined our Founders' Day celebration. Other events keeping us busy are social functions and dinners with fraternities, philanthropic activities, and plans for Skit Night.

A tea honoring our new housemother, Mrs. Florence Thompson, Englewood, Colo., was given Oct. 10.

We welcome Diane Ayres, a transfer student from Nu Chapter at Knox College.

Kappa—University of Washington

In the pledge class are: Janice Bell, Madelyn Blanton, Dianne Cohen, Shelby Collard, Kay Coulthard, Barbara Gaines, Virginia Neilson, Sharon Proctor, Carolyn Rapp, Thea Reber, Colleen Robbins, Carol Robinson, Betty Ruth, Judy Sahlberg, Sue Ann Sherfy, Mary Taylor, and Judy Green.

We welcome Mona Chonzen, Washington State; Roselyn Jensen, Southern Methodist University, and Sue Starlund, University of Oregon.

Spring quarter was highlighted by our Spring formal at the Seattle Tennis Club. "Pink Fantasi" was the theme.

Last Spring our traditional senior breakfast honored: Hazel Campbell, Shirley Campbell, Jean Darnell, Barbara Ferguson, Shirley Giddings, Elizabeth Jallie, Roberta Jensen, Patricia Knowles, Mary LaRue, Myrna Miller, Donna Prevost, Marjorie Santo, and Elizabeth Wickman.

Our pledge dance was November 12 at the Olympic Bowl.

Donna Prevost was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. Collegiate and alumnae members gathered for State Day Luncheon July 25, at the Women's University Club.

We won second place in the Sophomore Carnival, in the doubles division with Theta Xi.

BETTY CHASE, editor
JACKIE RICHTER, president

Phi—Washington State College

Phi is thrilled with the summer "face lifting" of its chapter house. Painted white, it looks so much bigger and brighter. We painted the second floor study rooms before Fall rush.

Pledges are: Linda Arnstad, Seattle; Alberta Andrews, Ocean Park; Pat Angell, Kent; Amelia Cammarano, Seattle; Carol Behm, Spokane; Janet Haines, Santa Barbara, Calif.; Marilyn Fraser, Spokane; Nancy Weightman, Tacoma; Sonia Sager, Everett; Jane Popkema, Carnation; JoAnn Blythe, Juneau, Alaska; Karen Soderquist, Seattle; Sharon Specht, Paulsbo, and Ginny Hile, Mercer Island.

Alumnae honored pledges with a banquet at the Wilson Compton Union.

The pledges, as a philanthropic project, are giving time to the aged at the local hospital.

As a good will gesture the record Dream Girl of Delta Zeta and Delta Zeta Medley was given each of the 24 campus fraternities, delivered by two pledges. These records were purchased at National Convention by Spokane Alumnae.

Some of our campus "wheels" are Mari Ann Jones, president of Orchesis, women's dance honorary; Lois Freese, Panhellenic rush chairman and Phi Chi Theta National Counselor; Betty Northstrom, ROTC sponsor and chairman of the YWCA Hospital Committee; Roseanne Lentz, Phi Chi Theta historian, and Marilyn Mulrone, campus intramurals chairman, secretary-treasurer of Pi Kappa Delta, and act director of Fish Fans Annual Water Pageant.

Our officers are Jackie Gillette, president; Lois Freese, vice president; Maureen Williams, second vice-president; Mary Ann Jones, corresponding secretary; Jerry Lyons, recording secretary; and Roseanne Lentz, treasurer.

Jocelyn Schneider, has returned after studying music in Vienna the past year. She plays the Bryan Hall Tower chimes.

Janet Haines, a pledge from Santa Barbara, is back after two years in Greece, Bette Northstrom spent a year in Chile, Barbara Cheney calls Puerto Rico her home, and JoAnne Blythe hails from Alaska.

For Homecoming the houses in our square cooperated in building their floats—the fraternities doing the lumber work, the DZs adding the artistic touches.

Phi Chapter is on its way scholastically. It pulled itself up five places last semester.

Phi chapter is in its second year back on campus after reactivation.

JACKIE GILLETTE, president

Chi—Oregon State College

Chi pledged: Barbara Conners, Pat Dubbé, Charlotte Macy, Marjorie Merner, Donna Henry, Hazel Pease, and Marguerite Moore. In honor of this pledge class, sophomores are presenting "Silhouette," the annual fall term dance.

All our pledges and initiates went to the coast for an all-day outing and boat cruise.

To raise money for the all-campus United Fund Drive, several living groups auctioned off their services to the highest bidders. Chi chapter went above its quota to 212 per cent to "buy" the services of the Sigma Nu. They will provide entertainment for the girls, escort them to classes, serenade, and serve meals.

Chi chapter had exchange desserts with Davenport House and Delta Sigma Phi Fraternity.

Kayrene Butler is one of 13 Mortarboards on campus. Our new housemother, Mrs. Russell, was a housemother on the Illinois campus at the Delta Chi fraternity last year.

ROBIN VANDER GRIEND, president

Omega—University of Oregon

There are 21 new pledges: Sally Byron, Nancy Tanner, Nancy Hilton, Janice Luelling, Anastasia Martin, Lelda Dickey, June Fulco, Patricia Van Alstine, Gayle Jensen, Diane Gassman, Anita Allen, Bonnie Buttler, Georgia Taggart, Betty Leach, Sally Cohn, Neldra Ackerman, Ruth Orwick, Rebecca Towler, Lorie Johnson, and Darlene Lorette.

Mrs. Augusta Piatt Kelleway was our guest during rush week. Our local alumnae were a great help also. We gave a dinner in their honor October 14 in the chapter house.

We are making a special effort this year to help initiates and pledges with activities. Each week we present an engraved loving cup to the outstanding pledge as an added incentive.

Several initiates transferred to University of Oregon Medical School to complete their training, Alona Daly, Norma Parrish, and Linda Muhr are in nurse's training, and Lois Reid is training to be a medical technician.

Recently initiated were: Susan Carothers, Margaret McNeil, Joan Boileau, and Claire Fry.

Officers of Omega are: Ernestine Fisk, president; Charlotte Martin, pledge trainer; Patricia Collins, rush chairman; Dorothy Allen, corresponding secretary; Shirley Fintell, recording secretary; Susan Carothers, treasurer and Nancy Hill, historian.

MARIANNE SWANSON, president

Alpha Chi—University of California at Los Angeles

Alpha Chi gave its annual elections open house with Sigma Pi fraternity. Barbara Peck, Chapter president, was elected secretary of the Junior Class and Gerry Croymans became treasurer of the Senior Class.

Twenty-eight new pledges gave evidence of a successful rush week.

Campus attention was centered on Homecoming the week of October 11 and the Chapter took an active part. Gerry Croymans served as executive secretary; Marilyn Mason was art director; Hildegard Hiller worked as executive secretary of the Homecoming Show; and Beth Wood was a finalist in the contest for Homecoming Queen.

On October 24, new pledges gave a party for the Chapter. Following a hayride, everyone ate and danced around an open fire.

Founders' Day dinner was at Ciro's.

Initiation was November 8 and was climaxed by a dance, November 13, in honor of new initiates: Marlene Bachman, Mary Jo Benoit, Glenda Glass, Carolyn Hackamack, Marilyn Jorgenson, Carolyn Leach, Mary Jane Pond, Marilouise Smith, Carol Taylor, and Nancy Walter.

Alpha Chi's Winter Formal was December 10 in the Beverly Hills Hotel.

Gamma Lambda—San Jose State College

Gamma Lambda returned this Fall with 39 DZs to start the year. Initiation for our Spring Pledges, Dolores Koff, Claudette Allen, Jacqueline Rogers, and Ann Tibbets, was October 29.

We pledged Jean Braas, Sandra Eldridge, Donna Evans, Diane Furlong, Patricia Hale, Jean Hansen, Janice Hawksley, Barbara Hodge, Sandra Hunter, Carole Luby, Shirley Smith, and Miriam Spaulding.

Our living room had been completely refurbished. We were excited to learn the third parcel of land for our new house had been purchased and we are awaiting the day when we start constructing our new house.

Our Convention delegates presented our Scholarship Award to us at our first chapter meeting along with the Delta Zeta record. Scholarship Chairman Nathalie Vayssie informed us our pledges had taken first place among the other sororities' pledges, thus making our last two pledge classes highest in campus scholarship.

We had a well filled date book for Fall Quarter. It included fraternity and sorority exchanges, Homecoming, novice boxing tournament, and two philanthropic projects. For Founder's Day our Spring and Fall pledges, Gamma Lambda initiates and alumnae met at the chapter house for the candlelight ceremony.

DOROTHEA BETTENCOURT, president

Gamma Omicron—San Diego State College

A formal dinner dance at the Manor Hotel celebrated the initiation of: Shirley Baker, Marianne Grillo, Donna Isaak, Norma Leppert, Joyce O'Connor, Lydia Phokianou, and Jodie Smith. Joyce O'Connor and Norma Leppert tied for best pledge award and Jodie Smith received the scholarship prize.

Dorothy McCollom and alumna Margaret Ness were delegates to the National Convention. Fall pledges are: Barbara Bence, Marilyn Clark, Anna Combs, Mary Geyer, Kathy Leeper, Pat McClead, Jean Morris, Connie O'Connor, Rosaria Petrone, and Elaine Sommermeyer. Girls were treated to dinner on Coronado Island after the pledging ceremony at Marilyn Teyssier's home.

Delta Zetas in campus activities this semester are: Dorothy McCollom, vice-president of Panhellenic, AWS board member, and member of Cetza, Freshman and Sophomore honorary service organization. Bonnie Morrison, Joyce O'Connor and Barbara Neal are AWS board members. Shirley Collamer was tapped for Cap and Gown and listed in "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." Dorothy Cox was made a member of Phi Mu Epsilon, honorary science fraternity.

Joan McCollom left San Diego to attend the physical therapy school of USC. Lydia Phokianou, exchange student from Athens, Greece, has left Gamma Omicron to attend UCLA.

Delta Zeta's entry was a glamorous interpretation of "Flamingo" for the Homecoming parade.

We were one of the first sororities on the San Diego State campus to hold a tea for faculty members. We attended the annual Founder's Day Banquet at Henry Langhorst's Restaurant. Awards were presented to chapter members at the banquet by alumnae. Our annual Christmas formal was "Mistletoe Magic."

Alpha Tau—University of Texas

Alpha Taus came back to pledge 28 girls and to initiate Nona Amundson, Alice Hite, Barbara Piper, and Sandra Shane.

Pledges and initiates got together on October 25, 26 for a week-end at Eagle Rock Guest Ranch. On October 29 three of our neighboring fraternities were visited on our first serenade of the year. Representatives from each campus organization of college men had breakfast with us October 3. We enjoyed a coffee honoring parents, alumnae, and visiting SMU Delta Zetas after the SMU-Texas game, and a Miami Triad party.

Alpha Taus are hoping again to be outstanding in intramural sports. Football, table tennis, swimming, and tennis practices are scheduled.

Joanne Copeland has been tapped for Orange Jackets, girls' service organization, elected president of Forensica and reporter of Panhellenic. Jody Camp is the new sponsor of the Ranger Drill Team. Shirley Yerington and Louise Green are dormitory advisors. Jennis Tucker and Meta Mogford are secretary and reporter respec-

From Dallas, we pledged Elizabeth Ades, Patricia Keehan, Marguerite Addison, Betty Lee Master-son, Jenny Powell, Marianna Lundquist, and Mary Martha Scott.

About the greatest thrill we got out of rush was Gloria Swanson's visit with us at our last party. Rushees and members alike were fascinated by her grace and charm. Miss Swanson is an honorary Delta Zeta.

Social functions have included dessert parties given for several of the fraternities on our campus. Before the year is out, we plan to have had all of our campus fraternities over for at least one party.

We are looking forward to our annual Miami Triad party to which we have invited Sigma Chi, Phi Delta Theta, and the Beta Theta Pi.

Alpha Psi built a Homecoming float entitled "Winter Wonderland." Our float was solid white and included a huge crepe paper snowman and two polar bears.

HELEN H. HILSON, president

Delta Beta—Tampa University

Much has been accomplished by our new chapter since its installation last May. Although school has just begun our girls are being showered with honors. Among the recipients of these honors are: Diane Kushmore who was elected vice president of the Women's Athletic Association; Faye Townsend, voted secretary treasurer of the Dormitory Club; Nancy Trousdale, who joined our chapter this semester as a transfer from Florida Southern, named traffic director of the university radio station W.T.U.N. Our president Jean Whyte was recently elected secretary-treasurer of Panhellenic, and Vilma Fernandez is publicity manager of the Women's Athletic Association.

With homecoming just around the corner the entire chapter is busy making plans for the float to be entered in the parade. Last year our group put away all homecoming honors, winning first prize in the float competition, and having one of our own girls, Vilma Fernandez, as homecoming queen. This year hopes are high for a repeat of last year's good fortune. Two of our girls, Peggie Garcia and Mary Jo Capitano, are candidates for homecoming queen.

Our Founder's Day banquet was held at the Columbia Restaurant with members and alumnae from Tampa, Sarasota, Lakeland and St. Petersburg attending.
